ROOSEVELT AT FEAST WITH 1,000 GUESTS

Declares Prof. Starr, Who Predicted His Death, Will Have to Guess Again.

PRAISES SOUDAN REGIME

Again Visits Omdurman and Goes Over Historic Ground with Slatin Pasha—Shuns Another Camel Ride.

By JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN,
Former Assistant Secretary of State,
Correspondent of The New York Times and Chicago Tribune.

KHARTOUM, March 16.—Having seen yesterday the battlefield whereon the Khalifa's power was broken, Col. Roosevelt to-day saw the results of British rule on the Nile in the prosperous, mud-walled city of Omdurman, across the river from Khartoum.

Twelve years ago it was a planless confusion of blind walls, gaping holes, shiftlessness and stupidity. It was contented with its filth and beastliness. To-day, while nothing to brag of architecturally—since it is made up entirely of native houses and bazaars—there is every evidence of peace, contentment, and growing prosperity.

Mr. Roosevelt was so struck with the contrasting conditions that he made this the theme of two brief addresses which he delivered, through an interpreter, one to the boys of the Government school, the other to a delegation of leading merchants from the bazars. To the boys he said:

"I trust you will grow up to do your duty and perpetuate the present conditions."

Mr. Roosevelt touched on American questions for the first time in a speech delivered at a dinner at the Soudan Club to-night at which the guests numbered 1,000. The dinner was given by Slatin Pasha in honor of the ex-President. Col. Roosevelt said that when he left for Africa certain men in America, who were able to dissemble their affection for a certain section of Wall Street, expressed the hope that "every lion would do its duty."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to Prof. Starr, who "conclusively proved" that it was impossible for him to make the trip and live.

"I am delighted to report that the professor, as we say in the vernacular, has to guess again," he added.

Eulogizes Soudan Administration.

Referring to the work done in the Soudan, he spoke of his connection with the Panama Canal. He eulogized the Government of the Soudan, saying:

"I mean this Government, which is giving so large a measure of peace, justice, and prosperity throughout this region."

The Colonel's manner, characteristically emphatic, caused great satisfaction to his British hosts, who expect that his remarks will have an excellent effect.

The party proceeded later to the large parade square, where a regiment, the Twelfth Soudaneese, in khaki, was drawn up, flanked by a native band playing native airs, which aroused expressions of interest from Mrs. Roosevelt. Here again hundreds of native women stood along the street bearing tom-toms and uttering "loo loos."

Col. Roosevelt reviewed the troops after saluting Hutchinson Bey, commanding. Then the party returned to their vehicles and proceeded to visit the bazars.

In the afternoon they attended a gymkhana on the race course outside Khartoum.

Shakes Hands with Sheiks.

Accompanied by his wife, his daughter, and Kermit, along with his British hosts, the Colonel proceeded early this morning to Omdurman. The shores were lined with native boats and the strangely garbed dwellers in the Soudan. As he left the launch he met stately sheiks of various tribes attired in scarlet and purple robes, carrying huge jeweled, gold-trimmed swords. He shook hands with the sheiks.

Then the party, declining to ride camels—yesterday's experience apparently having been sufficient—entered comfortable carts with neat, white uniformed soldiers as the footmen. Led by a quartet of camels ridden by Arabs in scarlet tunics, they dashed through lines of women beating tom-toms and uttering the shrill "loo-loo" cry used for the reception of distinguished visitors and to urge warriors on to battle.

The day ended with another visit to the bazaars, where the Colonel, his wife, and daughter purchased numerous interesting specimens of native work in silver, straw plaiting, and red earthenware.

Makes First Purchase in Months.

Col. Roosevelt stopped at a silversmith's, took out his pocketbook, selected a filigree box for his wife, and through an interpreter discovered that the piece was 60 piasters. He counted the money from his purse, and remarked:

"This is the first time I have handled money or made a purchase in many months."

The whole scene was brilliant in color, as well staged as an extravaganza and as unique and striking in action as the streets of Cairo seen during the World's Fair. Slatin Pasha was mounted on a mettlesome bay stallion

CHURCH BLACK HAND INQUIRY.

Mgr. Falconio Authorizes Investigation by Canton, Ohio, Priest.

CANTON, Ohio, March 16.—The Rev. J. Adolph Cascianelli, D. D., has resigned the pastorate of St. Anthony's Italian Roman Catholic Church of Canton to fill an appointment to investigate the Italian situation in the United States in an effort to get at the root of Italian crime, particularly black hand outrages. It will require about four years. When the report of the findings is made to the Pope it will contain suggestions for the remedy of these conditions from a religious standpoint.

The undertaking is the Rev. Cascianelli's own conception. He went before Mgr. Falconio, Apostolic Delegate to the United States at Washington, and presented his plan. Mgr. Falconio took the matter under advisement with his counselors. Their conference ended with a complete approval of the proposition and the appointment of the Rev. Cascianelli to carry it out.

He will take up his duties Monday, will begin work in this diocese, making Cleveland his temporary headquarters, and will continue his work through one diocese after another until he has covered the entire United States.

"It is the aim of this movement," said the Rev. Cascianelli, "to increase religious restraint upon the Italians of this country in order to help them control their fiery tempers."

The Rev. Adolph Cascianelli was born in Rome April 20, 1880, the son of a prominent and well-to-do lawyer. At the age of 12 years he started to school, and from that time he was continuously a student until in 1904 he received his degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Rome. Father Cascianelli has devoted much time to the study of history and literature. He is an accomplished Latinist, speaking the language as fluently as his native tongue.

Since becoming a priest the Rev. Cascianelli has become interested in missionary work, and his present move is his first step toward a realization of his ambition in this direction. Although still on this side of 30 Cascianelli appears to be a man of 40 years. He says his work in this country has been very trying. He is, however, undaunted by the vast undertaking before him and says that he is ready to give up his life in an attempt to improve the situation of the Italian people in this country.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Mgr. Falconio, the Papal Delegate, could not be seen to-night to confirm the statement that he had authorized an inquiry into Black Hand methods by the Rev. Adolph Cascianelli.

JUDGE PARKER IN GERMANY.

Explores Busy Harbor of Hamburg and Proceeds to Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 16.—Ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, accompanied by his wife, his daughter, grandson, and Mrs. Daniel Manning, arrived from Hamburg this afternoon at the outset of a European tour which will extend until June. The sage of Esopus describes himself as a tourist pure and simple, and insists that there is no ground for the statement that he has come to Europe on a mission.

Mr. Parker is renewing his acquaintance with Germany which began in 1892. He says his present jaunt through the Old World has special charms for him because his nine-year-old grandson is just at the observant age, and the Judge expects to derive most of his pleasure in the next three months in acting as guide, philosopher, and friend to the young hopeful. Other things being equal, he expects to return to New York in time to argue certain cases before the Appellate Division in June. Nothing in Europe, he explains, can keep him away from the Hudson River during the months of July and August.

Yesterday the Judge and his grandson spent the day in exploring the throbbing harbor of Hamburg in a motor launch. The jurist has the impression that no port in the world reveals such a picture of concentrated hustle and bustle as Hamburg.

SLAMMED DOOR ON CARNEGIE.

Mrs. Sage's Darky Footman Thought He Might Be a Charity Seeker.

Special to The New York Times.

PASADENA, Cal., March 16.—Andrew Carnegie had a new experience this morning. Accompanied by Walter Raymond, he went to the Raymond cottage, occupied by Mrs. Russell Sage, to pay his respects. He walked to the door and knocked. The summons was answered by Mrs. Sage's colored footman. He opened the door far enough to stick his shiny nose out, and said, without waiting for any questions:

"No, Sah; it's no use, Sah. Mrs. Sage she does not receive any callahs for nobody or nothing, and specially she wants to see no newspapers nor no picture men. No, Sah; I reckon I can't do nothing for you to-day, Sah. Good-bye."

With that he slammed the door in the face of the philanthropist, thinking him either a reporter, charity solicitor, or impostor. Mr. Raymond came to the rescue. Talking through the wall, he stated that "Mr. Andrew Carnegie wished to call on Mrs. Sage." At the name of Carnegie the colored footman could not get the door open fast enough, and took up considerable time in "Begging pahdons, Sah," adding: "You know, Mr. Carnegie, we are nearly pestered to death by somebody coming to the door."

The two philanthropists spent several minutes renewing an old acquaintance.

LOUISE MONTAGUE DEAD.

Was Famous "Ten Thousand Dollar Beauty" of Forepaugh's Circus.

Louise M. Montague, once heralded over the country as the "Ten Thousand Dollar Beauty," died on Tuesday at her home, 164 Manhattan Avenue. Louise Montague was an actress with Edward E. Rice's company in "The Corsair," and later became a star of David Henderson's "Sindbad the Sailor."

Adam Forepaugh, the circus proprietor, determined to make her beauty the feature of his circus, and in 1878 he engaged her to travel with his circus. She was advertised as the "Ten Thousand Dollar Beauty," and rode in the parades in a gorgeous chariot especially constructed for her.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN HAVE NO NEW TREATY

Report of Agreement on Manchuria and Mongolia Proves to be Without Foundation.

DILKE GIVES HIS VIEWS

Says Europe Regarded Knox Neutralization Plan as Tending to Reopen the Treaty of Portsmouth.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 16.—I have the best authority for stating that there is absolutely no foundation for the Peking report published in the United States of a new treaty between Russia and Japan with specific reference to Manchuria and Mongolia.

"There is nothing in it," said my informant, whose statement may be accepted unreservedly as authoritative.

Apropos of the Far Eastern situation generally and with special reference to the editorial printed by THE NEW YORK TIMES on March 9, complete copies of which came to hand yesterday, and to reports of American dissatisfaction with the British attitude in the Orient which have been cabled here, Sir Charles Dilke wrote and signed the following statement to-day for publication in THE NEW YORK TIMES:

"There does not appear to be much difference of opinion among European powers on the Manchurian Railway question. The American note prepared by the present Administration of the States appeared to Europe generally as tending to reopen the settlement arrived at by American influence in the Treaty of Portsmouth and confirmed by subsequent international instruments.

"To say more than this, I think, would force one to take sides and to spend more time on the consideration of detail than the gravity of the matter appears to demand. No one believes that there is a risk of war, but on the other hand no one who remembers the history of the years before the Russo-Japanese war can expect a cessation of complaints, whether justified or not, that the powers possessing special treaty rights in territories not forming part of their own dominions fail in according exactly equal opportunities to the trade of other commercial powers such as Britain and the States."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Not much attention was paid here to-day to the renewal by Mr. Oishi of the Progressive Party in Japan of the charge that there is an agreement between Japan and Russia regarding their affairs and interests in Manchuria. Officials of the State Department were unwilling to discuss the report beyond saying that the department had no information of any such agreement.

Since the American proposal for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways became public, and especially since the action of Japan and Russia on that proposal, it has been reported from various sources that either an understanding or a more formal agreement had been reached between the two countries for joint or concerted action hereafter regarding their interests in Manchuria.

There has never been any authoritative statement on the subject, however, from either Tokio or St. Petersburg, and so far as this movement is concerned no official will admit that he has received cable information about the matter.

BRAVE RESCUE BY FIREMEN.

Mooney, Hanging to a Ladder by His Legs, Swings Man and Wife to Fellows

Firemen of Truck 9 rescued from a fire which destroyed their apartment early this morning Andrew Mitchell, who lives on the top floor of the three-story tenement at 18 First Street, and his wife. The fire started in the kitchen, and the Mitchells awoke to find rapidly spreading flames cutting off flight to the hallway. They ran to a window in the front of the house and threw it open.

Policeman Roth had sent an alarm, and Fireman John Mooney put up a ladder and climbed up to the window. He got the couple on the ladder with him, and the weight of the three caused the leadder to sag. Orders were shouted to Mooney to stay where he was with the man and woman.

Two firemen went to the fire escape on the third floor of the house at 16 and braced themselves. Mooney helped Mrs. Mitchell t othe top of the ladder and then twisted his legs around the rungs of the ladder and grabbed Mrs. Mitchell underneath the arms. He dropped her over the ladder between it and the building and then swung her to the men on the fire escape a few feet away. The two men seized the woman and managed to get her to the fire escape in safety. Mooney repeated the trick with Mitchell.

The fire was confined to the Mitchell apartment.

HETTY GREEN GAVE $500,000?

Said to be Helping Miss Leary Found a Columbus Art School.

Miss Annie Leary, who is a papal Countess and founded the Christopher Columbus University in Charlton Street in 1907, it was announced yesterday, intends to erect a further memorial to the discoverer of America. The memorial will take the form of an art school on Fifth Avenue, opposite Central Park.

Last night it was reported, although it could not be confirmed, that Mrs. Hetty Green would be associated with Miss Leary in the project and would provide a site for the school at a cost of nearly $500,000.

Miss Leary was out of town yesterday, and Mrs. Green could not be found. The information as to Miss Leary's intentions came from James J. Sugrue, her representative, who said that the ground had already been given for the purpose.

Miss Leary and Mrs. Green have been warm friends for some time. It was Miss Leary who was Mrs. Green's sponsor in her recent appearance among the fashionable.

In order not to miss the many notable features in next Sunday's Times it is important to place orders with news dealers to-day.

CANNON DEFEATED IN VOTE ON RULES

House, by 163 to 111, Upsets His Decision After He Makes a Plea for It.

FIGHT OVER MINOR POINT

Democrats and 42 Insurgents Rally to Defend Calendar Day—House Leaders Angry at Absentees.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Twice to-day, following its rout late yesterday afternoon, the House organization went down to defeat before the combined strength of the Democrats and insurgent Republicans. The final blow came when forty-two insurgents, the greatest number ever mustered, voted with the solid minority to reverse the ruling of Speaker Cannon upon a matter minor in itself, but significant in its final effect. The vote was 163 to 111.

This action came, too, after Representative Dwight, the Republican whip, had indignantly insisted that the regular Republicans should be in their seats, and after the venerable "Uncle Joe" had made a heart to heart talk that was almost pleading in its nature.

This was calendar Wednesday, and under the new rules no business was in order except that upon the calendar. It is the one day on which the Speaker's permission is not needed to bring a bill before the House. The fight came when Representative Crumpacker asked in the interest of expediency, that the House should give its approval to a slight amendment to the Census act, providing that census enumerators should ascertain the "mother tongue" of an alien.

Under any other circumstances the amendment might have been agreed to without a moment's debate. As it was, Representative Fitzgerald of New York, Champ Clark, and other Democrats, quickly raised the point of order that the amendment could not be considered upon calendar Wednesday. At first Representative Mann, a Cannon lieutenant, objected also, but when he saw how the factions were lined up, he voted with the organization.

The Speaker held that the resolution was privileged, in that the census was provided for by the Constitution. He quoted a long list of precedents.

Representative Fitzgerald appealed from his ruling. Possibly anticipating defeat, Representative Crumpacker moved that the amendment and the appeal should go over for one day. Then came the first defeat for the regulars, for the motion was lost by a vote of 153 to 121. Mr. Fitzgerald then insisted upon his appeal.

Just before the final vote was put Speaker Cannon made an unusually earnest speech.

"In ruling, the Chair has followed uniform precedents," he said. "Now in order to protect calendar Wednesday, some say that the Chair should be overruled and that no business of any kind can be considered.

"So far as the Chair personally is concerned, whatever might perhaps be in the minds of one or more members to seemingly rebuke the Chair, through pique or otherwise, the Chair cares nothing about that proposition. If the House sees proper to overrule these precedents and to make this precedent that may come to plague the House in the future, well and good. The House has the power to do it. The Chair does not feel any pride or vanity in the premises.

"Now having said this much, if the Chair has succeeded in placing the House in possession of what caused him to make the ruling he did make, he is quite content, as the Chair would have to be content with what the majority of this House may do. Possibly such action by the majority of the House, under the rules, as the turning down of the present Speaker, would manifest that he is no more nor no less an authority than any Speaker who has preceded him, and would set at rest the question whether the present Speaker 'Doth like a colossus bestride the world.'"

Loud applause, on both sides, greeted the Speaker's spirited closing remarks, but they apparently did not influence the vote which followed.

The regulars mustered almost their entire unpaired strength, but on account of the unusual insurgent defection were unable to prevent the overwhelming overthrow of the Speaker's ruling. The Republicans who voted with the Democrats, making the totals 163 to 111, were:

Ames, Cary, and Cooper of Wisconsin, Davis, Davidson, Dawson, Fish, and Gardner of Massachusetts, Good, Gronna, Haugen, Hayes, Higgins, Hinshaw, Hollingsworth, Howland, and Johnson of Ohio, Kendall and Kinkaid of Nebraska, Copp, Langley, Lenroot, Lindbergh, and McLaughlin of Michigan, Madison and Martin of South Dakota, Miller of Minnesota, Morse, Murdock, Nelson, Norris, Parsons, Pickett, Poindexter, Pray, Stafford, Steenerson, Stevens, Townsend, Volstead, and Wilson of Illinois, and Woods.

There was some applause on the Democratic side and in the insurgent ranks when the overwhelming vote against the Speaker and House organization was announced. The regulars made the best of the situation. The census amendment was forced to take its regular place on the calendar, and the regular order, the call of committees on the calendar, began.

In connection with the rather unexpected developments of the day, Whip Dwight caused it to be known this afternoon that he would insist upon a quorum being present whenever any measure was voted upon. Following the defeat of the regulars yesterday, when the appropriations for maintenance of the automobiles of the Speaker and the Vice President were knocked out of the Legislative Appropriation bill at the last moment, the Republican leaders are in no amiable frame of mind to-night. It is even planned, if there is any further tendency on the part of Republicans to absent themselves without leave, to invoke the old Crisp rule, which makes attendance obligatory under penalty of a forfeiture of the day's pay.

The Washburn amendment to the Administration Railroad bill providing that the Inter-State Commerce Commission shall supervise the issuance of stocks and bonds and fix the price at which they shall be offered for sale, instead of a flat provision in the bill restricting the price to the par value, was adopted to-day by the House Committee on Inter-State Commerce.

The committee has hopes of ordering the bill out of the committee with a favorable report to the House before the end of the week.

TALKED WITH CRAIG, OTHERWISE DR. COOK

N. O. Winter of Toledo Brings from South America a Signature the Doctor Gave Him.

THE EXPLORER CALM AS EVER

"It Will Soon Blow Over," Said He of the Troublesome Queries of Reporters—Admitted Nothing to Winter.

The first man to arrive in the United States who has met Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the missing polar explorer, traveling in South America as "F. Craig," is Nevin O. Winter, a lawyer of Toledo, Ohio, and the author of two books on Mexico and Guatemala. Mr. Winter got here yesterday on the Royal Mail Steam Packet Oruba, via Panama, with an interesting story to tell of his experiences with "F. Craig," otherwise Cook.

Mr. Winter showed incidentally a card bearing in pencil the signature "F. Craig," which Dr. Cook had written and had given to him as his card. Here is "F. Craig's" signature, reproduced from the card:

F. Craig

The handwriting, as will quickly be seen, bears all the characteristics of Dr. Cook's, especially noticeable in the capital "F." Here is a signature of Dr. Cook, reproduced from his signed photograph in his book, "To the Top of the Continent," the famous work telling of his Mount McKinley climb:

F. A. Cook

"I first meet Dr. Cook on Jan. 15, at the Hotel Phoenix in Buenos Ayres, where he was staying with his wire as 'Mr. and Mrs. F. Craig," said Mr. Winter. "I didn't know then he was Cook's and during the two weeks I spent in the hotel I became very friendly with him. We used to have long talks together. He seemed just a modest, unassuming American. He told me that his wife and he were the only two persons who spoke English on the Spanish liner Cadiz, in which they had traveled to Buenos Ayres from Barcelona, and that made the trip very lonesome for them.

"None of the newspapers in Buenos Ayres had any idea then that the much-discussed arctic traveler was in their city. I was being shown over the offices of La Prenza, the big Argentine newspaper. One of its features was a luxurious suite of rooms for the reception of distinguished foreigners. While I was admiring the rooms the foreign editor said to me:

"'We entertained one of your distinguished Americans here about eight years ago. His name was Dr. Cook.'

"When I left Buenos Ayres for Valparaiso by train my acquaintance, 'Craig,' told me he was going in the German liner Osiris as far as Punta Arenas in the Strait of Magellan, and after spending two weeks there would go on to Valparaiso. So I did not see any more of the Craigs until I arrived at Valparaiso in February. Then I found them at the Hotel Royal, where William Jennings Bryan was staying with his family.

"On my way across the Andean Railroad I had heard that 'F. Craig' had been identified by F. L. Upjohn of New York, who had met him on the Osiris, as Dr. Cook, the missing explorer. When I got to Valparaiso the hotel corridors were swarming with reporters and photographers who were trying to interview 'Craig.' They sent up their cards, but he refused to see them. Then I met Upjohn, who told me positively that it was Dr. Cook. He had recognized Cook in spite of his having shaved off his mustache.

"The Craigs did not come into the dining room that night, so after dinner I went to their apartment. After a few questions about the trip through the Strait of Magellan I said to 'Craig' that I understood from my friend, Mr. Upjohn, that he was Dr. Cook, and as we had been on friendly terms I would take any message he liked to give me to the waiting American newspaper correspondents. He calmly replied that he had nothing to say, neither admitting nor denying his identity. It would soon blow over, he remarked casually.

"Then I asked him if he would give me his card as a souvenir of our meeting, and I handed him mine.

"'I have no card with me,' said he, 'but I will write my name for you on another card.'

"Then he wrote in pencil the signature 'F. Craig' on the back of another card and handed it to me. The next morning I went to a book store and compared it with the signature of Dr. Cook in an English magazine of last September. I noticed that the 'F' was written in Spanish style, which is not done by one American in a thousand. I also recognized both 'Mr. Craig' and his wife by their portraits in the magazine as Dr. and Mrs. Cook.

"I met them afterward at the Hotel Oddo in Santiago and talked with 'Craig,' while the reporters hung around the place night and day. He still refused to admit his identity. The Chilean newspapers were very smart. They published snapshots of the couple under reproductions of photographs taken in Copenhagen last September.

"I spoke to Mr. Bryan about Dr. Cook when he was in the hotel, but he did not evince much interest in Cook. His daughter, however, was anxious to have me point Dr. Cook out to her when he entered the hotel.

"In the last conversation I had with 'Craig' he told me he was going up to Mendoza, in the mountains, where it was not so hot as in Santiago, and did not expect to return to the United States until the middle of June."

Mr. Winter added that Dr. Cook looked well, but his wife did not appear to be in such good health. The coast climate had not agreed with her.

J. H. Spencer, another passenger on the Oruba, who had come from Valparaiso via Panama, said he saw Dr. Cook driving in the streets of Valparaiso with his wife and was in the same hotel with them, but did not make their acquaintance.

PEARY MESSAGE PICKED UP.

Bottle Thrown from the Roosevelt Found Off Irish Coast.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

QUEENSTOWN, March 16.—A bottle was picked up to-day near Kinsale, Ireland, containing a letter dated Sept. 2, 1909, stating that the bottle was dropped overboard from Commander Peary's arctic ship Roosevelt in latitude 61 degrees 45 minutes. The Roosevelt was then proceeding southwardly, after wintering on the north coast of Grant Land, in latitude 82 degrees 30 minutes.

The letter adds that the object of dropping the bottle was to ascertain the rate of the current on the Labrador coast. The letter was addressed "McMillan, Freeport, Maine."

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 16.—Commander Peary, who arrived here to-day, said that he knew nothing of the bottle picked up off the Irish Coast. Somebody else on the Roosevelt probably threw it overboard, he added.

NO PEARY REPLY TO BROWN.

Explorer Merely Says Governor Has Privilege of His Opinion.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 16.—"If I had known that I was persona non grata," said Commander Peary on his arrival here to-day, "I would not have permitted any engagements to be made for me in Atlanta or elsewhere in Georgia. I have read Gov. Brown's remarks as reported in the papers. Doubtless he is within his prerogative in expressing his views of me and my work. As a visitor in Atlanta I do not care to discuss the matter further. If I had known that sort of feeling prevailed I certainly would not have come here."

When Commander Peary was told that there was a general feeling that he ought to submit proofs to Copenhagen University he asked this question:

"Would you consider it the proper thing for an American naval officer, an American citizen, to go to a foreign country and ask that country to pass upon a discovery made in an American ship under American direction?"

The attitude of the public is not very friendly to Peary. Both The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal carry editorials criticising Peary for not submitting proofs to Congress, and saying that the explorer has only himself to blame for the criticism he is receiving.

Gov. Brown's Peary interview is the first he has given out since being inaugurated. Many are saying that while Peary may not have reached the pole, he has at least the distinction of having forced Gov. Brown to talk.

HOTEL CADILLAC SOLD.

New Owner Takes Charge April 1 and More Stories Will Then Be Added.

The Hotel Cadillac, in Times Square, has been sold and will pass into the hands of its new owner on the first of next month. Negotiations have been pending for the past three weeks, and the time of delivery was agreed upon yesterday.

Frank McNamee, manager of the Equitable Life Insurance Company at Albany, made the offer for the hotel, which Wallick brothers, who have owned and successfully run the hotel for the last five years, accepted.

It is presumed that Mr. McNamee is acting as agent for the purchaser whose name is withheld at this time. It is said that the hotel will be altered, and that additional stories will be added. It is now eight stories in height and adjoins the new Hotel Rector, now under construction, which will be eighteen stories when completed.

L. C. Wallick confirmed the report of the sale, but declined to make any statement at this time.

The Wallick Brothers own the Hotel Secor in Toledo, Ohio, but they intend to continue in the hotel business in this city.

LAWYER DIES OF DOG BITE.

Arthur H. Wadick Succumbs to Rabies Despite Pasteur Treatment.

Arthur Howard Wadick, 35 years old, a well-known Westchester lawyer and brother-in-law of Municipal Court Judge Peter A. Shiel, died yesterday at 683 East 230th Street of rabies. His death was peaceful, but he had suffered terrible agony when hope for him was finally given up.

According to Dr. T. D. W. Pinckney of 701 East 212th Street, who attended Mr. Wadick before his death the deceased was bitten by a mongrel dog about a month ago while walking near his home. He called at the Pasteur Institute in West Twenty-third Street, every day after that, taking one injection a day until he had taken eighteen.

Mr. Wadick went out soon afterward and got chilled through. Subsequently he became very ill. Dr. Pinckney was called in. Both he and the Pasteur Institute did all they could for the stricken man, but he could not be saved.

He was born in Jersey City, the son of Richard and Mary Wadick. In 1881 he moved to Westchester, was graduated from the public schools there, and in 1898 from the Law School of New York University. He leaves a wife, who was Miss Marry Fitzsimmons Molloy, whom he married in 1903.

BELMONT CHECKS FOR ACTORS

Eleanor Robson's Disbanded Company Reimbursed for Salaries Lost.

It became known yesterday that August Belmont, who recently married Eleanor Robson, the actress, had reimbursed the members of Miss Robson's company for the salaries they lost by the cutting short of her season. Miss Robson was to have played out the season in "The Dawn of a To-morrow," but she preferred to get married. The actors who had been depending upon their salaries to tide them over the Summer found themselves without engagements at the worst possible time of the year. So, just before he sailed for Europe, Mr. Belmont mailed substantial checks to every person who had been with Miss Robson, not only paying them for the time they would be out of employment, but adding a little as a sort of reversed wedding present. The business manager of the company, for example, received a check for $2,000, which was more than his salary for the remaining weeks of the season.

At Liebler & Co.'s offices yesterday afternoon it was stated that they had no official information as to the details of Mr. Belmont's generosity, but their knowledge of his habits and of Miss Robson's, made them confident that the actors had been the gainers by the star's marriage. It had always been Miss Robson's custom to make every member of her company a substantial Christmas present, and to make them a wedding present seemed exactly what she would do.

PRESSES FOR A FULL CORRUPTION INQUIRY

Newcomb Cites Five Suspicious Instances as a Reason Why Legislature Should Go Further.

ALLDS EXPERTS DISAGREE

Carvalho Not Willing to Go as Far as Auburn Man Who Is Learned in Many Things.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 16.—With the Allds bribery investigation in the Senate drawing to a close, Senator Josiah T. Newcomb of New York made a statement to-night in which he declared that he would press for a broader investigation of legislative corruption. He quoted from the records of the present inquiry, the report of the legislative committee that investigated the insurance companies in 1906, and the records of the Senate and Assembly of last session to show that there was absolute justification for his demand.

Senator Newcomb, who is really responsible for the Allds inquiry, is the father of a concurrent resolution providing for a general investigation. His measure names men in both houses of the Legislature known for more or less independence of the respective machines as members of the prospective committee. It has remained in the Senate Finance Committee undoubtedly because the present investigation has engrossed the attention of the Senate. Enough is known, however, of the attitude of the Republican organization, as voiced recently by Speaker Wadsworth in the Assembly, to show that the Newcomb proposition will meet with strenuous objection.

Newcomb's Five Reasons.

There are five specific matters set forth in the Newcomb statement as furnishing sufficient ground for a further inquiry. These are:

1—The sworn statement of Senator Benn Conger during the Allds investigation that "somebody in the Legislature" made a demand for $10,000 "to protect certain legislation," in 1905.

2—The testimony given by Senator Conger with reference to the payment of $5,000 to Col. George W. Dunn, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, in 1904, in return for his promise that he would do what he could to protect the bridge companies from further "strike" legislation.

3—The statement contained in the report of the Armstrong Insurance Investigation Committee in 1906 "that the insurance companies had formed an offensive and defensive alliance to procure or prevent the passage of laws, affecting not only insurance but a great variety of important interests."

4—The charge made last year on the floor of the Assembly by Assemblyman William S. Bennett of New York to the effect that Ray B. Smith, then as now Clerk of the Assembly, had been instrumental in the defeat of certain legislation.

5—The method pursued in running the bill, enlarging the powers of the Public Service Commissions "into a blind alley," thus encompassing its defeat in the Senate at the last session of the Legislature.

In quoting testimony with reference to the alleged demand for a ten-thousand-dollar corruption fund in 1905, Senator Newcomb calls attention to the fact that the name of the man who made the charge is given. This was Fred W. Sage, who was an agent for the Penn Bridge Company of Beaver Falls, Penn. Senator Conger swore that Mr. Sage was alive. So far the tribunal which is trying the Allds charges has taken no step to find Mr. Sage and question him on the subject.

Experts Take Up the Day.

Except for twenty minutes just before adjournment, when Senator Jotham P. Allds himself was on the stand, the testimony of experts occupied both the forenoon and the afternoon session to-day at the Allds investigation. Alfred H. Hamilton, the "chemist microscopist" of Auburn, and David N. Carvalho, the New York handwriting expert, both witnesses for Senator Allds, were the witnesses. The crowd of spectators listened with apparent relish to the duel of words between James W. Osborne, counsel for Senator Conger, and the Auburn expert when the latter was taken in hand for cross-examination.

"Stub 28," from which the boodle check was detached, was again submitted to the Auburn man by Mr. Littleton of counsel for Senator Allds. He testified that the words "Albany matter," the letter "S" in "N. Y. drafts," "Cash $500," and the retouching of the first "0" in the amount $6,000, which had been changed so as to make it a "5," had been done within the last six weeks.

Hiram G. Moe, when he described his alleged bribery expedition to the Capitol on the last day of the 1901 session, had testified that the words "Albany matter" had been entered on the stub on April 24, 1901, the day when he returned to his home in Groton after his journey to Albany to dispense the $6,000. He had also testified that he had entered on the stub the words "Bridge Co." on that date.

"Did you form any opinion as to whether the same hand that wrote the old matter on the stub also wrote what you describe as having been written within the last six weeks?" asked Mr. Littleton of Mr. Hamilton.

"I have, Sir," said the expert from Auburn. "In my opinion it was written by the same man at remotely different periods; so much so that the habit of writing had been radically changed. The words 'Bridge Co.,' in my opinion, were written at the time when the old writing was put on the stub."

An Expert in Many Things.

This completed the direct examination, and Mr. Hamilton was turned over to Mr. Osborne for cross-examination. His ready and frequently pointedly witty answers caused delight among the spectators. Time and time again he turned the laugh of the galleries on his interrogator, who frequently seemed both vexed and temporarily nonplussed.

Mr. Osborne first tackled Mr. Hamilton on his qualifications as an expert. It came out that the same year that he graduated from the pharmaceutical department of Columbia University he had qualified as an expert in firearms.

"Did you get your knowledge of bullets by shooting out of the back door of your drug store?" asked Mr. Osborne.

"I did not," said the expert. "I fired bullets into dead bodies in New York City."

Mr. Osborne then read a newspaper advertisement in which Mr. Hamilton was declared to be like Sherlock Holmes, both in his methods of induction and in appearance.

"Do you expect this honorable Senate to believe that?" asked the lawyer.

"That's for the honorable to say," replied the expert.

Reading from a pamphlet which Mr. Hamilton admitted he circulated for advertising purposes, Mr. Osborne then asked this question:

"Now I ask you if these are not your qualifications as an expert witness—chemistry, microscopy, handwriting, ink analysis, typewriting, photography, finger prints, toxicology, gunshot wounds, revolvers, guns, and cartridges, bullet identification, gun powders, nitroglycerine, dynamite, high explosives, blood and other stains, human, &c., cause of death, suicide against homicide, embalming fluids, determination of the distance a revolver was held when discharged, whether a given bullet was fired from a given revolver, anatomy, and several other subjects?"

"Didn't you testify once, in order to support the signature in a disputed will, that a man wrote it while sitting in a rocking chair with a pen one nub of which was broken, on a corrugated book?" asked Mr. Osborne.

"Cut out your rocking chairs, and I did so testify," said the expert.

"Didn't the Surrogate say that the Hamilton theory of the production of that signature seemed neither natural nor reasonable?"

"That was the Surrogate, but the Appellate Division didn't."

Likened to Sherlock Holmes.

Mr. Osborne resumed reading of the pamphlet entitled "The Man From Auburn," which Mr. Hamilton admitted he was sending around to lawyers for advertising purposes. Mr. Osborne read:

> Expert Hamilton's almost incredible work has solved many mysteries. When Dr. A. Conan Doyle conceived his world famous character of Sherlock Holmes, he probably little thought that there was a man in this State who was destined to be almost an exact materialization of the famous detective, both as to methods and to a great extent as to personal appearance.

"You had that printed in your book, did you approve of it?" asked Mr. Osborne. "I am not to blame for that," said the expert. "It is an effusion of a reporter for a Rochester paper."

Q.—Why, you printed it and circulated it among lawyers? A.—That was reporter's effusion in one of the Rochester papers.

Q.—And you adopted it in your book? A.—I put it in there, yes.

Q.—Well, do you expect the Senators to believe that? A.—Well, you will have to ask them.

"I hardly think that would be necessary," said Mr. Osborne dryly. Then he went on reading from the prospectus:

> He is Albert H. Hamilton of Auburn, who attracted attention in this city recently through his work in the Schultz, Kelly, and McCormick murder case, which District Attorney Gilbert and his counsel, George Raines, have declared did more to convict the three murderers of Edward Paulman than anything else in the case. Until a few years ago he devoted his time entirely to his druggist business.

"That is the reporter's version again," said Mr. Hamilton.

"Well, you printed it and paid for the printing and sent it out?" said Mr. Osborne.

"So I did," said the witness. Mr. Osborne read on:

> And his study of bullets, firearms, and handwriting, in addition to the effects of gunshot wounds, poisons, and their effects, identification of human blood, anonymous letter writing, including those written under the typewriter, and finger prints—

The spectators laughed, but the expert did not seem to mind this lack of serious appreciation.

A Letter from an Admirer.

"Now, here's a good one," said Mr. Osborne. "Do you approve of this one, too?" He read:

> Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 9, 1907.
> Dear Mr. Hamilton: I want to say you are one of the most competent and interesting witnesses I have ever listened to. A local lawyer told me this morning that he heard your testimony in the Schultz murder trial, and you were the ablest witness he ever heard.

"That was simply that man's think-so," said Mr. Hamilton modestly.

"Well, you thought it was so good you printed it."

"I put it in for what it was worth," said the man from Auburn.

Q.—Well, what do you think it is worth? A.—I have no thoughts on the matter.

Q.—Thinking so little about it, you just put it in? A.—I leave that for you.

Q.—Now, Mr. Hamilton—or, Dr. Hamilton—when did you first begin your study of ink? A.—In 1879.

Q.—That is, before you began your study of pharmacy? A.—At the time I began my study of pharmacy.

Q.—Did you begin studying bullets at the same time? A.—Before that time.

Q.—And so you carried along your parallel studies of pharmacy, bullets, and ink? A.—Yes.

"Marvelous, marvelous," said Mr. Osborne under his breath. The witness heard it, but did not even smile.

"I have qualified upon those subjects in the courts," said the witness modestly.

His Test of the Stub.

Asked about his tests of the check stub, Mr. Hamilton said that he had applied fumes of hydrochloric acid put on the point of a toothpick to the stub and thus had ascertained which of the writing was in old ink and which in new, and thus had reached his conclusions.

"What deductions did you make from that test?" asked Mr. Osborne.

"That a fraudulent attempt was made to bamboozle the Senate by the introduction of this check," said the man from Auburn. On motion of Mr. Osborne this answer was stricken from the record as not responsive.

Try as Mr. Osborne might he could not budge the expert, who held firmly to his testimony regarding the old and the new matter on the stub. Mr. Osborne got him to admit, though, that many factors entered into the transformation of ink and any different conditions depending on the quality or constituent parts of the fluid might make a difference in the time required to give it an old and faded appearance. Mr. Osborne also got the witness to admit that the check had not been altered. The check was for $6,500. The expert testified that in his opinion the original writing on the stub and the check were of the same date.

"Can you ascribe any motive why a man should write $6,500 on the check and $6,000 on the stub?" asked Mr. Osborne. The expert said he could not.

Carvalho Not With Hamilton.

The testimony of David N. Carvalho followed and differed from that of Mr. Hamilton in many respects. He agreed, though, that the words "Albany matter" on the stub were of recent date.

"It may be six months old," said Mr. Carvalho. "I can only tell from my experience with ink. I have written a book on the subject which is regarded as a standard."

Mr. Carvalho said he had nothing to challenge in the appearance of the $6,500 or the stub. Pressed by Mr. Osborne he declared that he could not testify to any such changes as were testified to by Mr. Hamilton. Mr. Osborne evidently was much elated at the conflict in the testimony of Allds's experts.

The brief testimony of Senator Allds just before the hearing closed had to do with $1,000 which it has been shown he sent to Colgate & Co. a few days after the close of the 1901 legislative session, when Moe and Conger testified they paid him a bribe of $1,000. Mr. Allds said that he colud swear positively that the money came from his aunt, Zula P. Chase, who has since died, but that after such a lapse of time he could not possibly tell by whom or how the money was placed in his hands.

Vote to be Taken March 29.

Contrary to the decision reached last week there will be a short session of the Senate to-morrow, when the taking of testimony by both sides will close. Senator Benn Conger, according to an announcement made to-day, will be recalled to the stand after A. S. Osborne of Rochester, the handwriting expert engaged by his counsel, and an expert chemist have given their testimony with reference to the writing on "Stub 28."

With the testimony completed the summing up will go over until next week. Tuesday's hearing, according to the present arrangement, will be devoted to the final address of Martin W. Littleton for Senator Allds, and the following day to the closing speech of James W. Osborne, counsel for Senator Conger.

It was decided to-day that after the leaders have had their final say the Senators should have a week to examine and ponder over the evidence. The Senate debate and final vote were set down to-day for Tuesday, March 29. By that time seven weeks will have been devoted to the sensational bribery investigation, to the exclusion of almost all the regular Senate business.

AUBURN, N. Y., March 16.—Many residents of Groton to-day received a circular letter sent by a resident of Chenango County to determine the probity of Deacon Hiram G. Moe. It read:

> To the Citizens of Groton:
>
> If you will please answer the following questions in writing over your own signatures you will confer a great favor upon many who are anxious to know the truth. Are you personally acquainted with Deacon Hiram G. Moe of your town?
>
> What is your opinion of his character as a man of truth?
>
> Do you believe he could have been induced to make the statement under oath that he did at Albany if it were not true?
>
> What do the people of Groton generally think of his character for veracity?
>
> Are you interested with the Deacon in business, politics, or religion?
>
> Anything you can add that would strengthen or break down the Deacon's testimony would help a lot of us who would like to know who "lies," the Deacon or the other fellow. Yours truly,
>
> BENJAMIN M. PEARINE.

Many prominent citizens signed a strong indorsement of Moe, replying affirmatively to all the questions and saying:

> We believe Hiram G. Moe to be a man of high character and one of absolute honesty and truth and could not be induced to make a wrong representation or tell a lie for any consideration. There is no one in this county that stands higher in the estimation of his neighbors than Hiram G. Moe. He has the absolute confidence of every man, woman, and child in this locality. His habits are first class; he is a consistent member of the church, and we believe him to be absolutely honest and trustworthy in every way.

Mr. Pearine stated that he would publish the replies in Allds's district.

STARK ACCUSED OF PLAGIARISM

Passages from His Book Paralleled with Frank Bergen's Old Lecture.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 16.—James H. Stark of Boston, author of "The Loyalists of Massachusetts; or, The Other Side of the American Revolution," is accused of having copied freely in that work, without giving credit, from a lecture which Frank Bergen, chief counsel for the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, gave in Westminster Chapel for the benefit of the Charity Coal Fund of Trinity Church twelve years ago under the title of "The Other Side of the Declaration of Independence," and which Mr. Bergen subsequently, for the benefit of the Charity Coal Fund, published in pamphlet form.

The Rev. John R. Atkinson, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church here, where Mr. Bergen's lecture was first delivered, drew the "deadly parallel" between Mr. Stark's and Mr. Bergen's productions yesterday. Mr. Stark published his book recently. The Rev. Mr. Atkinson's attention was called to it by a review in THE TIMES on Sunday, Feb. 20. Early in both works, according to the Rev. Mr. Atkinson, these identical passages occur:

Bergen's "Other Side of the Declaration of Independence," 1898:	Stark's "Loyalists of Massachusetts; or, The Other Side of the American Revolution," published recently:
Our native historians and the common run of Fourth of July orators have treated their countrymen badly for a hundred years. They have given the world to understand that we are the degenerate children of a race of giants, statesmen, and moralists who flourished for a few years a century ago and then passed away. The truth, I think, is different. An impartial examination of the records would probably show that we are wiser, better, more benevolent, quite as patriotic, and as brave as the standard heroes of 1776.	Our native historians and common run of Fourth of July orators have treated their countrymen badly for a hundred years. They have given the world to understand that we are the degenerate children of a race of giants, statesmen, and moralists who flourished for a few years a century ago and then passed away. An impartial examination of the records would show that we are wiser, better, more benevolent, quite as patriotic and brave as the standard heroes of 1776.

The Rev. Mr. Atkinson says that "Mr. Stark in less than twenty pages has taken many choice bits from Mr. Bergen's lecture and reset them with scarcely the change of a word. On the following pages of Mr. Stark's book, mosaics from Mr. Bergen's will be found, viz.: 18, 21, 22, 25, 35, 36, 37, 41, 47, 70, 74, 75, and 83."

Mr. Bergen's pamphlet had only 46 pages, while Mr. Stark's had 500 pages. In spite of the similar passages Mr. Bergen's purpose in his pamphlet, according to the Rev. Mr. Atkinson, was to show we were better than our forefathers, while Mr. Stark's purpose in his book seems to be to show that we are quite as bad.

"Mr. Bergen writes so much better than the common run of men and so vastly better than Mr. Stark that the latter author was right to draw as much as he could from the original author," said the Rev. Mr. Atkinson yesterday. "But why not mention Mr. Bergen's name at least once—why not give the name of the booklet—or at least, as a charitable man, say that an increase in the sale of the lecture would help our charity coal fund?"

BOSTON, Mass., March 16.—J. H. Stark is out of the country, and will not be back for two months. His attention was not called to the Bergen pamphlet before he left here.

CANADA EXPECTS TRADE WAR.

Plans to Levy Heavy Surtax on American Products.

OTTAWA, March 16.—Canada has read between the lines of Washington dispatches that a tariff war with the United States is inevitable, and has accepted the situation. The expectation is that on April 1 Canadian goods will be assessed a 25 per cent. surtax, and that soon afterward Canada will levy 33 1-3 per cent. surtax on American goods coming into Canada.

The Administration is deriving comfort from the attitude of its political opponents. The conservatives press, which usually misses no chance to attack the Government, has expressed approval of the course which Finance Minister Fielding has followed in the negotiations.

Germany is preparing to take advantage of the situation. Cable advices state that an army of invasion in the shape of German commercial travelers is preparing to descend upon Canada, and already the country is being flooded with catalogues from German manufacturers. English houses are also showing greater activity.

Canada is meeting with success, it is claimed, in finding markets for commodities which will be shut out of the United States by a tariff war.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The state of the tariff negotiations with Canada remains unchanged. The Dominion officials have steadily declined to make any concessions whatever in favor of the United States. In justification of that position they point out that the American tariff is very much higher than that of Canada, and for the United States to insist that it is entitled to the same rates as have been given to France and other countries would be an unwarranted challenge of their treaty making rights.

No one in authority here is willing to hazard an opinion as to what the outcome of the conroversy with Canada will be, but it is known that the President has indicated his purpose to allow the maximum rate to go into operation on March 31 in case Canada persists in her present course.

Negotiations with France are proceeding almost continuously, and the fact that some progress has been made leads State Department officials to believe that a settlement will ultimately be reached. The last session of the tariff experts lasted about twelve hours without intermission. In explanation it was stated that the French Ambassador and the tariff experts of the United States were taking up one by one the tariff schedules for the two countries and each was making concessions of more or less importance.

At this time there seems to be no insurmountable obstacle in the way of an ultimate adjustment, and the opinion was expressed to-day that possibly by the end of the present week the President might be in a position to issue his proclamation granting France the minimum rates of the Payne-Aldrich act.

KEENE'S POOL STOCK USED IN SHORT SALES

Veteran Manipulator Admits His Brokers Delivered 4,000 Shares to Cover Selling for a Fall.

START OF HOCKING CRASH

Lawyer Wolf Openly Charges Him with Violating the Pool Agreement—He Shifts Responsibility to Brokers.

Four thousand shares of James R. Keene's stock in the Columbus and Hocking pool, which in its collapse caused the failure of two Stock Exchange houses, was used to make deliveries against short sales on Jan. 18 and 19 by Mr. Keene's own brokers. This fact, which came out yesterday at a hearing before Commissioner Alexander in the bankruptcy proceedings of J. M. Fiske & Co., one of the suspended firms, at last let the light in on the selling which started the Hocking crash on Jan. 19. It was met by Mr. Keene on the witness stand with the assertion that the brokers sold for their own account and without his knowledge.

But Attorney Ralph Wolf, who represents the receiver of the Fiske firm, made the charge openly in court yesterday when challenged by Keene's lawyers that the aged manipulator had violated his pool agreement not to sell out on his colleagues. The facts which go to back up yesterday's development form a chain of evidence around the causes of the crash.

It has already appeared in the bankruptcy proceedings that Keene on Dec. 9, when, by his own admissions, the market for Hocking was getting very thin, called on the pool participants to send in the numbers of the certificates they held as pool stock. That Keene on the evening of Jan. 18 talked pessimistically to two of his employes, and they then got him to sell 500 shares of stock which he carried for them, is also in evidence. And Keene has admitted that on the morning of the 19th, before the market opened, he called upon the members of the pool to buy Hocking up to the amount of their several participations.

Another of the important facts upon which Mr. Wolf predicated his charge is that on Jan. 19 Mr. Keene held a total of 7,650 shares of Hocking, of which 6,100 were pool stock. Yesterday there was a call for the certificate numbers of Keene's own shares in the pool, and the numbers of 3,300 shares were produced. The speculator said that the rest of his Hocking stock must have been acquired after Dec. 5, and that no record of the numbers was taken. Whether there was any relation between the absence of the certificate numbers of 4,350 shares and the 4,000 shares, which the brokers delivered against their short sales, is a question which the receiver and his counsel are much interested in, particularly as Mr. Keene said he did not know yesterday whether the brokers had put back in his account the Hocking stock so delivered.

Forgot a Strange Agreement.

His explanation of the short sales by the brokers brought from him also the statement that this firm had a right to do what they did under a verbal agreement which he made with them five years ago to the effect that they might use stock carried for him for any purpose, provided they were ready to make delivery to him upon twenty-four hours' notice. He forgot this agreement when he entered into the Hocking pool, and placed pool stock with the house in question, the name of which is for the present withheld by the receiver. None the less he considered the agreement quite an ordinary one to make, and never had occasion to talk with the brokers about it during the five years that it was in force.

Mr. Wolf led up to the matter by asking Mr. Keene if he thought that the members of the pool had a right to sell their pool stock.

"They may have had a legal right," said Mr. Keene, "but not a moral one."

"And you believed that you were bound not to sell your pool stock?" Mr. Wolf demanded.

The witness hesitated for some moments.

"Well," he said finally, "my belief was that I didn't intend to sell it."

Then Mr. Wolf called for the production of the numbers of the certificates of Keene's pool shares, with the result already alluded to. Mr. Wolf remarked in connection with the call of Dec. 9 for the certificate numbers of the shares held by members of the pool:

"You thought it important that you should be apprised if any members were selling out."

"The principal reason," said Keene, "was that there had been a continual dribbling of stock, and I had made complaint to Haskins & Lathrop, who were the chief holders in the pool and undertook to get a check on it by taking the numbers. The members, however, had an undoubted right to buy and sell the stock individually; they all did it, and I did it myself."

"Did they have the right to sell the pool stock?" asked Mr. Wolf.

Keen dodged.

"For instance," he said, "one gentleman had standing for him with other brokers 50 or 60 per cent. more stock than his subscription called for. These brokers were acting as his brokers and had agreed to carry certain shares so long as the market supported them. If the market went down the brokers would have to sell unless—"

"I asked you," said Mr. Wolf, "what the agreement showed of which you had knowledge as to the right of members to sell their pool stock."

Keene then admitted that the agreement did bind the members not to sell.

"Didn't you tell them that you wouldn't sell your pool stock?" demanded Mr. Wolf.

"I don't think so," said Mr. Keene; "that was understood."

Admits Pool Stock Was Sold.

"And as a matter of fact haven't you been told that your pool stock was sold?"

"Delivered!" snapped Mr. Keene.

"Sold," cried Mr. Wolf.

"I was told on Feb. 23, two days after the last hearing," admitted the witness, "that a part of my stock was used by my brokers for deliveries against certain sales which they made for their own account."

"Delivered to cover short sales?" pressed Mr. Wolf.

"Yes," said Mr. Keene.

"And that was on the 18th and 19th of January?"

"I was told so on Feb. 23."

"Without your knowledge?"

"Without my knowledge."

"How much was thus delivered?" was the next question.

"I was so astonished that I didn't ask definitely," replied the witness, "but I believe it was some 3,000 or 4,000 shares. The brokers merely told me that they had used some of my stock to deliver on sales made for their own account."

"They told you they had used your pool stock for these deliveries?"

"They said they had used some of my pool stock."

"Didn't your broker say he had used your pool stock exclusively?"

"No."

"Didn't he say that he didn't have any other Hocking stock in his office?"

"No"—this time with a little show of anger.

Did he tell you at what price he sold it?"

The question led to a row between counsel, Mr. Keene's lawyer, Edmund L. Mooney, insisting that Mr. Wolf had all the data before him as to what the broker did and that he was merely bringing out the facts through Mr. Keene for effect. Mr. Wolf admitted that the brokers had furnished him data concerning their short sales of Hocking, and handed Mr. Keene a paper indicating that the profit on the 4,000 shares sold short, for which Keene's stock was delivered, amounted to $350,000. Mr. Keene repeated his reply that he was so astonished at the admission of his brokers as to the delivery of the pool stock against their short sales that he didn't ask questions as to the details. He did add that it was none of his business what the profits had been.

But he had recovered from his astonishment when the brokers explained about the five-year-old agreement. He admitted that he recognized the existence of this agreement when the brokers called it to his attention, and remembered that it had been made verbally. Mr. Wolf wanted to know more in detail what the agreement was and Mr. Keene replied:

Power Vested in Brokers.

"That at all times they might sell for themselves or any of their customers any stock that they might be carrying for me, with the reservation that on twenty-four hours' notice I could settle up my account and get my stock. They insisted upon this when I opened the account with them, for they stood to be caught for $1,500,000 in the Northern Pacific panic if settlement had been insisted upon at the high prices, and did not make any large accounts unless they were thus protected."

Mr. Keene said that he did not recall any other instances of any importance in which the brokers had used his stock for deliveries against their own sales, although there may have been one or two. He didn't remember what these were.

"Was this agreement ever discussed during the five years in which it was in force until this transaction?" demanded Mr. Wolf.

"No," admitted Mr. Keene, and then he added: "I knew my rights and they knew theirs."

"Well, did you think that under that agreement they had the right to use your pool stock for deliveries on their short sales?" asked Mr. Wolf, quick to take advantage of the opening.

"They had a right to use all the stock they were carrying for me," explained the witness. "They didn't know what was pool stock and what wasn't. They didn't know anything about the pool."

"Let's see," Mr. Wolf came back, "wasn't the account with them labeled 'H. P. account'?"

"No," said Mr. Keene.

Mr. Wolf got the transcript of the account which the brokers furnished, and showed that it was so labeled. Mr. Keene replied that he didn't know what the letters "H. P." stood for, any more than the letters "X. Y." or any other combination of letters used as a cipher. This was said with a suggestion of embarrassment on the part of the witness.

"I can't answer, because I don't know," was the reply that Mr. Keene made to all questions directed at making him admit that "H. P." stood for "Hocking Pool." Mr. Wolf then returned to the question as to whether Mr. Keene thought that the use of the stock by the brokers was within their rights under the agreement, and after considerable dodging on the part of the witness obtained the statement that such practices were the customary thing in Wall Street.

"Now," demanded Mr. Wolf, "will you kindly explain this: Five years ago you made an agreement with your brokers that any stock standing with them might be used for delivery against short sales, made for their own account or that of their customers. When the pool came along, you agreed that none of your pool stock should be sold. Now, how were those two agreements consistent when you put your pool stock with the brokers with whom the first agreement was made?"

Shows Signs of Uneasiness.

"They may not have been consistent," returned Mr. Keene, "but my brokers did not know anything about the stock being for the account of the pool."

"Never mind about your brokers," insisted Mr. Wolf. "Is there any hypothesis on which you can make those two agreements consistent with each other?"

"Oh, that's all right," said Keene, beginning for the first time to show signs of uneasiness, "but five years is a long time, and I didn't think of the arrangement with the brokers when the pool came along."

"You didn't think of it at all?" repeated Mr. Wolf.

"If I had," said Mr. Keene, "I should have made some arrangement with them regarding this pool stock."

"Now did your brokers use anything else but your Hocking stock to deliver on short sales?"

"I don't think they told me."

"Didn't it make impression enough on you for you to inquire?"

"I did inquire, but they referred me to this agreement."

Mr. Keene then said in response to other questions that he didn't know whether his brokers had bought in Hocking stock so as to deliver to him his shares if he called for them. He hadn't called for the shares, he said, because at the present quotation of $13 a share or so it would cost him too much money.

"Well," said Mr. Wolf, "didn't you put it in the power of your brokers to make you violate the agreement with the Hocking pool?"

"I don't know," replied Mr. Keene. "They were all buying and selling, every one of them. You know it as well as I do. You have gone and ferreted out every broker who sold 100 shares of the stock or bought 100 shares, and you know that every one of them was buying and selling all the time. My brokers have been at me for sixty days to sell this Hocking, and I have known that these people here are bankrupt, but I haven't done it. You know perfectly well that this firm carried 8,000 or 9,000 shares of stock, Hocking Coal and Iron and railroad stocks galore on a margin of only about $70,000, where a five or ten point drop would bankrupt them."

"In other words," commented Mr. Wolf, "you think the members of the pool—the other members of the pool—violated their agreement?"

"Do you mean to charge that Mr. Keene violated his agreement?" shouted Lawyer Mooney, in his most aggressive and impressive tone of voice.

"I do," said Mr. Wolf, quietly.

"Then prove it," demanded Mr. Mooney.

"I have proved it," rejoined Mr. Wolf.

"Then you ought to be content," returned Mr. Mooney, subsiding.

Before the close of the hearing yesterday Mr. Keene gave another account of the information upon which he acted in the Hocking matter, stating incidentally that he had not inspired any newspaper stories or any assertions on the Wall Street news slips, had not advised any one to buy the stock, or been instrumental in bringing the pools together. He remarked that the failure of the glowing prophecies for the Columbus and Hocking Coal and Iron Company to come true, which were realized in December, left the pool members "between sky and earth, with nothing to break their fall."

An adjournment was taken for one week.

STOCK TRANSFER BILL SIGNED

New Computation of Tax Will Increase State Revenue $10,000 Daily.

ALBANY, March 16.—Gov. Hughes today signed Senator Hill's bill providing that the tax of 2 cents on stock transfers shall be on each $100 of face value instead of on each share of $100 of face value. It is estimated that the passage of the bill will add about $10,000 daily to the State's revenue.

The Governor also signed the bill of Mr. Merritt, providing that the St. Lawrence University Theological School shall have a separate board of nine Trustees to be selected by the Executive Board of the New York State Convention of Universalists.

FRIENDS OF IRELAND BOAST HER PROWESS

St. Patrick's Eve Diners in Shanley's Learn That an Irishman Was with Columbus.

"ABE" GRUBER A PROPHET

Pokes Fun at Roosevelt, Hughes, Hearst, and Bryan, as Well as Suffrage—Emerald Association Dines.

Three hundred men constituting the friends of Ireland had their thirtieth annual dinner last night in the Roman Court of Shanley's Restaurant in Times Square, celebrating the coming in of St. Patrick's Day. They ate and sang and drank, and no one was hanged for the wearing of the green.

Green was everywhere. The Roman Court blossomed in green. The menu cards were printed with green ink. The diners wore green boutonnieres in their coats, and the green flags of Ireland covered all the walls of the Roman Court. Above the speakers' table was the Gaelic saying, "Cead Mille Failthe," worked out with electric globes, meaning a very open and Irish welcome.

And yet the membership of the organization is not restricted to the Irish. The name, Friends of Ireland, leaves a lot of room. President John J. Dalany, who was toastmaster, said in his introductory remarks that the membership might include a large number of races.

"The name of the organization doesn't mean that we all have to be Irish," he said. "We may be of any other race as well as Irish."

"Heaven forbid," prayed a deep voice devoutly from the other end of the Roman court, and the toastmaster's immediately following remarks were swallowed up in the laughter.

Mr. Delaney said that he would permit the speakers to go as far as they liked in talking about Irish politics, but since he didn't want any large trouble to develop he tabooed American politics. Any man that mentioned American politics, he threatened, would get in trouble.

Dr. John Grant Coyle told about the great things the Irish have done in all the civilized countries of the world. For more than 700 years, he said, the Irish have been fighting to establish their nationality. In that time unnumbered millions of her men and women had gone out to other countries, and there contributed mightily to the development of their civilization. He wanted to pay tribute to the Irish men and women who had remained in Ireland, who had not fled her shores, but who had remained to struggle to win back the nationality of the land from an alien race.

Speaking of the Irish who had migrated to this country and done great things, he said that there was one Irishman with Columbus, and that two were on the Mayflower, "though, Heaven knows, they were in strange company," he concluded. John Barry was the father of the American Navy, he said; eleven Irishmen signed the Declaration of Independence, and the first paper in America was started by an Irishman.

Judge Thomas C. T. Crain of General Sessions spoke about "America's Debt to Ireland," and he made it out considerable. Thomas F. Fennell spoke to the toast, "The Irish-American." Col. Abraham Gruber, who is a friend of Ireland, and does not come within the scope of the "Heaven forbid," spoke verse and wit. The following were some: "The prophecies of Marcus Aurelius Levi Maginnis," the same being Mr. Gruber.

> And a ruler is to come who shall make many people walk because he loves walking.
> And a great tenor shall know that there are troubles of the voice as well as of the hands—his two and a black one.
>
> So, too will a mighty hunter who talks and writes and is photographed find out that the Anti-Policy Society is now doing great work in Washington for the good of the people.
>
> So, too, will a wife say to her husband, "Abe, I was sorry to lick you in the convention, but I will be solid with the new Mayor and get you a nice, easy job."
>
> And there will be a country in which all the races shall be together, the white races, and the yellow races, and the black races, but the bookmakers shall be no more.
>
> So, too, will water not be able to run up a hill, but Hearst and Bryan will run any old way.
>
> There will come a time when all party lines will be wash lines, and much will hang thereon.
>
> And there will be no more politicians, only hypocrites, liars, and slanderers.
> And Cook shall say to Peary, "See what Copenhagen did to me," and Peary shall say to Cook, "Thank you, old man, for putting me wise."

Up in the Bronx seventy-five men constituting the Emerald Association of North New York also celebrated the eve of St. Patrick's Day with a dinner at the Harlem Casino. Irishmen, Irishwomen, and especially St. Patrick were praised from every angle, and sincerely. Thomas J. Higgins, Park Commissioner of the Bronx, was the toastmaster, and some of the speakers were Mgr. D. J. McMahon, Bronx Borough President Cyrus C. Miller, Prof. William McAndrew of Washington Irving School, and the Rev. Daniel Burke.

JUSTICE KEOGH TO CELEBRATE.

A Big St. Patrick's Day Parade in New Rochelle and a Home Reception.

Following his usual custom Supreme Court Justice Martin J. Keogh of New Rochelle has arranged for a big celebration at his home in honor of St. Patrick's Day, and he has planned a parade. It is intended to make the event one of the best that has ever been held in New Rochelle. Judge and Mrs. Keogh and their immediate family and a committee of the Irish societies of New Rochelle will be in charge.

The parade will start from the country home of Judge Keogh on Pelham Road, and will pass through the principal streets. There will be several bands and fife and drum corps in line to lead the Knights of Columbus, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and other societies.

There will be a large number of automobiles and carriages in the parade, which will be gayly decorated.

Among those who will ride in a decorated coach will be Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser of Poughkeepsie and several of his personal friends.

"ROBERT EMMET," IRISH LINER

Memorial Ship to Patriot Is Proposed —To be Irish Built.

BOSTON, March 16.—A unique memorial to Robert Emmet, to be paid for by the subscriptions of Americans of Irish birth or descent, is proposed by Miss Anna Gallegher of this city, to take the form of a ship to bear the name of the Irish patriot, and to ply between ports in Ireland and America.

Miss Gallegher and those who are associated with her intend that the Robert Emmet shall be distinctly Irish-built, in an Irish shipyard, by Irish workmen, and the materials used in the vessel's construction shall be of Irish production or manufacture. The furnishings of the vessel are also to be of Irish make.

W. C. BROWN AN OPTIMIST.

Central Head Sees No Ground for Fearing Taft Railroad Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 16.—Fears of a deterioration in general business conditions, recently expressed by leading Western railroad officials, and the uncertainty as to the effects of the Administration's railroad legislation programme, which railway supply manufacturers have declared to be holding back the roads in their plans for improvements, are not shared by President W. C. Brown of the New York Central lines, who was at the Congress Hotel to-day.

"We are handling the biggest business in the history of our lines," he said, referring to the car loading reports of the system.

"Not only is each month showing a surprising increase, but for the last six months we have handled more business than we ever did before in the corresponding months.

"We are running short from 5,000 to 10,000 cars a day in filling orders despite the fact that we are receiving new cars from the builders at the rate of 1,000 a week.

"For the first thirteen days in March, the latest report I have of loaded cars, movement for all the lines in the system was 824,233 loads, the largest in our history for that period. This is an increase over March, 1906, of 135,000 loads; over March, 1907, of 122,000; over March, 1908, of 215,000, and over March, 1909, of 140,000.

"I see no occasion for the railroads to fear the Administration Railroad bill. In my opinion it contains more constructive and regulative legislation than all the bills that have been introduced."

BLACK HANDER WANTED $100.

Proposed Victim Carried a Decoy Envelope and Sardou Was Trapped.

Hugo Frohmann of 323 East Eighty-seventh Street received a letter signed "Black Hand" on Saturday, in which he was ordered, under penalty of death, to hand over $100 in an envelope to a man at the corner of East End Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street on the night of March 16.

Frohman went to the place last night, carrying a decoy envelope, shadowed by Detectives Cavone and Digilio of the Italian squad. Presently he was approached by a man who, he says, told him he was a detective and asked him to hand over "the money." Before the stranger could take the decoy the two detectives rushed upon and arrested him for attempted extortion. At Police Headquarters he said he was Joseph Sardon, a driver, of 507 East Eighty-seventh Street.

ROOSEVELT AT FEAST WITH 1,000 GUESTS

and led the calvacade through the open squares and winding streets of the old African village.

The whole population lined the streets, many persons mingling in the procession. The Roosevelt party thus became the nucleus of a miscellaneous agglomeration of humanity, mostly black.

The party drove to the residence of the Civil Inspector of Khartoum, where they breakfasted. They were greeted here by a picturesque bodyguard of darfurs garbed in scarlet and gold embroidered robes.

An ancient battle axe was handed to Col. Roosevelt and he examined it with interest. Some long swords which are wielded with both hands were also shown to him. These weapons interested Col. Roosevelt greatly as being perfect specimens of the swords carried by the crusaders. He also enjoyed the inspection of the Mahdi's treasury.

MAKES SPEECH AT BANQUET.

Strongly Commends Work Done by Soudan Administration.

KHARTOUM, March 16.—Col. Roosevelt was the guest of the Soudan Club tonight. Slatin Pasha presided and all the prominent personages in Khartoum attended. The Inspector General in a graceful speech proposed the ex-President's health and Col. Roosevelt responded in a speech which made an excellent impression.

The dinner was served in the open grounds of the club, and covers were laid for about 1,000. Chinese lanterns illuminated the scene, and the band of the King's Own Scottish Borders played selections, a delightful change from the bands of the native chiefs to whose music Col. Roosevelt had listened in the last year.

Toasts were drunk to the King and the Khedive, the band accompanying them with the national anthems. When the ex-President rose to speak he was greeted with tremendous enthusiasm. He eulogized the wonderful work of the British in civilizing the Soudan. He likened the work to that of the Panama Canal, which is being accomplished despite all criticism.

Col. Roosevelt paid a high tribute to all the officials in East Africa, Uganda, and the Soudan who have aided so materially in the marvelous development of these territories.

Tumultuous applause greeted the speaker at the close, for Col. Roosevelt's decisive manner of enunciation and the rapidity with which he spoke had held all listeners spellbound. The pipers of the King's Own then played several marches, winding in and out around the tables. This lively diversion was followed by a Highland sword dance, and a toast to the health of Col. Roosevelt was given in Gaelic.

Later a prominent official presented the Britishers, Sudanese, Egyptians, and Syrians to the ex-President, who made characteristic remarks to each. He showed particular interest in the medals worn by the Egyptian officers.

During the afternoon Col. Roosevelt appeared before his friends with a slip of shamrock in his hand. An Irishman had sent him a bunch of shamrocks, and to-morrow he will adorn himself with Ireland's national emblem.

"I always wear the shamrock on St. Patrick's Day," said the Colonel, who was apparently delighted at having the opportunity to do honor to the Irish saint.

A farewell luncheon will be given by Col. Roosevelt to-morrow to the members of the expedition. It is planned to sail on March 30 from Alexandria for Naples, and it is probable that the ex-President will be the guest of honor at some notable function at the former place before his departure for Italy.

KING TO DINE ROOSEVELT.

The guests will include Mrs. Roosevelt, her son and daughter, American Ambassador Leishman, Mrs. Leishman, the other members of the American Embassy, and Count Guicciardini, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

GORGEOUS MULLIGAN BALL.

The Mayor Not There, but Many Other Persons, Including Celebrities, Were.

The annual ball of the Lawrence Mulligan Association in Terrace Garden last night eclipsed both in attendance and the gorgeousness of the costumes displayed similar functions of previous years. Soon after midnight it was found necessary to throw open several auxiliary rooms for dancing to accommodate the crowds from uptown and downtown, east side and west side, who flocked in.

This year's ball was designed to be, in a way, a protest against the stories of the "white slave" traffic written by George Kibbe Turner, in which mention was made of previous balls of the kind. To this end Mayor Gaynor was invited to see and testify to the perfect propriety of all the arrangements. The Mayor was not present.

The grand march, however, was led by Magistrate Frederick Kernochan. The judgesof the fancy costumes were John C. Fitzgerald, William S. Devery, Max Blumenthal, Frank Farrell, and Milton C. Grey. Among th costumes were same representing Henry Hudson, life-sized Billikens, a Robinson Crusoe, a Human Harp, "Family Washing," and lots of pawnbrokers, bathing girls, Salomes, and many peddlers. The first prize of $50 for the best fancy costume worn by girls was awarded to Mabel Morris, 13 years old. The first prize for women's costumes went to Marie Martin, who appeared as Eva Tanguay.

PAULHAN IN HIDING; NOT TO SAIL TO-DAY

French Aviator, Worried by Legal Tangles, Finds a Haven in C. B. Harmon's Home.

HIS BACKER LOST $80,000

And Now Faces an Infringement Suit by the Wrights—Aeroplanes Put in Mme. Paulhan's Name.

The hiding place of Louis Paulhan, the French aviator, whose troubles and those of his manager, Edwin Cleary, are now in both the Federal and State Courts, which for the last ten days has been carefully kept from the public by his attorneys, his manager, and himself, was discovered last night.

While private detectives were looking last night for Paulhan, presumably to prevent his departure on the French liner Provence to-day at 10 o'clock, Deputy United States Marshal William Crawford waited for hours yesterday in the lobby of the Hotel Knickerbocker trying to serve his manager with a subpoena in an action brought by Wilbur and Orville Wright, charging Mr. Cleary with contributory infringement of the Dayton inventors' patents.

Clifford B. Harmon, who is Commodore E. C. Benedict's son-in-law, and who has recently become interested in aeronautics, is the present host of Paulhan. The French aviator is occupying the ground floor suite at 47 East Forty-fourth Street, leased by Mr. Harmon and used by him until a few days ago, when he moved out to let his friend Paulhan and Mme. Paulhan in.

Paulhan had rooms—and for that matter has them still—at the Hotel Knickerbocker. They are being paid for, according to the terms of the contract between the French aviator and his manager, by Mr. Cleary. But Paulhan has not occupied them since the first night he spent in New York after arriving here from the recent Los Angeles aviation meet.

Paulhan merely showed up at Jamaica when the spirit moved him or at the Knickerbocker when he wanted money from his manager, it was said last night by an associate of Mr. Cleary. Other than when they saw him at those times, Paulhan's managers and business associates knew absolutely nothing of his intentions or where he lodged.

Puts Planes in Wife's Name.

It was reported last night that, with the evident intention even then fixed in his mind to leave for France at the earliest possible moment after reaching New York, Paulhan had at Los Angeles transferred the title in the two Farman biplanes and the two Blériot monoplanes with which he has been making exhibition flights in this country, from himself to his wife. This adds another disturbing element in the already complicated litigation which Paulhan's entry into the United States has inaugurated.

When the machines were brought over they were consigned by Lebaudy Frères of Paris to E. Cleary, New York. They were passed through the Custom House in bond for three months' use as Mr. Cleary's property under an affidavit, it is alleged, asserting this ownership.

But in the civil action brought yesterday in the Supreme Court by Mr. Cleary against Paulhan, Cleary denied ownership of the machines and said title to them was vested solely in Paulhan. On account of these conflicting affidavits, it was said, the Wrights would inaugurate still further proceedings.

The paper which the Wrights sought to have served on Mr. Cleary yesterday was a subpoena in an action brought against him in the United States Circuit Court along exactly the same lines as that which the Ohio men started against Paulhan. This new action charges that, as Cleary originally affirmed that he and not Paulhan was owner of the aeroplanes which it is alleged by the Wrights are infringements of their patents, he is guilty of contributory infringement, and shiuld, if the validity of their claims are upheld, be mulcted in damages the same as Paulhan.

Asks Bishop to Settle Dispute.

Cortland Field Bishop, President of the Aero Club of America, was precipitated into the Paulhan-Cleary controversy Tuesday by virtue of his accepting the office of mediator if he could satisfactorily fill that rôle. Mr. Cleary told Mr. Bishop, it was reported yesterday, that he would pay all of Paulhan's expenses in this country and his contract salary of 30,000 francs a week—regardless of any other conditions—until April 1. Paulhan was then to resume making exhibition flights and continue to do so until July 1.

Thereby, Mr. Cleary asserted, Paulhan would be enabled to keep his engagements with foreign aviation syndicates during July, August, and September, in which there is an aggregate of 1,000,000 francs in prizes to be won. From April 1 to July 1 Mr. Cleary offered to pay Paulhan $24,000 a month in French exchange, and all his traveling and hotel expenses.

Paulhan was a theatre guest of Mr. Bishop on Tuesday night, along with Mme. Paulhan, Paulhan's uncle, and several other members of his entourage. It is stated that at that time Mr. Bishop offered his services as outlined above, but that Paulhan refused to make any concession or any further flights for Mr. Cleary.

Delays His Sailing.

Paulhan's attorneys, through E. W. Beebe, made a statement yesterday afternoon of his side of the controversy, in which Paulhan's continued presence in the United States was guaranteed to such time, at least, as the Cleary-Paulhan action in the State court might be determined. Mr. Beebe said that the French aviator would make no effort to sail on the liner Provence to-day, despite his having booked passage on her for his wife, his uncle, and himself last Saturday.

When asked why, if this was the case, Paulhan had had all his personal belongings in his rooms at the Knickerbocker packed for foreign shipment, and why no contrary instructions had been given by him to the hotel desk, Mr. Beebe said that Paulhan had come to his decision to remain here only late yesterday afternoon, after an hour and a half of discussion with his attorney of the merits of his case against Cleary.

Supreme Court Justice Newburger, moved by the appeals of counsel for both Paulhan and Cleary, his manager, who seeks to have Paulhan permanently restrained from taking the aeroplanes with him out of the country, said yesterday, when the case came up in his court, that he would make a quick decision. From expressions to which he gave voice on the bench, it appears that he will not grant the application and will dissolve the temporary injunction now in force against the "bird man."

Frederick N. Van Zandt, who represented Cleary, interrupted Justice Newburger at one stage of the proceedings to exclaim excitedly:

"But, your Honor, how are we going to get back our $80,000?"

This sum, he told the court, represented the amount of Cleary's loss on his contract with Paulhan to date. Cleary says he has expended $110,000 already in the enterprise and has got back only $30,000.

In reply to the argument that Paulhan should be made to keep his contract his counsel asserted that Cleary had himself abrogated the contract by failing on several occasions to pay Paulhan in advance.

AUTO CRIMINAL SCORED.

May Be Joy Rider or Criminally Rich, Says Syracuse District Attorney.

ALBANY, March 16.—The provisions of the bills introduced in the Legislature to prohibit oral bookmaking and otherwise perfect the so-called Agnew-Hart Anti-Race Track Gambling bills were discussed to-day at the annual meeting of the Association of District Attorneys of the State. While the sentiment appeared to favor the enactment of the proposed laws and after a motion had been made to indorse them, it was finally decided to refer the whole question of the association's position to its Legislative Committee with full power to act.

These officers were elected: President, F. A. Winslow, Yonkers; Vice President, Rollin B. Sanford, Albany; Secretary, George Bond, Syracuse; Treasurer, Fred B. Pitcher, Watertown.

The association held its annual dinner to-night, which was addressed by Gov. Hughes, ex-District Attorney William Travers Jerome, the retiring President, Supreme Court Justice Randall J. Leboeuf, and District Attorney Sanford of Albany.

District Attorney Bond of Syracuse, in a paper on "The Automobile Criminal," condemned the reckless automobile driver, characterizing an automobile criminal as "a person who drives an automobile or motor cycle without regard to the rules of the road or in a manner so reckless, careless, or heedless as to the danger to human beings."

"This definition," said Mr. Bond, "includes joy riders and may include those who are crimnally rich enough to own several high power imported automobiles, but who are mentally too poor to run them safely."

HAZING BILL POSTPONED.

Democrats Object to Allowing Cadets Right to Ask for Court-Martial.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The House this afternoon postponed action on the Senate bill, introduced by Senator Du Pont, which provides degrees of punishment for the offense of hazing at the West Point Military Academy.

Considerable opposition developed, especially among the Democrats, to that provision of the bill which gives a cadet the right to demand a court-martial when accused of hazing. Representative Champ Clark said he believed such a privilege would give the West Pointer an exaggerated idea of his own importance, and that the present method of investigation is sufficient for all needs.

Mr. Hull of Iowa, Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, in charge of the bill, said that no cadet who had been dismissed by court-martial had ever applied for reinstatement, and he was of the opinion that it would relieve members of Congress of much bother if the court-martial plan were adopted.

Mr. Dawson of Iowa said he did not believe the Superintendent of the Military Academy or of the Naval Academy at Annapolis would approve of the general practice of court-martialing an accused cadet, and Mr. Slayden of Texas agreed that the present method of investigation was in itself a sufficient form of court-martial proceeding.

Chairman Hull finally agreed that the bill, not being of an urgent nature, should go over for the time being, and the House adjourned.

CANNOT OBLIGE HISGEN.

Secretary of War Unable to Cancel Oil Contract He Disapproves.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Thomas L. Hisgen of West Springfield, Mass., Presidential candidate of the Independence Party in the last campaign, wrote to Secretary Dickinson complaining that the Texas Oil Company, which supplies the War Department with oil, is a subsidiary company of the Standard Oil Company. As a recent Executive order prohibitis the purchase of Government supplies from trusts Mr. Hisgen requested the Secretary to terminate the contract with this company.

Secretary Dickinson has replied that there are two reasons why this request cannot be complied with: First, the War Department has no knowledge that the Texas company is a trust, and can accept nothing less than the decree of a court to that effect; second, the order does not apply to contracts made before its issue, as was the case with the Texas contract.

TAX ARGUMENT ON TO-DAY.

Supreme Court to Consider Cases Involving Validity of Corporation Levy.

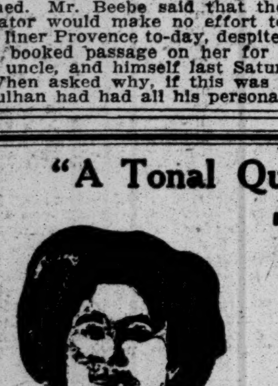
WASHINGTON, March 16.—The corporation tax cases were called up in the Supreme Court of the United States this afternoon in the few minutes that remained of the sitting after the Standard Oil case was completed.

The lawyers announced that they had reached an agreement as to the division of time, which includes all day to-morrow and Friday. Chief Justice Fuller said he would not ask the counsel to proceed with the argument until to-morrow.

"A Tonal Quality Beyond Compare."

The Hardman Autotone

The Piano all can play by hand or Perforated Music Rolls.



Mme. di Pasquali of the Metropolitan Opera Company uses the Hardman Piano in her own home.

MADAME di Pasquali, the celebrated soprano, does credit to her musical judgment when she writes: "I chose the Hardman Piano for my daily work for its exquisite tonal quality, and I find this same quality present in the Hardman Autotone."

In choosing a player-piano you should give even more attention to its musical qualities, including tone and action, than in the case of an ordinary piano.

The Hardman Autotone's admitted superiority to all other player-pianos is due not only to the perfection of its playing mechanism but to the incomparable tonal qualities of the Hardman, its basic piano.

The Autotone in the United States is made in two basic Pianos only:

FIGHTS MORE POWER FOR IT

Representing Third Avenue Company, He Says the Commission Has Tried to Compel Impossibilities.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 16.—Charging the Public Service Commission for the First District with high-handed usurpation of authority and declaring that it had been vindictive and grasping, Joseph H. Choate, representing Frederick W. Whitridge, receiver of the Third Avenue Railway Company, urged the Assembly Railroad Committee to-day not to add to the powers of that body. Mr. Choate made the principal argument in opposition to the Parker bill, which amends the Public Service act in many particulars with a view of extending the commission's powers and strengthening the law in many sections, which have been attacked successfully in the courts.

"Beaten in the courts, they now come to the Legislature and ask for power which is not within the tenor and meaning of the present act," Mr. Choate said. "Instead of considering a bill such as this, which is perplexing legislators and giving the members of the committee hopeless headaches, they might introduce a bill of four lines, which would read as follows:

> Be it enacted, that any powers in respect to traction companies not already conferred upon the Public Service Commission are hereby conferred.

"The commission has issued orders compelling impossibilities. No greater power over franchises should be given to it. The order in the South Street Railroad case was an act of usurpation, and there is no justification for seeking powers which the Court of Appeals and the Appellate Division have said are lacking in the present law. The First District Commission wants to overrule the city authorities.

"Universal transfers were the final blow to the Manhattan Railway Company. It is not practicable to authorize a person to travel all over creation for 5 cents. The commission wants to return to the old transfer system, with unlimited power to order universal transfers without regard to the financial consequences.

"The commission wants also the power to compel the companies to add to their tracks without providing any financial assistance. It is too great a power to give to an irresponsible commission. It was not the intent of the Legislature to take the management out of the hands of the companies or confer powers which are mischievous, insidious, and damaging, and this proposed additional power should not be given."

Mr. Choate told the legislators of the various court decisions against the commission of the First District. In one of these cases, he said, the law allowed the Third Avenue Company seventeen days in which to file a report, and the commission was thirty-four days late in providing blanks for the reports. In spite of that fact, he said, the commission sued the company for penalties. The court threw out the case, holding that the commission was to some extent also remiss.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's objections to the proposed legislation were presented by Charles A. Collin. Charles C. Paulding appeared in behalf of the New York Central Company, Ross Lovell for the Erie, Joseph F. Keeny for the Long Island, E. H. Bowles for the Lehigh Valley, John B. Kirk for the New York, Ontario & Western, Lewis E. Carr for the Delaware & Hudson, and F. W. Thompson for the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western. The hearing was continued in a session this evening.

A bitter attack on the Platt-Phillips bill requiring the railroad companies to publish time tables in the daily newspapers was made by representatives of the railroad corporations at a hearing held today before the legislative Committee on Railroads.

MAYOR IN CHARTER BILLS.

One Offered Yesterday Creates Fiscal Supervisor to be Named by Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 16.—Measures providing additional sections of a new charter for New York City were introduced in the Legislature to-day by the special Charter Committee. The most important bill relates to the powers and duties of the Mayor. It substitutes a Commissioner of Accounts and Salaries for the Commissioners of Accounts, and creates the office of Fiscal Supervisor. The Commissioner of Accounts and Salaries is to have two deputies. The Fiscal Supervisor is to be appointed by the Mayor, holding office at his pleasure.

By another bill the City Chamberlain is placed at the head of what would be known as the Treasury Department. The bill empowers the Board of Estimate instead of a board composed of the Mayor, Controller, and Chamberlain to designate the banks in which the city's money shall be deposited. The Finance Department is kept as at present.

Other measures affect the Tax Department and the Department of Correction. The bill relating to taxes follows in the main the bill prepared by Lawson Purdy, Assistant Corporation Counsel Rumsey, and J. Hampden Dougherty.

A bill establishing a commission to investigate the practice of vivisection or animal experimentation was introduced to-day by Mr. Goodspeed.

GREINER TO SEE HUGHES.

Says Root Will Win—Cobb Plans Primary Bill Conference.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 16.—Postmaster Fred Greiner of Buffalo, the Republican leader of Erie County, who declared, after the election of George H. Cobb as Senate leader last week, that he would stand with Gov. Hughes and his policies as against his opponents, reached the capital to-day after a visit to Washington, where he had a talk with Senator Root and some of the Republican Congressmen from this State, including John W. Dwight. He was accompanied by W. H. Daniels, one of the Republican State Committeemen from Erie County.

Mr. Greiner had talks with Speaker Wadsworth, the two Senators from Erie, and some of the other legislative leaders. He will meet Gov. Hughes by appointment to-morrow morning.

"I cannot discuss my talk with Senator Root," said Mr. Greiner. "I can only reiterate what I said last week, that this apparent victory is temporary and will be short lived."

In the meantime Senator Cobb, in his new rôle of leader, has indicated that one of his first moves will be of a conciliatory nature. Last year the organization ran roughshod over the Governor's Direct Nominations bill. Senator Cobb announced to-day that as soon as the Senate can begin to think of legislation he will arrange a conference between himself and Speaker Wadsworth, Senator Hinman and Assemblyman Green, who introduced the Governor's Direct Nominations bill; and Senator Meade and Assemblyman Phillips, who introduced the organization's primary bill.

"I am planning this consultation," he said, "with a view to bringing about an agreement on a measure that will satisfy all concerned. The Governor will be kept informed of what we are doing in the conference. I recognize the demand for genuine primary reform, and propose to do all I can to bring it about, and I feel certain that this can be accomplished if we approach the subject with fairness and without prejudice."

TRIED TO SET HERSELF AFIRE.

Girl Saved by the Policeman Who Gave Her the Matches to Do It.

Esther Koplin, 17 years old, walked up to Policeman Doyle early yesterday morning and asked him for a match. He thought the request strange, and after giving the girl several matches followed her to Tompkins Square Park at Avenue A and Seventh Street. There he saw her set fire to a pile of papers and sticks which she had evidently collected. Doyle ran into the park and was just in time to prevent the girl from throwing herself into the flames. She fought with him desperately, then broke into tears.

"Why don't you let me alone?" she cried. "I have no home and no friends. Nobody cares for me, and I want to die."

Doyle took her to the Fifth Street Station, where she talked so incoherently that an ambulance was summoned from Bellevue Hospital. Dr. J. S. Kenny, who responded, took her to the hospital for observation. On her arrival there she became calmer and told the physician that she had come from Russia to this country a little over a year ago. She said she had been working as a servant for a Mrs. Siegel of 44 Blake Avenue, Brooklyn, but was unable to explain how she came to be wandering about Avenue A at night. She said she had no relatives in this country.

The address given was found to be a vacant lot.

Short Circuit Ties Up Bronx Subway.

A short circuit in the front car of a southbound West Farms express train at the Mott Avenue Station of the Subway at 6 o'clock last evening caused the first tie-up on the road since the new schedule went into effect. There was a sharp report, followed by dense smoke and sudden darkness in the cars, but the guards got all the passengers out quietly. After a delay of twenty minutes the service was resumed.

HEBBERD IN STATE CHARITIES.

Ex-Commissioner to Assume Former Place as Secretary of Board.

Robert W. Hebberd, formerly Commissioner of Public Charities, was appointed Secretary of the State Board of Charities at a special meeting of the board here yesterday. Mr. Hebberd, who was Secretary of the board from 1896 to 1906, when he became Charities Commissioner, will draw a yearly salary of $5,000, and will take office at the end of this month.

Robert W. Hill, who is succeeded by Mr. Hebberd, was made Superintendent of State and Alien Poor, in the place of William C. Rogers, who resigned recently.

The board approved the incorporation of the Hebrew Ladies' Day Nursery of Brownsville and the South Side Dispensary of East New York, and granted a license to the dispensary. The application for approval of the incorporation of the Maternity Aid was voted down.

Chantecler Ballet for Fete d'Aviation.

A Chantecler ballet will be a feature of the Fête d'Aviation for the benefit of the blind, which will be held at the Hotel Astor on the evening of March 28. The details of the ballet are not yet forthcoming, but all of the "fowls" will be at least seven feet high. Tickets for the Fête d'Aviation may be had at the office of the New York Association for the Blind, 118 East Fifty-ninth Street, from Mrs. M. R. Sherwood, the Executive Secretary. Checks should be made payable to Henry Morgan Post.

Thaw Fights to Leave Matteawan.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, reserved decision yesterday on an appeal from the Supreme Court order of three months ago appointing a referee to take testimony in the application of Harry K. Thaw, through his mother, for removal from Matteawan to a private institution. William H. Morschauser, for Thaw, contended that the appointment of the referee was within the power of the court. Counsel for the State argued that the application of the Thaw family should have been passed upon by the State Lunacy Commission.

New Embroidered Suits

The Dressy Tailor-Made for Women

It is many seasons since so much of beauty and practicability have been combined in one style of garment. The Suits are conventional in line and their trimmings self-colored, and so, not conspicuous for a bit of shopping if one has need. It is the prodigality of hand-embroidery and braiding that emphasizes their elegance and renders them appropriate for any occasion short of formal dress.

Fine French or wide wale serges or the new silk and wool fabrics in the softest, most beautiful tones are employed in their production. The shapes have much of distinction, though conventional, and the workmanship and finish are quite beyond question.

At 39.50

Two charming models with full pleated skirts, of diagonal or French serges. One is collarless and has a Frenchy touch of black satin outlining its low opening; the other has the rever collar of moire and a touch of silver in the embroidery.

A beautiful suit in which silk floss embroidery is elaborately employed. One large jewelled button closes the coat at the end of the low rever collar.

STATE-WIDE STRIKE NOW BEFORE UNIONS

President of Pennsylvania Federation of Labor Calls for Immediate Vote and Reply.

MOTORMAN HARD PRESSED

Roughly Handled by Crowd, Until Rescued by Police, for Killing Boy—Jersey Car Men Confer.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—There was an absence of important developments to-day in the strike situation here. The statement issued by the Committee of Ten to-night consists of a proclamation modeled after the "Declaration of Independence," in which the labor representatives proclaim their intention of maintaining their fight on behalf of the striking carmen.

E. E. Greenawalt, President of the State Federation of Labor, returned late to-night, and together with a number of organizers from various sections of the State was in consultation with the local strike committee. Plans for the State-wide strike were discussed, and a call for a vote by the unions on such a strike was sent throughout the State, with a request for results by wire.

The Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company reported 1,225 cars in operation today, the highest number since the beginning of the strike. This had been announced as the last day on which the strikers would be taken back, but the labor leaders say the ranks of the strikers are unbroken. The only disorder reported occurred to-night when three-year-old Eugene Platt was run over and killed by a trolley car in front of his home. The motorman was roughly handled by a crowd before rescued by the police.

Learning that the labor leaders intended turning the proposed St. Patrick's Day mass for the Ancient Order of Hibernians into a labor demonstration Archbishop Ryan stated to-night that the service would be postponed until April 9.

Conferences were held yesterday at the Hotel Bartholdi by individual members of a Committee of Ten, representing the motormen and conductors of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, appointed to act on the refusal of President McCarter of the corporation to meet a union committee, and Rezin Orr, Treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes. The full committee will have another conference with Mr. Orr to-day, at which he will advise its members what to do.

About 2,500 of the men have been organized in the towns of Elizabeth, Camden, Perth Amboy, Paterson, Hoboken, Newark, and Jersey City. They want to have their wages, which now range from 21 to 23 cents an hour, increased to 25 cents an hour, but are afraid, they say, of employes being discharged who present these demands.

DISCUSS TRAINMEN'S DEMANDS

New York Central Officials Begin Conferences Over Wage Increase.

Grand Master W. G. Lee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Grand Master A. B. Garretson of the Order of Railroad Conductors, and the General Grievance Committees of the trainmen and conductors of the New York Central Railroad began a conference yesterday with the representatives of the Central over the demands of the trainmen and conductors for increases in wages ranging from 10 to 50 per cent. It is expected that the conferences will last several days.

There are fifty-five members on the General Grievance Committees representing about 6,000 trainmen and conductors on 27,000 miles of the Central lines. The schedules of last year were compared with the schedules demanded, but nothing else was accomplished. P. J. Crowley, Assistant General Superintendent of the road, said that no counter proposition was made by the company.

MORE PAY FOR TRAINMEN.

Louisville & Nashville Grants Increases to Conductors and Freightmen.

LOUISVILLE, March 16.—An agreement reached yesterday between a committee from the Louisville & Nashville branch of the Order of Railway Conductors and the company for the next two years insures to these trainmen a substantial increase in wages. The short-run passenger men and the local freight men get 8, 10, and 14 per cent. increase over their old rates. The conductors get better working schedules and an increase in overtime rates.

Anti-Saloon League Mass Meeting.

Ex-Gov. Robert B. Glenn of North Carolina will address a mass meeting at Carnegie Hall next Sunday afternoon in the interest of the New York Anti-Saloon League and the City Local Option bill now before the New York Legislature. It is expected that Congressman Richmond Pearson Hobson will be present and introduce Gov. Glenn.

DEAD IN TRAIN CRASH.

Double Collision Kills Brakeman and Injures Three Passengers.

ROCHESTER, March 16.—A double collision, causing a wreck in which one man was killed, three injured, and a Pullman passenger coach practically demolished, took place between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning on the New York Central elevated tracks at the Hudson Avenue Bridge in this city. A West Shore passenger train, No. 1,023, the Buffalonian, ran into New York Central Passenger Train 29, the Buffalo and Toronto special, from the rear, after the latter had encountered head-on a light engine coming from the roundhouse. The encounter with the engine did little damage beyond deranging the lighting system. While No. 29, still dark as a result, however, was standing on the track, the other train ran into it.

William M. Caldwell, head brakeman of Train 29, was crushed between two cars and instantly killed. The injured are:

Samuel B. Jamison, Marathon; cut and bruised, suffering from shock.

Frank H. Pyke, 234 South Salina Street, Syracuse; suffering from shock.

E. F. Squires, 317 Chamber of Commerce, Buffalo; cut slightly.

The two former are in the Homeopathic Hospital, and Squires is at the Hotel Rochester.

There were only three men in the wrecked Pullman, which was cut in half and catapaulted off the bridge.

The wreck caught fire. Local firemen rescued the injured men from the car.

VOLUNTEERS $50 CUSTOMS FEE

"J. S. L." Sends It to Collector Loeb, Saying It's Due Under the Law.

The Conscience Fund of the Treasury Department to-day will be richer by $50, which was sent to Washington yesterday by Collector Loeb. In the morning mail the Collector received this letter, posted here on Monday:

> To Collector of Customs: The inclosed is due by me to the Government under a proper construction of the customs laws as applied to articles brought into country by incoming passengers. (Signed) J. S. L.

The inclosure was a fifty-dollar bill.

G. M. Wood, Cashier of the Custom House, said that not more than $800 had been received there for the Conscience Fund in the last ten years. Not long ago a person "quickened by religion" sent half of a $100 note to the Custom House. The sender, though conscience-stricken, was evidently suspicious that the money might not reach the Treasury in the ordinary way, for the other half of the note went to the Sub-Treasury.

HORSE TRAMPLES A WOMAN.

Aged Companion Fails to Get Her Out of Runaway's Path.

Mrs. Marie Deberna and Miss Josephine Mascarella, two old women living at 234 and 240 East Seventy-fifth Street, were crossing 102d Street on the west side of Third Avenue last evening when they heard a clatter of hoofs, and, looking up, saw a horse galloping before a light painter's wagon down the hill between Lexington and Third Avenues.

Before the driver could swerve aside his horse or Mrs. Deberna could drag her companion toward the sidewalk the horse's shoulder had struck Miss Mascarella, knocking her to the street. The horse's hoofs hit her head.

Policeman Butler of the East 104th Street Station rushed up in time to save the driver, Samuel Bank of 452 Cherry Street, from an angry crowd and to take him on a charge of reckless driving to the station. Dr. Elliott, who came in an ambulance from the Harlem Hospital, said the injured woman had a fractured skull and would probably die.

THROUGH AUTO'S WIND SHIELD

Broken Glass Cuts W. J. Mead Badly When the Car Hits a Tree.

Two wealthy residents of White Plains had narrow escapes from death yesterday when a touring car which Henry Ungerich, Jr., was running, became unmanageable as a result of the steering gear failing to work. The car, traveling at a fast rate of speed, crashed into a tree.

Mr. Ungerich was thrown clear of the car and escaped uninjured. William J. Mead, a resident of Sound View Avenue, White Plains, was tossed head first through the glass wind shield and landed on the pavement. As he went through the shield the glass cut one of his ears nearly off, and made deep cuts about his face, head, and arms. His condition is said to be serious.

The accident occurred almost in front of the country residence of J. Avery Nathans in Prospect Street. When he heard the crash Mr. Nathans ran to the street, and after carrying Mead into his home, sent for Dr. A. W. Page, who dressed the wounds. Dr. Page had to take thirty stitches on Mr. Mead's head.

The American Peace League's Dinner.

Some of the interesting details of the dinner of the American Peace and Arbitration League at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday night next, at which President Taft will be the guest of honor, were made public last night. James B. McCreary, former United States Senator from Kentucky, will preside, and besides the President the speakers will include Ambassadors von Bernstorff of Germany and de la Barra of Mexico, Mayor Gaynor, ex-Vice President Fairbanks, Robert L. Taylor, ex-Senator from Tennessee; ex-Senator Clark of Montana, and Henry Clews.

MENAGERIE CARGO ROUTED STOWAWAYS

The Glutton Nearly Drew One Into Its Cage and Then Both Gave Up.

8,000 SPECIMENS ABOARD

Phoenix Liner Marina Met Bad Weather from Antwerp, and Birds and Beasts Were Seasick.

The Phoenix liner Marina steamed into port yesterday morning with enough rare animals and birds to stock a first-class zoo. The birds and beasts numbered about 8,000, and when the steamship, which comes from Antwerp, docked in Hoboken early in the morning there was a crowd of animal dealers on hand to receive the specimens.

One of the strangest of the animals was a badgerlike beast, billed on the manifest as a glutton. It was one of the most unruly animals on board. Whenever any one ventured near its crate the animal would show its fangs, and, spitting like a bobcat, would try frantically to break through the iron bars. All food was refused by the glutton for the first week of the trip, and Capt. Taylor wondered why the animal was so named. They found out a little later when its appetite returned. The ship's officers say the beast came near depleting the larder before port was sighted.

In appearance the glutton is not quite like any animal to be found in either the Central Park or the Bronx Park zoos, although it resembles a badger more than anything else. Its color is dark brown, and its tail is large and shaggy, like that of a collie dog. Long talonlike nails give the glutton a wicked appearance, which is intensified by a pair of beady black eyes, which glitter angrily whenever any one ventures near.

It was due to this same glutton that two stowaways were discovered on board the Marina a few days after the vessel left Antwerp. Chief Mate Brown was in the forward hold one morning looking over the cargo, when he heard a yell about twenty feet behind him. Glancing back in the direction of the glutton's cage he saw a man clambering over the pheasant crates as fast as he could crawl. From the glutton's cage came a series of terrifying sounds.

Brown noticed another man creeping among the animal crates. The two confessed to being stowaways. On the third day out hunger led them to scout around for something to eat. They ventured near the glutton's cage, and the animal reached out and grabbed one of them by the trouser leg. Then they were discovered.

Many of the animals and birds were seasick during a storm which lasted two days. They recovered their spirits and appetites soon afterward, however, and there were few fatalities. The pheasants especially arrived in good shape. About 7,000 of these birds were in the cargo, and more than half of these will go to private game preserves throughout the country.

Besides the pheasants the cargo included swans, storks, peacocks, wild ducks, wild geese, rare hens from Germany, wild boars, small black bears, and some llamas.

Forty pigeons also were in the cargo, and just under the second hatch were several dozen cages of canaries and other singing birds. A box of monkeys also afforded amusement.

Among the most valuable animals in the Marina's cargo were sixty-four stallions from various localities in Europe. They are consigned to Western importers.

The officers and crew of the Marina helped care for the birds and animals, but several experts were in charge of the shipment. John Donecker and Theodore Teck were two of these. Donecker has made twenty voyages with animals from Antwerp to this port. He said yesterday that the cargo on the Marina was the largest of the kind which ever reached Hoboken.

SWORE IN THE SUBWAY; FINED

Passenger Asked Man Who Protested If He Was Parkhurst in Disguise.

George E. Easton, Treasurer of the Globe Lithographing Company of 1,390 Prospect Avenue, appeared in the Night Court yesterday as complainant against Harry Peiser, a salesman, whom he charged with using profanity while talking to a friend in a north-bound Broadway Subway express all the way from Forty-second Street to Ninety-sixth Street.

"He said 'damn it' four times," said Mr. Easton, "and when I told him I would have him arrested if he did not stop he asked me whether I was Dr. Parkhurst in disguise, and whether I would not teach him at Sunday school next Sunday."

Magistrate Harris fined Peiser $10, which he paid.

Divers Search Reservoir for Suicide.

Divers were employed all day yesterday searching the bottom of the Fort Field Reservoir at Yonkers for the body of a supposed suicide. It had been the intention of the police and Water Department to pump the 60,000,000 gallons of water out of the reservoir, but it was decided to put divers to work instead.

The search of the divers has been futile so far, but their work will continue to-day. The suspicion that there is a dead man at the bottom of the reservoir is based on the finding of clothing and a suicide note on the bank.

CONSUL, JR., ACTING APE, DEAD

Noted Chimpanzee, Said to be Valued at $50,000, Pneumonia Victim.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, March 16.—With his body shrouded in immaculate linens and resting on a bier banked with floral offerings, Consul, Jr., a famous man monkey of the stage, lies dead in the room of his trainer, T. A. Milner, at Hotel Delaware in Dallas.

Consul's death occurred from pneumonia about 1 o'clock this morning. He collapsed at the Majestic Theatre here last Saturday night. A trained nurse and three of the best physicians in Dallas did all they could to save the chimpanzee, and Trainer Milner was almost unceasing in his vigils. Dr. H. M. Imling of New York also sent instructions by wire which were executed by the Dallas physicians. Consul, owned by Dr. E. L. Buckley of Brooklyn, N. Y., was said to be valued at $50,000, and $10,000 life insurance it is said was carried on him. Milner to-day received a telegram from Dr. Buckley giving him the chimpanzee's body.

Consul, Jr., was one of the three remarkable chimpanzee's which have been amusing the vaudeville-loving public here and abroad for several years. The other two are Consul I. and Peter, and among the owners and trainers of all three apes there has been much rivalry, each asserting that his charge was the most "intellectual." Consul, Jr., was seen here in vaudeville last year just before he started on his Southern tour. One of his cleverest tricks was to propel himself on roller skates, and another was to ride a small bicycle about the stage, guiding it without aid from his trainer. Consul, Jr., was also a cigarette smoker, so the press agents said. He used to hold a cigarette between his lips and, after applying a match, would blow through the little cube, making the smoke curl about its tip.

Consul, Jr., like the other two trained chimpanzees, wore evening clothes during most of his hours awake. His meals were served him at a little table, and Consul's table manners were of the best. Although it was asserted by the press agents last year that Consul's life was heavily insured, it was later stated that no company could be found which would underwrite the ape for less than 50 per cent. of the policy for one year.

MORE POLICEMEN FOR BAKER.

Mr. Watson Contributes Nine, with a Protest That He Can Use Them.

Mayor Gaynor did not write any more public letters to Police Commissioner Baker yesterday, and the Commissioner busied himself in preparing his reply to the Mayor's letter of Tuesday regarding the plain clothes and special duty policemen. The department is on the alert waiting to see what move the Mayor will make next year.

Commissioner Baker wrote a few days ago to Corporation Counsel Watson and asked him if there were any men on duty in his office who might be returned to the force for regular police work. Mr. Watson, in reply, sent him the names of nine policemen who could be spared from his office, among them Lieuts. John W. Boyle and James M. Downing. Mr. Watson wrote, however, that these policemen performed duties of importance to the city, among them the investigation of claims against the city.

Brooklyn, it was announced yesterday, is to have a new precinct midway between Prospect Park and Coney Island. It will take in parts of the present Parkville, Coney Island, Canarsie, and Sheepshead Bay Precincts.

Sixteen policemen were transferred to precincts in Brooklyn and the Bronx yesterday to fill the quota of the Flatbush and Parkville stations in Brooklyn, and the Tremont and Morrisania stations.

Seeks Interest in Yaqui Mining Co.

A suit for a share in 1,500,000 acres of mining property in Mexico came up before Justice Stapleton in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, on the motion of counsel for Mrs. Metta F. Merchant of 166 Remsen Street, to have the defendants examined before the trial. Mrs. Merchant says her father, now dead, held a one-tenth interest in the Yaqui Mining Company and other development companies controlled by the same concern. She seeks an accounting.

OIL ARGUMENT ENDS IN SUPREME COURT

Defense Pleads That Wealth Is No Crime and Competition Is Like War.

SCANDAL, SAYS WICKERSHAM

Denies That Dissolution of Standard Means Blow to Legitimate Business —Case Now with the Bench.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The dissolution of the "Standard Oil" is now a question for the Supreme Court of the United States to grapple with alone. The final argument of the suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey as a conspiracy and a monopoly in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law was made to-day, and the court took the matter under consideration.

On this the third day of the contest of counsel before the highest tribunal, interest in the proceedings was such that the rules prohibiting spectators standing in its presence were swept aside, and members of the Congress stood around the wall of the room. Not in years have so many persons been packed into the little chamber.

It fell to Attorney General Wickersham on the side of the Government and John G. Johnson of Philadelphia for the defense to make the closing remarks. In addition D. T. Watson of Pittsburg, another Standard Oil counsel, addressed the court earlier in the day, finishing his argument begun late yesterday.

Mr. Watson is a familiar figure in the courtroom, where his peculiarities are well known. A new supply of quill pens is provided by court employes after he concludes an address to the court, because of his fondness for jamming the pen's point donward against the table with all his power by way of emphasizing an argument. Mr. Johnson is likewise often seen in the Supreme Court.

National Scandal, Says Wickersham.

Mr. Wickersham spoke of the Standard Oil's past as containing a National scandal which the courts and Legislatures were called upon to put down. He urged the court not to be influenced by the cry that this proceeding was a blow directed at business, "because such a cry had been made often before and proved groundless."

Mr. Watson began the day's arguments. Scarcely had he taken up the thread of his remarks of yesterday to the effect that the only question before the court was the combination of 1899, when Justice McKenna interrupted:

"Do you say there is before this court only the question of combining?" asked the Justice.

"Nothing before and nothing following," replied the counsel. "The lower court put the case purely and simply on that fact."

"Why did they decree the distribution of this stock?" insisted Justice McKenna.

"Ah! That's what I want to know," said Mr. Watson. "They said they did so because you ordered them to do so in the Northern Securities case."

Mr. Watson then went on to argue that the Northern Securities case did no such thing.

McKenna Interrupts Again.

He was brought back to the questions before the court by another question from Justice McKenna.

"Do you mean that the facts recited in the decree by the Circuit Court are the only ones before us?" insisted the Justice.

"Oh, no!" said Mr. Watson.

Attorney General Wickersham meantime was nodding his head and smiling. Mr. Watson explained that as the Government had not appealed from the finding of fact in the opinion and in the decree, he held it was too late now to bring up other things the court did not pass on.

Justice Harlan wanted to know if he was arguing that the court was not to go into the record.

"You are a rule unto yourselves," replied Mr. Watson.

"Have you been talking about law or equity?" inquired Justice Harlan.

Mr. Watson assured him it was of equity.

Justice White wanted to know if Mr. Watson had authority for such a doctrine as he advanced.

"Oh, yes. I have three or four in my brief."

"Give me one; I want to see it now," added the Justice.

"Certainly. I can't turn to it just now, but I am not trying to dodge," explained Mr. Watson.

Mr. Wickersham's smile developed into a full grown laugh.

"I'll have one of my assistants find it," said Mr. Watson. Just as his time expired fifteen minutes later he read some citations.

Justice Harlan suggested if there were a question of disputed fact the court would have to go into the record.

"It will take you six months, then, to read those 20,000 pages," suggested Mr. Watson.

It was 12:50 when Attorney General Wickersham took up the closing argument of the Government.

"I can well understand the desire of the defendants to cast the veil of oblivion over the past," he began, "but while the court holds that the acts previous to 1890 did not violate the Sherman Anti-Trust law because this law was not passed until 1890, it says, also, that those acts had been considered as evidence of a continuing conspiracy."

Reviews Standard's History.

He then began to consider the early history of the Standard Oil as throwing a light on the combination of 1909.

"They brought one of the proudest railroads in the world to its knees," said the Attorney General in speaking of the Standard Oil when organized in the 70s as the Standard Oil of Ohio. "They compelled terms never before heard of in the world. They not only required rebates on their own shipments, but they levied tribute on the shipments of their competitors. They grew richer and richer until it became a National scandal; until the courts and the Legislatures were appealed to. Then and only then did they consent that the railroads might carry other people's business on the same terms as their own. That, your Honors, please, was the period of acquisition Mr. Milburn told you about Monday."

Passing over the trust periods quickly, Mr. Wickersham came to the reorganization of 1889, admitting that the control of the various Standard corporations was then in the hands of certain men who thought—and had, he said, a right to think—it was not to their interest to compete.

"Is it true," he said, "that after 1899 they were exactly in the same position as before? Can your Honors say there is no difference between twenty separate corporations in the hands of—say, twenty men—and one corporation owning the other nineteen, in the hands of the same men? Is the power of controlling the one corporation not easier? After there is consolidation; before, there was the danger from the hazards of the moment."

The closing address by Mr. Johnson was partly a reply to Mr. Wickersham. Although the wolf may not have come at first, he told the court when it did come it was too late to cry. Mr. Johnson also paid his compliments to Frank B. Kellogg, author of the petition of the Government, filed in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Missouri, on which was based the decree of dissolution now before the court for review. Mr. Johnson told the court it reminded him of the contents of the Witch's caldron in "Macbeth," in that it appeared to have been made up of a collection from the scrapbooks of disappointed oil producers and "magazinists—female or otherwise." The best part about it, he told the court, was that it ended with a prayer.

"Potential Competition."

Mr. Johnson interpreted what he designated as "the new doctrine of potential competition" as an attempt to require each individual to compete with himself. Turning to another phase of the controversy, he asked "How on earth could we monopolize the manufacture of refined oil when we control only 11 per cent. of the crude oil output?

"But they complain that with our enormous amount of wealth we drove our competitors out of business," he exclaimed. "Are you going to conduct business on the race track principle and put a handicap to the man who possesses wealth? Are you going to taboo wealth?

"We do have pipe lines!" he shouted as he walked back and forth before the bench. "We do have engines and boilers, but is that any reason why our competitors should get heat and steam from us? There is no Federal law which requires that, thank God, as yet. I am speaking of the present. Your Honors may be called upon—not in my lifetime—to pass upon a law that says how much a man shall own. But that question is not now before you."

Mr. Johnson next turned to the subject of unfair competition.

"Is there a kind of soft competition, a Pickwickian competition, a kind of kid-glove variety?" he asked, "where they just compete so nicely that it won't hurt? Gen. Sherman used a word in describing what war is. I won't use the word in your Honors' presence, but that is what competition is. Yet they complain because we undersold some one."

There are plenty of laws that could reach unfair competition if it be illegal, he said. The law which permits a $29,000,000 fine to be laid, he contended, was not "a Pickwickian law."

In closing he pleaded with the court not to strike down a legitimate business or deprive the men he represented of their organization.

"The remedy the Government asks you to apply," said he, "is not unlike the surgical operation of amputating the foot to remove a thorn from the toe."

BALLINGER REBUKES RADICALS

Says He Is Ardent for Conservation, but It Must Be Wise.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 16.—According to Richard A. Ballinger, Secretary of the Interior, who addressed the Minnesota Conservation Convention in St. Paul to-day, the insurgent movement is something like a mirage and the Ballinger-Pinchot hearing in Washington is of less importance in the East than in the West.

"When you are riding on the plains a cow on the horizon looks forty feet high, but when you come up to it it's only an ordinary cow."

That is the way the Western insurgency looks to a man in the National capital, according to Mr. Ballinger.

"Is it something of a joke?" he was asked.

"No, I wouldn't call it a joke, but it is much magnified."

Speaking of the investigation of the Glavis charges now going on in Washington Mr. Ballinger said:

"So far nothing has been brought to light but suspicions, innuendoes, and intimations. These I shall be able to dissipate as soon as my evidence is in."

"Whatever I have to say about my opponents I'll say on the witness stand," Mr. Ballinger added.

In his address Mr. Ballinger said he was as ardent an advocate of conservation as the most radical. "But," he added, "it must be wise conservation to appeal to me." He declared he was out of sympathy with those radicals who feared that all our natural resources were being used up without any consideration for future generations, and sneered at "doctrinaires' figures" assuming to show that the coal deposits of the United States and Alaska would be exhausted in a period of about 100 years. According to Mr. Ballinger there is coal enough "to last, as some claim, for a period of 7,000 years."

"Between the hysteria that exists on the one side and the tendency to despoil the public domain on the other," he added, "we will, it is hoped, be able to find the true policy of the Government."

He also expressed the opinion that "a greater obligation rests upon the States than upon the General Government to inaugurate laws to prevent waste in the utilization of National resources."

The Minnesota conservators will continue in session four days. Gov. Eberhart welcomed the delegates to-day, and introduced Archbishop Ireland, who presided at the forenoon session. Addresses were delivered by the Archbishop and Clinton R. Woodruff of Philadelphia.

MONTANA SMELTERS SUED.

Government Action Against Anaconda Company to Protect Forests.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Satisfied that the present methods of operating its smelters by the Anaconda Copper Mining Company are not only destructive in a widespread degree of the surrounding natural forests, but unecessary, Attorney General Wickersham to-day caused a bill in equity to be filed at Helena, Mont., against the company. The bill asks for a permanent injunction to compel the company to operate its plant at Anaconda in such a manner as to end the destruction complained of.

The mining concern has resisted the demand of the Government that the methods of smelting be changed, and among other contentions has represented that it would cost millions of dollars to do so, besides the loss accruing from the temporary shutting down of the plants. At the Department of Justice the statement is made that the suit was not filed until every possible friendly means for securing a change of smelter methods had been exhausted.

Some time before the close of President Roosevelt's administration the mining companies were notified that suits would be brought unless the smelters took steps t ostop the wholesale destruction of the forests resulting from the distribution of sulphuric and arsenic fumes over a wide area of country. Instead of attempting to remedy the situation, the companies, it is declared, represented to Mr. Roosevelt that they could operate their plants in no other manner than that then in vogue.

President Roosevelt ordered a full investigation and took a personal interest in the hearings. The claims advanced by the Anaconda Company, it is declared, were identical with those made in two similar suits—one by the Government against the Mountain Copper Company in California and the other by the State of Georgia against the Ducktown (Tenn.) Company.

In each of these cases it was asserted that adverse action would mean the closing of the mines and smelters and the discharge of thousands of men. Injunctions were granted in both instances, but neither mines nor smelters were closed. Instead, the companies spent the money necessary to convert the harmful fumes into a valuable product and many additional men got work.

INSURGENTS WIN VICTORY IN SENATE

Force an Agreement to Amend Railroad Bill in Regard to Traffic Agreements.

ALDRICH NOT A DODGER

Senate Leader Declares He Is Not Hiding Behind the President—Elkins Speaks Up for Railways.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The attack of Senator Cummins on the Administration's Railroad bill, begun yesterday, was continued to-day, and bore fruit in an important concession wrung from Senators Aldrich and Elkins, who are handling the bill together. This concession is nothing less than a promise to accept the Cummins amendment requiring that traffic agreements shall not be entered into by railroads without the approval of the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

The bill as it stands provides simply that traffic agreements as to rates and classifications shall not be held illegal under the Sherman anti-trust law if the agreements are filed with the commission. No provision whatever is made for the commission's reviewing the agreements, and no method is provided whereby the commission can express its disapproval of them.

On this one section of the bill, Mr. Cummins, Mr. Nelson, Mr. Bacon of Georgia, and others hammered all day. Senator Cummins declared that the section in question was simply an effort to take the railroads out from under the operation of the Anti-Trust act. With the aid of Mr. Bailey he drove Senator Aldrich to admit that when the anti-trust law was passed no Senator voting for it intended it to apply to railroads, and then repeated his assertion that the Administration Senators were trying in this bill to recoup the railroads for the damage they had unintentially been allowed to suffer under the former act.

Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Elkins both denied the charge, and it was their denials of any intention to remove the roads from the Sherman act's provision that Mr. Cummins used as a lever with which to force from them the promise to accept the amendment that would put any such intention out of the question.

Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Elkins both sought time and time again to bolster up the bill as it stands by referring to its exalted parentage. The bill, said Mr. Aldrich, was the work of the President and the Attorney General, and he asked Mr. Cummins point blank whether he thought these two officials intended to accomplish the partial repeal of the Sherman law through the terms of the present measure.

Sherman Law Repeal Intended.

"I know positively," exclaimed Mr. Cummins in reply, "that the Attorney General intended just that. He wrote the bill, and the bill carries the formal repeal of the Sherman act."

While Mr. Cummins expressly exonerated the Attorney General from any resort to bad faith or subterfuge in the methods he had used in inserting the objectionable features of the bill, he was not so gentle in his treatment of Mr. Aldrich and the other regulars of the committee. He waited until Mr. Elkins and Mr. Aldrich had reiterated several times their denial of any intention to have agreements go into effect without the commission's previous approval, and then drew the documents in the case from his desk. He read from the majority report on the bill, signed by both Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Elkins, a passage in which the majority expressly contended that the platform did not require this previous approval of traffic agreements. The reading from the report drew no answer from Mr. Cummins's opponents.

Several times in the course of the running fire of colloquies that took up most of the day comparisons were drawn between President Taft and his predecessor. The insurgents and Democrats pointed out that Mr. Roosevelt, with all his aggressiveness, had never attempted to ram down the throat of Congress a bill prepared avowedly without the aid of Congress. The frequent appeal of the regulars to President Taft also lead the insurgents to appeal to Col. Roosevelt's expressions on the subject.

Senator Aldrich Excited.

At one point Mr. Cummins was discussing the terms of the anti-trust repeal and referring to some of the provisions when Mr. Aldrich stated that "such was the purpose of the President and the Attorney General."

"The Senator must not hide behind the President," said Senator Nelson excitedly; "that is small business and won't do. That is not the way to legislate."

Mr. Aldrich was also somewhat excited when he replied. He disavowed any intention of taking refuge behind any one.

"It is not my habit," he said, "to hide behind the President or any one else. The measure has been recommended by the President and by at least one ex-President, and it was approved by the platform of my party, and I presume also the party of the Senator from Iowa."

To the amusement of even the regulars Mr. Elkins said that already the railroads made agreements for their mutual convenience, and that he presumed that these agreements did not make them liable for prosecution. Then returning to the agreements permitted in the pending bill, he added:

"So why embarrass the railroads?"

"True, true," laughingly exclaimed Mr. Cummins from his seat.

While Mr. Cummins was nominally in control of the time of the Senate for over three hours, in reality he spoke but a small part of the time, so frequent were his interruptions. His attack has already had the effect of making Mr. Elkins admit that he will not adhere to his original plan of not speaking in defense of the measure. Throughout the day both Mr. Elkins and Mr. Aldrich remained on the floor, and the actual handling of the bill in times of trouble devolved upon Mr. Aldrich.

TILLMAN GOES SOUTH.

Senator Well Enough to Travel to His Home to Complete Recovery.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Senator Tillman, with his wife and two daughters, left Washington for his home, in Trenton, S. C., to-day. The Senator, who a few weeks ago seemed at death's door, has so far rallied that he is well enough to walk, and his physicians declared there was no danger in his traveling.

If it is not possible for the Senator to return in time for the close of this session of Congress it is probable that he will go abroad for a rest after he has recovered further.

AGREE ON WHITE SLAVE BILL.

Conferrees Accept Amended Measure, Which Now Awaits Taft's Signature.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—An agreement was reached to-day by the conferrees on what is known as the "White Slave" bill, and the measure will become a law as soon as it is signed by the President.

The provision which made it a felony to furnish a ticket to send such persons from one State, Territory, or district into another State, Territory, or district was eliminated from the bill. The Senate opposed this inter-State commerce feature on the theory that it might easily be abused and innocent persons charitably inclined be persecuted under the provision.

Van Norden, Who Said He Lost $28,000, Said to be Ill Now Abroad.

With Warner M. Van Norden reported ill at Carlsbad, Bessie Roberts and May Williams, the women whom he accused of having taken $28,000 from him in the early morning of Jan. 30, were discharged on their own recognizance yesterday by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions. George Gordon Battle was there to assure the court that Mr. Van Norden was "seriously ill and indisputably requires at least six months' treatment."

The women have been in the Tombs for fifty-three days under the prohibitive bail of $30,000 each. In an affidavit filed yesterday by ex-Magistrate Wahle, as counusel, Bessie Roberts, known also as "Kit Dowdell," demanded trial, saying that she had never spoken to Mr. Van Norden in her life, and knew nothing of the alleged theft until she was disturbed in her household duties three days later, adding:

"I am convinced that the sole reason why the complainant is not in court and has left the jurisdiction is because he dare not face the trial of this indictment against me."

HIS FELLOWS ENVY ELDER.

Others Desire to Get in the "Spotlight" of Big Criminal Trials.

Rumors of friction in the District Attorney's office, Brooklyn, are circulating persistently in that borough, although they are denied by John F. Clarke and his assistants. The trouble is said to be due to the assignment of Robert H. Elder to most of the important cases. Others of Mr. Clarke's assistants are said to feel that they should receive a chance now and then to bask in the "spotlight" of what they call "big criminals trials."

Assistant District Attorney Robert H. Roy is said to be one of the dissatisfied ones, and to want to change places with ex-Congressman Mitchell May, who is counsel to County Clerk Henry P. Molloy. Mr. Roy receives a salary of $6,000 while that of Mr. May is only $3,500.

Mr. May is said to be willing to make the change, but it is not known whether Mr. Clarke will consent.

In a Very Unique Sale To-day

☞ Fourth Floor.

THE Rugs represent the entire collection of a celebrated Arabian collector from Damascus. In fact, they were his entire property; every cent he had was invested in this collection. It is impossible to describe how much he prized these rugs. Their associations because of the length of time it took to collect them, and because of the very many obscure places in which he found them, meaning, of course, that they are most unique, in design, texture, in color detail. Our representative fell in with this Arabian collector in his travels and purchased the entire collection for The Simpson Crawford Company.

The sizes range from 2½x5, 3½x6, to as large as 4x7, and, in some instances, 8 feet long. A regular retail value would be impossible; because of the purchase price. WE have decided to sell them at $18.70

PLAN TO DISCIPLINE GRADUATING CADETS

Unruly Ones Must Remain After Close of West Point Year to Do Extra Tour Duty.

WAR SECRETARY SO ORDERS

But Col. Scott Suggested It After Some of the Cadets Had "Guyed" a Lecturer.

Secretary of War Dickinson and Col. Scott, Superintendent of West Point, have found a way to get ahead of the mischievous first classmen of West Point. They have evolved a scheme to force such cadets as carry the rule breaking too far to remain after the regular graduation and pay the penalty in extra tours.

Graduating day at West Point is June 1. A week or ten days ago a number of first classmen discovered that the limit of punishment that they could walk out in the old triangle had been reached, and that whatever they did that was non-expellable could not be used as an excuse for extra tours. Then they began to get gay, and for some time the extra tours that they thought they never would have to walk have been piling up.

Some time to-day the future officers will learn that they have made a serious mistake so far as not walking those extra tours is concerned. The news of Secretary Dickinson's action reached West Point yesterday in the shape of a favorable reply to a suggestion of Col. Scott as to a plan which would make possible the punishment of cadets who thought, owing to the nearness of graduation day, they were immune from extra tour duty.

The prank that set Col. Scott to thinking of some way to stop the first class mischief happened a few weeks ago, when a lecturer, paid by the War Department, came to West Point to lecture to the cadets.

The War Department lectures at West Point are always held on Saturday nights, and all of the cadets, except those in hospital, are required to attend. These lectures often come at very inopportune times, particularly if the subject of the discourse is a bit dry.

The lecturer who was the innocent cause of Col. Scott's recommendation to Secretary Dickinson, happened to have as his subject one of the dry topics that so many of the cadets fail to appreciate. It was just before his appearance in Cullum Hall that the first class cadets who thought they had reached the final limit of extra tour duty decided to have some fun with the lecturer.

The lecturer came, and the extra tour immunes were in their seats, looking solemn as judges when he started to tell his story. The lecturer began with "tears," as one of the cadets put it, and immediately the extra tour brigade began to laugh. Then he told a funny story and they made a sound as if weeping. When applause was expected they were quiet as the Sphinx, and when it was not wanted they made the rafters ring with handclapping.

Col. Scott did not like this proceeding, and the next morning he sat down and wrote out an order which he sent to Washington for Secretary Dickinson's approval. He recommended that first class cadets who on their graduation day, as a result of having thought themselves immune from punishment, had, more or less, purposely acquired extra tours, be not graduated with the well-behaved cadets on June 1, but held over one month, during which time they would be required to wipe their slates clear of extra tours. Secretary Dickinson's indorsement of the plan was received at West Point yesterday.

It is said that one cadet will certainly be held over until July 1 as a result of the new order, and rumors are that several more may have to "stay in after school."

Col. Scott was asked about the plan yesterday and laughingly replied that the story of the order was correct. He admitted that he thought the new rule a very good one, and was sure it would have a fine effect on the discipline of the Academy.

AN AUSTRALIAN WEST POINT.

Commonwealth Studies Academy with View to Duplicating It in Antipodes.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 16.—The Commonwealth of Australia is to be the home of a military academy, which, it is said, will be in all essential respects practically a copy of the famous institution here at West Point. Col. Bridges of the Imperial General Staff of the British Army has just left here on his return to Australia by way of Great Britain, and in his trunks he carries plans, documents, and schedules of study which are expected to aid Australia to realize her dream of possessing a great army school.

The idea of such a school for the training of Australian officers originated with Lord Kitchener, and it was that famous soldier who suggested to the Australian Government to send a capable officer to America to study the plan and scope of the Military Academy at West Point. Lord Kitchener, it is said, considers West Point the peer of any similar institution in the world.

Col. Bridges of the General Staff, whose visit was the result of this advice, is regarded as one of the most capable of the younger generation of officers in the British service. Col. Bridges came to this country with letters of introduction to the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, and the Secretary of War, besides a large number of well-known American Army officers, and Ambassador Bryce, who was instructed by his home Government to see that Col. Bridges had every opportunity to carry out his mission, personally presented him to the proper authorities in Washington.

Col. Bridges came to West Point armed with a letter from Adjutant Gen. Ainsworth to Col. Hugh L. Scott, Superintendent of the Academy, which directed on behalf of the Secretary of War that all facilities and courtesies practicable be extended to "the representative of the Commonwealth of Australia on the Imperial General Staff, who has been ordered to the United States for the purpose of visiting the United States Military Academy and of studying its working with a view to the organization in Australia of a military college on the lines of that institution."

Col. Bridges arrived here last Wednesday week and remained until yesterday. In that time he had every opportunity to study the workings of the institution, the way discipline is maintained, the scheme of study, and the system of military training of the cadets. One day he was in charge of Col. Fiebeger, the Professor of Engineering; the next, Col. Larned, West Point's Teacher of Drawing, was his escort; the next, Lieut. Col. Sibley, the Commandant of Cadets, and so on down the list until Col. Bridges had seen and had explained to him nearly everything that he desired to know about West Point.

Col. Bridges said just before his departure that his visit had been one of the pleasantest and most instructive of his career. He was unstinted in his praise of the institution, the officers who control it, and the cadets that go to make up the West Point Cadet Corps.

British and Portuguese Clash.

LISBON, March 16.—The Diario announces that a serious conflict between Portuguese and the British officials engaged in delimiting the frontier has occurred at Tete, a town on the southern bank of the Zambesi River in Portuguese East Africa, and that as a result lively notes are now being exchanged between the Governments of Portugal and Great Britain.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

RIO JANEIRO, March 16.—Marshal Hermes Fonseca, President-elect of Brazil, is expected to arrive here from Rio Grande do Sul soon. His partisans have prepared a great reception.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, March 16.—Manifestations of friendliness for Chile continue. To-day the Government gave a banquet to the officers of the Chilean schoolship Baquedano. A rumor that Peru had invaded a point in the eastern region of Ecuador resulted in a monster meeting of protest last night.

CURZON SUPPORTS ROSEBERY.

But Has No Sympathy for Purely Elective House of Lords.

LONDON, March 16.—When the House of Lords adjourned to-night the debate on the Rosebery resolutions looking to the reform of the Chamber had not been concluded, but it was expected that they would be referred to committee to-morrow without revision. The speeches generally showed a strong feeling against any tampering with the hereditary principle.

Lord Kurzon of Kedleston, the chief speaker to-day, supported Lord Rosebery and favored a scheme partly elective and partly nominative, but opposed destroying the hereditary principle, and had no sympathy for a purely elective chamber.

Lord Cromer also supported Lord Rosebery, but showed himself only a lukewarm reformer. The Earl of Halsbury spoke strongly for the retention of the existing constitution of the House.

John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary Party, speaking at Newcastle to-night, predicted a general election within a month. Hence, he said, as the United States had paid nearly three-fourths of the $50,000 which the last elections had cost the Irish party, he hoped the American brethren would help them in the coming election.

JAPAN FOR ARBITRAL COURT.

Difficulties in Carrying Out Knox Plan Not Considered Insurmountable.

TOKIO, March 16.—Japan will not object to the permanent peace court proposed by Secretary Knox, though the Foreign Office has kept a discreet silence on the subject. Inquiry, however, develops that, while there are undoubtedly some difficulties in the way, these are not insurmountable. Japan, while giving consent to the plan, will point out that a compulsory court of arbitration must be most carefully organized. In this case fifteen countries are involved, but only a few of the powers are to have permanent Judges of the courts. Some difficulty is expected in securing harmony among the minor powers in the matter of their representation.

Again, there is the difficulty of securing positive pledge that the decisions of the courts will be accepted by all the powers concerned. For instance, it is pointed out that, while the United States might go into the arrangement in all good faith, nevertheless a convention based upon the decision of the court would have to be submitted to Congress and might be rejected.

SUFFRAGE BILL PASSED.

Prussian Diet Approves Measure Which Caused Socialist Demonstrations.

BERLIN, March 16.—The Diet passed the Government's Prussian Suffrage bill to-day without essential changes. The vote was 238 to 168.

The measure has been bitterly opposed by the Socialists, whose recent public demonstrations of protest have brought them into frequent conflicts with the police.

The bill substitutes direct suffrage for indirect. At present groups of 150 electors elect delegates, who in turn elect the members of the House. The new measure provides for the retention of the three-class electoral system, whereby the electors are classified according to the amount of taxes they pay, but officers, officials, and other members of the educated classes are placed in the first or second class, irrespective of the amount of their taxes.

The opposition to the bill was on the ground that it did not provide for a proper reform of the electoral system.

WRECKAGE FROM DUTCH LINER

Flotsam Off French Coast Shows Fate of Prins Willem II.

AMSTERDAM, March 16.—The first traces of the Dutch liner Prins Willem II. since she was reported missing were picked up at sea near Belle-Ile, off the coast of France, to-day, and leave no doubt regarding the fate of the vessel.

A life buoy and a boat's oar, both bearing the ship's name, were first found floating near Belle-Ile. Subsequently a propeller blade and a name board evidently belonging to the mail steamer were washed ashore at a neighboring island.

The Prins Willem II. of the Royal Dutch West Indian Mail Line sailed from Amsterdam for West Indian ports and New York on Jan. 21 and some time ago was given up as lost. The crew and passengers numbered fifty-two.

URGES PROTECTION IN BRITAIN

Association of Chambers of Commerce Declares for Tariff Reform.

LONDON, March 16.—The Association of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom, in session here, marked its jubilee annual meeting by adopting to-day resolutions in favor of a system of tariff reform "in the interests of British trade, increased employment, and colonial preference."

There was an animated discussion of the resolutions which developed considerable opposition, but the vote by Chambers showed the tariff reformers to be in the majority, 51 to 12. Forty-one Chambers took a neutral attitude. The association proposes to urge the Government to take the necessary steps to carry out the purport of the resolution.

JANNEY HELD A SUICIDE.

Coroner and Military Board Agree He Meant to Kill Himself.

MANILA, March 16.—The military investigation into the shooting of Lieut. Clarence M. Janney of the Twelfth Infantry, who was killed by his own pistol at the home of Col. Robert F. Ames at Fort William McKinley, has been completed and the report placed in the hands of Major Gen. William H. Carter, commanding the Department of Luzon.

The findings of the Coroner and the military board agree that Janney committed suicide. Gen. Carter, however, returned the report to the Board of Officers with the request that they secure additional testimony covering certain features of the case.

The testimony showed that Lieut. Janney and his wife quarreled at the dinner given at Col. Ames's house. Their differences were partly adjusted, and Janney departed. Mrs. Janney and Col. Ames testified that when Janney returned he put his revolver to his head and fired.

It is expected that the army board will hold that Janney died outside the line of duty, and that the customary six months' pay to the widow will be withheld.

FORTY DROWNED IN AZORES.

Many Lost in Wreck of Bark Were Bound for America.

LISBON, March 16.—The Portuguese Governor of the Azores cables from Horta, Island of Fayal, that the Portuguese bark reported yesterday as lost in a storm off Pico Island, was loaded with emigrants bound for America. Forty lives were lost. Twenty-three of the passengers and crew were saved. The bodies of twenty-eight persons have been washed ashore.

The Governor reports that the bark was an old hulk and inadequately manned. When the survivors reached land they ran terror stricken into the hills.

The vessel foundered soon after sailing from Pico.

Motorists Held for Running Man Down

Ned R. Fox and Chester A. Patterson, both real estate brokers of Echo Avenue, New Rochelle, and who, the New Rochelle police say, were in the automobile which ran down James O'Brien of Larchmont on the Boston Post Road at New Rochelle early on Monday morning, surrendered themselves to Coroner Boedecker at New Rochelle yesterday. They declined to make any statement on advice of counsel.

TAFT GOES WESTWARD TO GREET IRISHMEN

Studies Hibernian History En Route to Chicago—Admits Having Kissed Blarney Stone.

HE OWNS TO 313 POUNDS

His Auto on Leaving the White House Nearly Hits a Woman, and Then Almost Clashes with Car.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—President Taft left here at 9:10 A. M. over the Pennsylvania Railroad for Chicago, where he will attend the St. Patrick's day banquet of the Irish Fellowship Club. He is due there at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning. From Chicago the President will "swing around the circle" to Rochester, Albany, New York, New Haven, and Providence, and will not be in Washington again until March 28.

On his way to the station from the White House, the President had an exciting moment when the White House automobile narrowly escaped running down a woman. The President, seeing the impending accident, was on his feet in an instant and shouted a warning. The car afterward almost hit a trolley car. The President was accompanied by Capt. Archibald W. Butt, his military aide, and several White House attachés.

PITTSBURG, March 16.—While his train sped over the Alleghany Mountains President Taft devoted himself to preparing his St. Patrick's Day speech, assiduously reading "The History of Ireland" and "The Life of St. Patrick."

At Altoona Mayor Hoyer greeted the President, who manifested much interest in the situation at Philadelphia. Mayor Hoyer told the President that there were hopes for peace in the Quaker City, at which the Executive expressed his gratification.

Upon arriving in Pittsburg, Mayor William A. Magee welcomed the President, who also received a delegation of the Americus Club, at whose banquet he will deliver an address on May 2.

One of the President's callers asked him if he was an Irishman. "No, I am not," he responded. "The nearest to an Irishman the Taft family ever had is in name. That was borne by a Count Taafe of Ireland. I will confess, however, that I have kissed the blarney stone."

The President assured Mayor Magee that he would be here May 2 and would attend the ball game between the Chicago and Pittsburg clubs. He asked if it was to be an exhibition game or "one for blood."

"Do you know what appeals to me in those games?" he said. "It is that big Dutchman—what's his name—oh, yes, Wagner. He looks as if he could not get anywhere, and yet he gets everywhere. Do you know that if I saw him miss a ball I would think he was bluffing."

After Mayor Magee had departed, Mrs. T. McK. Laughlin of this city and Mrs. Charles Anderson and Miss Herron of Cincinnati, sisters of Mrs. Taft, spent half an hour with the President in his car.

News of the President's visit spread broadcast, and outside the station a crowd had assembled. A few of the privileged were admitted to the immediate vicinity of the car, and just before it pulled out a big stout man, with a face beaming with smiles, saw the President on the rear platform and shouted:

"Hey, Mr. President, I'm almost as big as you are."

"How much do you weigh" inquired Mr. Taft.

"Two hundred and ninety-five pounds," the big fellow answered, and as the train began to pull out the President hurled back:

"Oh, you are not in my class. I weighed 313 the last time I was on the scales," and wearing the famous Taft smile, he doffed his hat to the assemblage as his train rolled out of the station.

The train is scheduled to arrive at Chicago at 8 A. M. to-morrow over the Fort Wayne Road.

GERMANY NEEDS PRESS AGENT

Scheme Proposed in Reichstag to Influence Foreign Press.

BERLIN, March 16.—Herr Dirksen, Conservative, proposed in the Reichstag to-day that the Governmental secret service funds be used in an attempt to influence the opinion of the foreign press in favor of Germany. He asserted that such a course was necessary in order to counteract energetically and quickly the effects of the present attacks on Germany, which he said was universally disliked.

Herr Dirksen explained that the desired end might be accomplished by securing the insertion of friendly articles in the newspapers. In justifying his plan he referred to the practice of certain members of the Diplomatic Corps. Some of these men, he said, had been promoted to high positions at phenomenally youthful ages, one such attracting attention to himself by obtaining prominence in the press.

Predicts Much Bigger Dreadnoughts.

LONDON, March 16.—The battleship of the future may be 50 per cent. larger than the present Dreadnought, according to Rear Admiral Bacon, commander of the original Dreadnought, who addressed the Institute of Naval Architects to-day. The size of the ships and the power of their guns must increase until actual war confirms or qualifies the present theories of naval construction, he said.

Former Secretary to Duez Arrested.

PARIS, March 16.—M. Poitel, formerly secretary to M. Duez, the embezzling Government liquidator, was arrested to-day, charged with the misappropriation of $6,000 in connection with the sale of church property.

The home of THE COWARD SHOE is at 264-274 Greenwich Street, near Warren Street, New York—not exactly in a shopping district.

Still, the business, founded over 40 years ago, has steadily increased—the last few years in rapid strides, until now it fills six stores in our rebuilt building.

The reason for this marked success is found in the quotation above—it's the satisfaction of the contented thousands comfortably shod in COWARD SHOES—thousands who have found out that the Coward Shoe is better than other shoes.

And right here lies the second point of our success—for 40 years we've tried to make THE COWARD SHOE better than others—more than that—to make it as good as a shoe possibly can be made.

Have we succeeded?

Talks on Teeth
BY
G. GORDON MARTIN
(INCORPORATED)

Teeth Without Plates

A few years ago Marconi, the great Italian Electrical Wizard, made the statement that he would soon be able to send messages through the air without the use of wires. The world said another crank had allowed his wheels to run away. Nonsense — wireless telegraphy—what next?

In many ways the public was as sceptical about teeth without plates or ordinary bridge work as a great number were about messages without wires.

How can you make teeth stay in their proper place unless you fasten them to a plate? This was a sticker. The fact that the cases we supplied years ago are still giving excellent satisfaction is the best evidence we can bring in support of our claim that the Martinolar Teeth are solid as well as satisfactory.

Read the following testimonial regarding the Martinolar Method from Rev. Dr. Charles J. Adams, one of the twenty thousand patients who have been treated by us during the past six years:—

Bureau of Biophilism, Charles Josiah Adams, D. D., St. Luke's Church, Rossville, Staten Island, New York.
G. GORDON MARTIN (Inc.).

Dear Sirs:—Please accept a word of appreciation of the benefit which I have received from your Martinolar Process. The teeth which you placed for me some months ago are only less satisfactory than my natural teeth would have been—or as I think they would have been—it being some years since I have had them in perfection.

I have felt for some time that I should bear this testimony. The member of my family whom you treated when you treated me is, also, fully satisfied with results.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLES J. ADAMS.

The Martinolar Method does not call for any painful experience while the work is being done or afterwards—no boring or cutting into the gums, nothing to fear or dread in any way.

We want every man and woman in this country and Canada to know about the Martinolar Method and to call. We have just had printed a new edition of our book "Martinolar Dentistry," which tells of the work in detail and is a most valuable treatise on the teeth.

When you read this book you will want to come to our office and have your work done, provided you have loose teeth or they are in danger of being loose through disease of decay.

This book is absolutely free. To those who can come to our office we offer a free diagnosis and examination of the teeth. We must have two or more teeth to work with, and as teeth never grow better, once they start to go delays are dangerous—come in today and see us or send for the book.

BOGUS PAINTINGS SOLD IN PLENTY

Park Commissioner Smith Got One from Clausen, Which Was Exchanged Upon Discovery.

HOMER MARTINS BY DAWSON

Son of the Dead Painter Says Two Pictures on Which Mr. Evans Sues Were Not His Father's Work.

Ex-Park Commissioner Henry Smith was a witness yesterday in the Supreme Court suit of William T. Evans, the art collector, against William Clausen, the art dealer. He added one to the list of persons who say that Clausen sold them bogus paintings. Commissioner Smith said he bought a picture called "Golden Sunset" on representations from Clausen that it had been painted by George Inness. He noticed that the golden sunset began to take on a dark yellow hue.

"I went to Clausen more in sorrow than in anger," he said. 'Brother, what is the matter?' Clausen asked me.

"'You have sold me a fake Inness. Where did you get it?' I said.

"'It is my invariable rule,' said he, 'never to tell where I get pictures.'

"I replied, 'That will damn you with me.'

"Later he took the picture back and gave me some other pictures in trade for it."

Mr. Smith said that he had been credibly informed that the picture in question had come from the studio of Arthur Dawson, the artist who is mentioned as having been the painter of a number of bogus old masters. Dawson's name was mentioned several times during the day's hearing of the case.

Arthur C. Fredericks, a manufacturer of painters' canvas, testified that the canvas on the two paintings about which Mr. Evans is suing was made by his firm not earlier than five years ago. It is understood that the defense in the action will be that the paintings which were removed from the Corcoran Art Gallery, Washington, D. C., after they had been condemned as spurious, were early specimens of the work of Homer D. Martin.

Ralph Martin, a son of the dead painter, who is a chemist in California, pronounced the two paintings, "Near Newport" and the "Old Mill Near St. Cloud" imitations.

"I would know my father's work as I would know his voice," he said.

Mr. Martin caused some amusement by saying that he used to visit his father's studio and remain for such long periods that his father would give him money to go away.

William Macbeth, the Fifth Avenue dealer, testified that the two paintings over which there is a dispute are forgeries. He said he could tell a painter's work just as a layman can tell a friend's handwriting.

Frederick W. Kost, the artist, said he knew both Evans and Clausen very well. He had been engaged in 1893, he said, to examine an alleged Homer D. Martin painting which Clausen had sold to Lyman D. Bloomingdale. On his recommendation Mr. Bloomingdale sent the picture back to Clausen's gallery. The next day he visited Clausen's gallery and asked him about the picture. He inquired of Clausen:

"Who painted that picture—Dawson?" and Clausen, he said, replied:

"No, Dawson paints no more Homer Martins for me."

Kost testified that he pressed Clausen to tell whether the picture was genuine, and Clausen burst out with the angry exclamation:

"Do you think that if that was a real Homer Martin I'd have made such a disposal of it?"

"I said, 'Why that looks like a bunko game,' and he answered, 'Why, the whole picture business is a bunco game!'"

Kost said that his suspicions had been aroused against the "Near Newport" and "Old Mill Near St. Cloud" pictures by the artificial discoloration on their backs.

LOST A DIAMOND BAR PIN.

Mrs. Edward Kuhn Missed $500 Trinket on Leaving Riverside Stage.

Mrs. Edward Kuhn of 118 West Seventy-second Street, whose husband is a nephew of one of the founders of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., started downtown for a visit to her dressmaker's yesterday in a Riverside stage. The stage was rather crowded, but Mrs. Kuhn is quite sure that none of her fellow-passengers was a pickpocket. Shortly after the stage had passed Forty-second Street Mrs. Kuhn rose to get out. The vehicle swayed somewhat, and Mrs. Kuhn found that all her attention was needed to alight from it. She has an indistinct recollection of having heard something fall to the floor with a jingle, but thought that it was only a small coin dropped by one of the other passengers.

About the first thing her dressmaker said to her, however, was that one of the fastenings of her collar was missing. Then Mrs. Kuhn discovered she had lost a $500 diamond bar pin. Mrs. Kuhn was greatly troubled at its loss, and immediately telephoned to the stage company. All the stages which seemed likely to be the one Mrs. Kuhn had taken were searched. But the pin was not found. A passenger may have picked it up. Mrs. Kuhn is trying to recover the pin through the lost and found column of THE TIMES.

HIS COMPLAINT EXPENSIVE.

Mr. Crane Learns He Must Repair His Own Sidewalk or Pay a Fine.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., March 16.—Israel Crane, a wealthy property owner of this place, wrote a wrathful letter the other day to the town authorities, calling attention to the fact that the sidewalk and gutter in front of his property in Union Street was in what he termed "a disgraceful state of unrepair." The indignant letter-writer demanded that the municipal officers do something about it at once.

His request was complied with. To-day he received a communication from the Town Clerk, thanking him for having called the attention of the authorities to the condition of the sidewalk and gutter, and reminding him that a town ordinance of many years' standing requires the property owner to keep his sidewalk and gutter in good condition under penalty of a fine.

Mr. Crane has not let a contract yet for the repairs.

40 CENTS FOR SEVEN BOATS.

Six Skiffs and a Lifeboat Sold for That; $55 for a Police Launch.

Six skiffs, each about 12 feet long, and a metal lifeboat that formerly belonged to the Morgan Line steamer El Cid, were knocked down for 40 cents to an unnamed buyer at the police auction sale of unclaimed and condemned craft at 120th Street and the Harlem River yesterday.

Alderman Marx disposed of twenty-four lots of skiffs and scows and rowboats and launches, and the whole outfit brought only $151.10.

One hundred persons, mostly those engaged in the boat business, attended the sale, and there was not a lively bidder among them. Skiffs measuring from 8 to 20 feet in length brought anywhere from 10 cents to $5.

When the sale was over and it was found that six skiffs and a lifeboat had not been bid upon Alderman Marx put up the combined lot and had hard work to get 40 cents for them.

A 14-foot launch with a Palmer engine sold for $55.

LOST PET DOG FROM AUTO.

Mrs. Toucey Offers Reward in the Lost Column for "Girlie."

Mrs. J. M. Toucey of 61 East Sixty-fifth Street went shopping in her automobile last Monday, taking with her a black pomeranian dog named Girlie, which she has had only two weeks, and which had become greatly attached to her.

Mrs. Toucey visited a store at Sixth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, and there neglected to close the door of the automobile after her. Girlie, apparently so fond of her mistress that she could not bear to me out of her sight even for a few minutes, jumped out of the automobile to follow her.

When Mrs. Toucey came out of the store Girlie had disappeared. Mrs. Toucey is much troubled over the loss of her new pet. She had not owned Girlie long enough even to have a collar made for her. In THE TIMES Lost column she is offering a reward of $30 for Girlie's return.

BORN CROOK, SAYS MULQUEEN

As He Sentences William J. Rausch for Forgery of a Check.

Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions released on suspended sentence yesterday a man who had confessed the forgery of a dozen checks, and whom he described as a "natural born crook." He added the conviction that the prisoner would be before him again in six months.

"And if you come back here again I'll send you to prison for the rest of your life," he said. "I have never yet made a mistake in the use of my discretion, and I have never broken my word in all my life."

This was addressed to William J. Rausch of 541 East 147th Street, who had been a clerk in the Importers' Warehouse Company, 63 South Street. The specific charge to which he pleaded guilty was forgery in the second degree, relating to a $50 check on the People's Bank of East Orange. Leniency was urged by his employers, his church people, and his family.

FINDS CITY WEIGHTS AND MEASURES BAD

Disclosures by Chief of State Bureau Cause City's Bureau Head to Resign.

UNDER CHARGES BEFORE

44 Per Cent. of Scales Examined Now Found to be "Short"—Inspection Lax and Chaotic, Report Says.

Patrick Derry, Chief of the Bureau of Weights and Measures, resigned yesterday following disclosures made by Dr. Fritz Reichman, State Superintendent of Weights and Measures. The latter has been conducting an investigation of the bureau at the request of Mayor Gaynor.

Dr. Reichman reports that the work of the office has been carried on in a very lax manner, and that a large percentage of the scales, weights, and measures examined by his inspectors in this city were found to be "short." In his report he says:

> The facts given in the appended tables seem to indicate clearly that the Bureau of Weights and Measures of the City of New York has not accomplished with any degree of approximation the end for which it exists, namely, securing correct weighing and measuring apparatus in use in trade for the protection of the legitimate dealer and the protection of the consumer. The quantity delivered is of the utmost economic importance for an equitable basis of trade. Honest and uniform weights and measures and the proper use of weights and measures are of primary importance, particularly to the poor. It is highly regrettable that the state of affairs revealed in the appended tables should exist. The chaotic conditions revealed clearly indicate that there is a lack of intelligent appreciation of the economic importance of systematic weights and measures inspection, irrespective of the fact that the ordinance governing the subject particularly prescribes the sealing.

Derry has been in trouble for some time. A year ago charges were made against him by Dr. Reichman to Mayor McClellan. The latter turned the matter over to the Commissioners of Accounts. Nothing was heard of the investigation, however, until after Mayor Gaynor came into office. Charges were preferred by Derry against Lee J. Mills, one of the sealers of the bureau, in January, at which disclosures were made which caused further rumors concerning Derry's fate to be circulated.

A short time ago the new Municipal Civil Service Commission announced its intention of considering the transfer of the place back to the exempt classification. Derry was put on the protected rolls by Mayor McClellan. Derry was appointed by Mayor McClellan in 1904. He was a Tammany man, but broke away from the organization when the Mayor made his fight against it in 1906.

Mr. Mills testified at the hearing on the charges against him that he and the other men in the office had never worked more than two hours a day until Mayor Gaynor came into office. He explained that when the recent investigation started Derry had ordered him and the other sealers to "stay on the job" from 9 to 4 every day.

Dr. Reichman's disclosures are interesting as well as alarming. He reports that his men made an inspection of the scales and measures in use in the majority of the small stores in the principal streets of the five boroughs of the city. The places visited included grocery stores, markets, fish stores, and miscellaneous provision shops. In Manhattan 300 scales were found incorrect, 44 per cent. of which were found to be "short"; 100 weights were found incorrect, 66 per cent. of them being short. Of the measures inspected 128 were found to be incorrect, 59 per cent. of them "short." About the same percentage was found in the other boroughs.

Supt. Reichman's Inspectors visited fifteen public garages in the city and found that 66 per cent. of the pumps used in measuring gasoline were incorrect. Special attention was also paid to the scales used in tobacco stores, and a large percentage of these were found to be incorrect.

FREED OF GIRL'S CHARGE.

Justices Dismiss Case Against H. G. Barber, Wealthy Coal Dealer.

After a few moments spent in discussion the Judges in Special Sessions acquitted Harry G. Barber yesterday of the charge of impairing the morals of a child.

Barber is a wealthy coal merchant, with yards at Water Street and James Slip and a home at 291 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn. He is 44 years old. Mary Sullivan, 13 years old, living at 86 Catharine Street, told the court an unflinching story of treatment she said she had received at his hands, and this was followed by testimony of bad reputation furnished by Father Curry and Father Rafter of St. James's and the Rev. Orrin G. Cox of the Church of Land and Sea.

The little girl's story was denied by one of Barber's employes and one of his relatives. He himself did not take the stand, but several of his friends testified to his good character.

Assistant District Attorney Appleton said he would not prosecute the case contained in a similar complaint against Barber made by the Gerry Society in behalf of a child named Nellie Carabella.

HELD UP BY NEGROES.

Mr. Plowman Fought Them Off and Saved His Diamond Scarfpin.

Two negroes attempted early yesterday morning to hold up Arthur S. Plowman as he was going from the end of the Broadway Subway to his home, a frame house at Broadway and 251st Street. Mr. Plowman showed fight, and the negroes made off after hitting out at him. They broke his spectacles, causing a slight cut on the face, but got nothing from Mr. Plowman. He was wearing a valuable diamond scarfpin, which had been presented to him by the Kingsbridge Board of Real Estate Brokers. He covered this with his hand and saved it.

Mr. Plowman returned at once to the Subway Station, where he had just passed a policeman, and told him of the assault. At the same time Mounted Policeman Woodbridge came up from toward Yonkers, having been alarmed by a woman who had seen the fight and blown a police whistle from her window. The negroes had disappeared in the direction of Riverdale, through some woods, and could not be traced. They are believed to have come from a distance, as there is no colored population in that district.

THE MORALITY OF LEADERS.

One of the questions Mr. WOODRUFF and his "organization" will have to determine is the standard of rectitude to be applied to "leaders"—legislative or other—in the Republican Party. Quite apart from the question of guilt on the charge of accepting bribes, Mr. WOODRUFF's successful candidate for leader of the Senate has avowed that he received from a claimant against the State some $7,000 to $8,000, about 22 per cent. of the amount of the claim, while he was a legislator and favorable legislation was pending. He had previously avowed that he was cognizant of the reported existence of a corruption fund as to which he took no definite action, though the fund was alleged to be intended to promote action which Boss PLATT had requested him to support.

How far will such facts as these affect the standing of politicians under Mr. WOODRUFF's administration? They cannot well be isolated. They show the level of virtue recently attained. The public will not "stand for" them. What will the organization do about them?

THE SAVINGS BANK INTEREST RATE.

It is necessary to take sides rather with Bank Superintendent CHENEY than with his critics in the matter of his recommendation regarding the rate of interest which savings banks should pay. He thinks they are paying too much, but "up-State" papers are agitating for an increase. For example, The Syracuse Herald says: "About 120 of the 140 savings banks of the State find no difficulty in paying 4 per cent. to depositors, and at the same time reserving a sufficient surplus." Accordingly there is pressure for the country savings banks to raise their rates just as New York City banks are reducing theirs.

The Herald is in error in saying that six-sevenths of the savings banks are able to pay 4 per cent. "without endangering their surpluses." On the contrary, some months ago we called attention to the fact that the aggregated surplus of all the savings banks had been declining steadily for several years. Twenty years ago at market value the percentage of surplus to deposits was .17. Last year it was .07. This year Supt. CHENEY reports that it decreased one-third of one per cent.—no great matter, but considerable as an addition to the decreases which had preceded. Moral pressure to pay higher interest rates from surplus should not be exerted, for the reason that already the legal requirements are troublesome. The law requires that the surplus shall not exceed 15 per cent., and that all over 10 per cent. shall be invested. The maximum allowed is none too large for such conditions as are too fresh in memory to encourage a hope that they will never return, and the compulsion of investment works out into an obligation of purchase during boom times at a level which is not consistent with full payments to depositors.

The gain in deposits reported by the Superintendent is almost the largest known, and the duty of earning a return upon $92,306,321 more comes at a time when previous investments incapacitate the banks from availing themselves of the tempting opportunities now offering. Thus, in explaining why the banks would not be able to take the 4¼ bonds of New York City, the President of the Bowery Savings Bank said that the savings banks could not sell out securities they had to invest them in others. That is too speculative for savings banks, and could only be done at the cost of disturbing amortization calculations upon securities acquired to hold to maturity.

Fortunately our depositors are wiser than those elsewhere in the State who are being encouraged to ask what the Superintendent counsels against. Some of our banks which are reducing their interest rate are finding their gain of business undisturbed, and others are losing only what they can better afford to part with than to retain it at the price. When the percentage of surplus has halved in a decade it is full time to support the Superintendent in advising that "every bank whose deposits are increasing should carry proportionate sums to its surplus at every dividend period." To advance the interest rate competitively is censurable. It is bad enough in commercial banks. It is worse in savings banks, which receive savings to keep, not to use for profit. If depositors want a larger interest return it is not difficult to get, but it should be enjoyed only at the risk of those who profit by it, and not at the risk of other depositors. It is a perversion of function to convert semi-charitable institutions for the encouragement of thrift into investment institutions.

The foreign practice is more or less automatically to invest overgrown savings accounts in securities. Thereafter the income is credited to the depositor's account, and if he wants a settlement he gets his documents, to his profit or loss as the case may be. Something like this would be preferable here, rather than to maintain a rate of interest which is burdensome through its attractions to those who should be investors on their own account, and who could not make a better beginning than under the oversight of their banks. If the officers of these institutions should assume the care and custody of such securities they would both retain their clients as investors instead of depositors, and would perform a useful educational function.

TEN MINUTES.

The fate of the greatest court building on this continent, a building that should stand for centuries as a landmark of the Greater City of New York, is not, we hope, to be decided after a hearing of but ten minutes allotted to each side in the contest over its location.

That, nevertheless, seems to be the plan of the hearing before the Mayor and Board of Estimate and Apportionment to-morrow morning. From whatever point of view, whether of architectural desirability, of economy, or of public policy, the proposed site for the new County Court Building in City Hall Park is unthinkable. Mr. ERNEST FLAGG, in a letter appearing yesterday in The Sun, expressed the opinion of all the best architects when he said that the placing in juxtaposition with the City Hall of a prodigious winged and ten-storied structure resembling the City Hall in outlines and appearance, would produce an effect "as if the larger building had hatched out a young one." The choice of the Park site, shutting in the magnificent Hall of Records, impairing the splendor of the new Municipal Building on Tryon Row, dwarfing the City Hall, and destroying the possibilities for architectural improvement on the blocks north of Chambers Street, would be a blunder.

The choice would be expensive, too. The old courts building would have to be torn down. Pending the erection of the gigantic new structure the courts must be housed somewhere. Not less than 300,000 square feet would accommodate them. Space available in armories is not half enough. Estimates of rentals amounting to upward of $250,000 yearly have been made. Nobody knows when the new building by the city will be completed. Those who say two years are sufficient have doubtless never heard of the Public Library on Forty-second Street, which has taken ten years to build. Meanwhile the lawyers and Judges will be discommoded in costly quarters scattered over the city. The city might more cheaply retain the old building, buy for $3,000,000 the fitting site on the north side of Reade Street, or any other of several available sites. To cram the great palace of justice into the small park would be unfitting, it would prevent future expansion, it would make a monstrosity of what should be a glory and a pride to the city.

Let those who are to appeal to-morrow against this contemplated stultification of public policy spend their ten minutes in arguing for a further hearing—further hearings.

RE-FORMING THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

> We are not going to improve the House of Lords at all. What we are going to do is to deprive the House of Lords of its veto.

This was the declaration of Prime Minister ASQUITH in a campaign speech in Scotland, in reply to a question from a "heckler" in the audience. The latest dispatches from London say that Mr. ASQUITH has a plan for re-forming the Lords, somewhat on the plan of our Senate, with some 240 members elected for a long term, by the present parliamentary voters, each member from a large group of present constituencies. But the proposed House would have only delaying powers. If they differed with the Commons, the difference must be settled in joint session, where the Commoners would be as about 3 to 1. The main object of the Premier remains to strip the House of Lords of its veto power and to prevent any forced appeal to the people during the "life" of a Parliament, which is seven years. It is practically the single chamber Government, such as has not been in existence in any country of the world since the French Revolution.

Now, this programme cannot possibly be carried in the present session. The Daily News says: "Unless the Government find themselves in a position to insure that the veto proposals will not alone pass the House of Commons but pass into law the Cabinet will resign office." The condition cannot be fulfilled. A new election within a very short time must come. The Lords are preparing for it by the discussion of a real reform, the abolition of hereditary right to a seat in the House being the prime feature of the proposed reform. The chief issue in the election will substantially be the improvement as against the virtual abolition of the second chamber. If this could be made the sole issue the result would not be very doubtful, but it will be mixed up—thanks to the vacillation of Mr. BALFOUR—with the issue of protection, and the outcome may be as little decisive as that of the elections this Winter.

The House Committee on Military Affairs looks askance at the bills proposing reinstatement of cadets dismissed from West Point. Ordinarily there would be nothing remarkable in this. The House committee's position is precisely that of Supt. SCOTT of West Point, of Secretary of War DICKINSON, of President TAFT, and of all citizens who wish to see the National Military Academy maintained as a school of discipline, and not as a school of unrule. The officials immediately concerned have spoken their mind before both the Senate and House committees. But, at last accounts, the committee of the Senate remained obdurate to their reasons.

Mr. TAFT telegraphs to the Illinois Republican Association: "Sincerely hope that the Republican editors of Illinois will stand by the action of the Republican Congress and Republican Administration in reference to the tariff bill and other progressive legislation." This is going one better on Hamlet's philosophy that there's nothing good or ill, but thinking makes it so. Mr. TAFT seems to hold that there's nothing progressive or reactionary, but calling it one or the other will make it so. The tariff legislation of the Republican Congress and the Republican Administration is about as "progressive" as the traditional crab, and there is not a man in Illinois smart enough to run a county newspaper who, whatever he may say, does not know that simple fact.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Scientist Indulges in Paradox.

In a recent lecture Sir WILLIAM RUMSEY answered, or at least gave an answer to, the question, How long will a given quantity of radium last? In other words, When will a substance which is constantly emitting minute particles of matter be entirely changed into the products of its decomposition? His reply to the first question was "never," and to the second, "forever."

Than Sir WILLIAM, of course, there is no higher authority on this subject, and assertions of his are not to be lightly doubted, but these are statements hard to accept as literally true, and the task is not made the easier by the analogy to which he resorted in explaining the apparent paradox. He likened the emission of gases by radium to taking a slice of bread and cutting it in two, then cutting one half in two again, and so on. The last possible, or conceivable, halving would take place at the end of eternity—that is, the process would go on forever. It was exactly the same with radium, he said. Experiment had proved that at the end of 1,750 years just half of any given quantity of it would have been dissipated, but the remaining half would be only half gone at the end of the next 1,750 years, and the vanishing point would never be reached, since there would be no end to the division.

This reminds one of the old, old problem as to when a dog would overtake a hare if in each of successive periods of time the larger animal gained half the difference that separated him from the smaller at the beginning of the chase. Mathematicians laugh at the sophistry which "demonstrates" that the capture would never be effected, and agree with common sense and experience in declaring that the hare would surely be overtaken unless his "start" was as long as infinity. The store either of matter or of energy in a gram or ounce or pound of radium cannot be infinite, and therefore it cannot take an infinite time to exhaust it by a constant drain by no means infinitely small. Sir WILLIAM, however, was addressing a popular audience, not one of scientists, and he only took a picturesque way of telling his hearers that the emanations from radium are in constant proportion to its mass.

A Definition Would End the Quarrel.

A surprisingly large number of our correspondents have sent us letters, some of which we have printed, gravely offering answers to the question whether there is any sound where there are no ears to hear it. Though each writes with beautiful confidence that he is right they are about equally divided between the affirmative and the negative—and all are wrong, since not one of them has noted what ought to be the fact, that the question as asked is unanswerable.

The trouble with it is that as presented it ignores the double significance possessed by the word "sound." Part of the time, as used, it means the sensation in consciousness produced by certain air vibrations on the auditory nerves. At least as often it means the air vibrations themselves. In the one sense, of course there is no sound where there are no ears; in the other, ears have nothing to do with it. When we talk about the speed at which sound moves, the varying methods of its production, or the interference of atmospheric or other conditions with its transmission, we have reference to something which would continue to exist if there were not a living being in the universe, and it is "sound" just as much in a desert as in a city.

It is curious that the same question is never raised in regard to the other influences affecting the senses. At least those other influences—light, heat, taste, smell—do not become the subject of the same queer bepuzzlement. Yet each of these words is used in the same double significance, and, as a matter of fact, it is no easier to prove that sound is all in the hearing than to prove that everything we know is all in the knowing. Indeed, that "truth" has been the basis of many an absurd system of philosophy and not a few religions, and every year or two somebody "discovers" it anew. Argument that starts without an agreement on definitions—or proceeds without sticking to them—is a dreadful waste of time, at best, and at worst it lies at the bottom of most human wars and disputes, especially the fierce and bitter ones.

Let Prisons Seek Seclusion.

We incline to second the protest which one of our readers has made against the placing of prisons in places where they will be prominent objects in a wide landscape or be seen by many people in a narrow one. His special grievance was the selection of sites for these structures in view of travelers up and down the Hudson, and there is reality in it—perhaps a great deal.

The Hudson is a particularly beautiful and noble river, along many miles of its course, and to its shores cling associations for the most part elevating and inspiring. Prisons, on the contrary, are public confessions of social incompetence and failure, and not only do they depress and discourage the mind at all appreciative of their real meaning, but the sight of them is probably demoralizing in the same way that public executions are demoralizing.

It used to be thought that it had a good effect on people to see hangings and decapitations—that from such spectacles would be learned the consequences of crime and the wisdom of refraining from it. That theory has now been abandoned in most civilized lands, and it is generally deemed judicious to draw a thick veil around the law in the comparatively few cases when it resorts to the desperate expedient of putting men to death.

Imprisonment is only a mitigation of the death penalty. We are no longer proud of our best prisons, and we are heartily ashamed of the others. We know that, as prisons, their chief effect is to make bad men worse, and that only as they approach the character of schools have they any reformative or even deterrent influence. Therefore, at least until they get much closer to the ideal than they are to-day, it might be well to put every one of the ugly things where it will be seen by few, and the banks of the "American Rhine" should certainly be spared their wholly lamentable, half disgraceful, presence.

JUSTIFIABLE RICHES.

Where There Is a Creation of Wealth, Not a Transfer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of the 15th inst. your correspondent, "E.," asks: "What is gain in worldly substance on one side but loss on another?" The gain he has in mind is only a transfer of wealth and not a creation.

True gain is nobody's loss. If a man can make two blades of wheat grow where only one grew before the wealth he thus produces injures nobody, because he has taken it direct from nature. But too many fortunes nowadays are not thus innocently created, they are merely transfers of already existing wealth, just as a robber transfers a $20 bill from your pocket into his. Some people think that if a man gets his money legally he gets it honestly. Will they think the same if revolutionary proletariats pass laws to confiscate the fortunes of the rich?

Ambition to become rich is not to be condemned, but rather to be encouraged. Selfishness is human, and without it there could not be self-preservation. But equal selfishness, unless multiplied by unequal opportunities, would not produce the unequal results in men's fortunes which we see around us. It is the unequal opportunities that do the harm. Reformers have said so right along, and now we have the expert testimony of the millionaires themselves to the same effect.

These unequal opportunities are of various kinds. The tariff is one of the most barefaced. It makes the fortunes of a few and crushes down the rest of the Nation. The man who makes his fortune by the tariff is not a creation but only a transferer of wealth. Is it not time for the people to insist that all who enjoy wealth shall be creators of wealth and not mere transferers of it?

ANOTHER HARBOR.

Why Was the Improvement Chosen for Jamaica Bay?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The map in the Sunday TIMES of the proposed Jamaica harbor shows in the background a harbor already formed, not requiring costly dredging, breakwaters, &c., but almost ready at once for the bulkheads and piers required for shipping.

This is the section of the East River between Port Morris and Throgg's Neck. The largest vessels that ever have been or ever will be built can reach this place by the way of Long Island Sound, and with some further improvements in Hell Gate pass on to the Manhattan wharves.

There are some twenty miles of shore line surrounding this harbor that can be made available for shipping purposes at small expense, and two of the principal railroads of the United States connect now directly with the shore.

How is it that with all these advantages in plain sight Jamaica Bay has been selected for New York's great harbor? W. B.

Mr. Krehbiel's Story of Harrison.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was present in company with Mrs. Betty Harrison Eaton and her brothers, Benjamin, John, and Carter Harrison, at the funeral of John Scott Harrison in Congress Green Cemetery, close to the tomb of President William Henry Harrison, at North Bend, near Cincinnati, about 1878. Among the pallbearers was my brother, the late Dr. Samuel McClellan Hart, who at that time was Demonstrator of Anatomy at the Miami Medical College in Cincinnati. Near Mr. Harrison's newly made grave was the grave of a young man named Devin, (not a German, as Mr. Krehbiel says in THE TIMES of Sunday,) a son of a poor widow at North Bend, and who had been buried a few days before.

A day or two afterward, before his return to Indianapolis, Benjamin Harrison, with his brother John, having heard of the robbery of the young man's grave, visited their father's grave and discovered that that also had been robbed, and then spent part of the night in Cincinnati in search among the medical colleges, reaching Miami Medical College early in the morning.

When the two gentlemen arrived at the college, my brother, Dr. Hart, was upstairs and had just ordered the janitor to send up the body that had, as usual, been attached to the rope for the purposes of the lecturer on anatomy.

It is not true, as Mr. Krehbiel says, that they "knew at the college where the body was." My brother was horrified and disgusted when he recognized the features of John Scott Harrison, at whose funeral he had himself officiated, as I have described, a day or two before.

No attempt had been made to deceive; no one was to blame except the body-snatchers and the miserable system then in vogue by which medical institutions were left at the mercy of such villians for the means of teaching anatomy.

New York's Table Manners.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent, Albert Cholmondeley, has, if I do him no injustice, one pure and single motive, which is a rapping of the knuckles of New Yorkers with a ruler of British manufacture—that is, if the flavor of a subscribed surname conveys a sense of its function.

I am sorry that Mr.—pardon my dropping into an easier mode of speech—"Chumley" differentiates in the matter of New York table manners with a rating of the highest attainment at "not more than 1 per cent.," for that "safe" assertion suggests that likelihood of an experience among these four millions and odd people confined to restaurants. Had "Chumley"—begging his pardon for a pursuance of the familiar style that one adopts wit hone's equals—had "Chumley," I say, secured the privilege of entry to the homes of New Yorkers by way of the front door he would undoubtedly modify his estimate of "not more than 1 per cent." to possibly a trifle over 2 per cent.

Commercial Illustrating.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Replying to Mr. Mark Weinberg's query as to where commercial illustrating is taught, I would inform him and any others interested in this study that the Evening High Schools of this city all have classes where such instruction is given, that is intended to fit the students for this occupation.

A term consists of 120 nights, students attending from 8 to 10 P. M. from Monday to Thursday, inclusive. Instruction, material, &c., are free.

The New York Evening High School at Fifty-ninth Street and Tenth Avenue is the only Evening High School in this city which to my knowledge uses professional models in drawing from life. There is an arrangement whereby the pupils contribute a small amount each week toward the expense of these models.

Have Women Voted in New Jersey?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Mary Walker's appearance at the suffrage hearing before the Judiciary Committee at Albany last week brought to notice her belief that the women of this country already have the right to vote, according to the Federal Constitution. This reminds me of a statement I once heard to the effect that during the early days of the Constitution a similar construction was placed upon it by the people of New Jersey, and that in accordance therewith women actually exercised the right of suffrage. I am anxious to know if this statement is correct, and shall be indebted to anyone informed on the subject who will affirm or correct it.

CAMP SITES.

Protests Against Plan to Lease Them in the Adirondacks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Merritt says in his letter: "I want people to have an opportunity to rent small lots of land for camp sites. I want all the people to have a chance to enjoy this property, and not have their use confined to a few multi-millionaires." Does not Mr. Merritt know that all the people have now a chance to enjoy their property, if they only will? Or did he knowingly intend adroitly to let it be inferred that such is not the case without becoming responsible for the assertion?

The regulations of the Forest, Fish, and Game Commission provide that:

> Any citizen may camp temporarily on the State land. No written permit is required, nor can one be granted by anybody. Tents are the only structures permitted in the woods, but board floors may be used. No person is entitled to call any particular site his own from year to year. Portable houses are prohibited.

I sumbit that the present regulations secure a much freer use of the forest lands than the proposed amendment, under which those who are on the ground and have the price—not forgetting the political influence—may pre-empt all the most desirable locations, including the springs, and hold them throughout the season, even in absentia. At present a good location may and does serve two to six successive, independent parties in the course of a Summer. Any one who has the railroad fare, an outfit costing less than $30, some bacon, grub, and gumption can take his fair chance of vacant space and have a thoroughly healthful and enjoyable vacation at a cost of $3 a week for food. This class is, or can be made, much larger than the class which is financially able to own or lease land, erect cottage "camps," and "rough it with only three guides apiece and the champagne sufficiently cooled."

I do not know the significance of the other provisions of the amendment, but I do foresee the curtailment of my rights and those of all private citizens in the State Park, and I protest.

COURT HOUSE SITE.

Suggests Broadway Opposite City Hall Park or Post Office.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If the new Court House is to be built downtown why not select the best site, even though the most expensive?

Why should not the greatest city in the Union have the most magnificent Court House in the finest location?

Imagine putting such a structure out of the way on a side street!

Broadway fronting City Hall Park is the most appropriate site for the Court House downtown.

The block between Park Place and Murray Street is an ideal location, incumbered with old buildings, except the bank on the Murray Street corner, which is only a five-story affair, and the savings bank on Park Place, which is a small building.

The block opposite the Post Office, between Barclay Street and Park Place, diagonally across from City Hall Park, is also a good location, incumbered entirely by old buildings.

On either of these sites a magnificent Court House should be erected of sufficient size to house all the courts of record and their offices in New York County, even though it interfered with the plans of private individuals.

City Hall Park should be cleared of every building between the Post Office and Chambers Street, except the old City Hall.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," and should not be overshadowed or shut in.

Salvation Army Suit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The suit of Gen. Booth to restrain the American Salvation Army from using the name of the Salvation Army and from publishing The American Salvation Army War Cry having been decided on appeal in Gen. Booth's favor on the ground that the infringers on the Salvation Army's names, using similar designations for officers, workers, &c., were clearly attempts to derive the benefits which, by right of priority, belongs to the older organization, suggests some curious questions. What, for instance, are the alleged benefits?

The Salvation Army, as its name would imply, is supposed to be working to save. It would be surprising if the Methodist Episcopal Church were to bring suit against the Methodist Episcopal Church South because both have the same objects. They do not, because of the close similarity of their names, seek to interfere with each other on the ground that one is getting "benefits" which the other has a prior claim to. And when the Salvation Army goes into court and sues the American Salvation Army for the reasons given, the suspicion must arise that something more than the opportunity and desire to save men must be involved. It really looks to a man up a tree as if business considerations instead of the service of Christ, of which Christians generally believe there cannot be too much, were at the bottom of the matter.

Charles Catter on Probation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am glad to inform you that your interest in the case of Charles Catter of 426 East Seventy-ninth Street, under circumstances which evoked your sympathetic report, has not been in vain. Your readers may be pleased to learn that the lad is now free, having been placed upon probation under the First Offense act; also, that his parents are now well and working. Their gratitude to you for your practical sympathy in the form of two checks, removing entirely their distress, they expressed to me in tears and wished me to convey to you and the kind donors their warmest thanks. My personal thanks are due to the officials, especially to the Judge (who tried the case) of the Criminal Court of New York, for their extreme courtesy to me, a stranger, when I appeared to plead for the lad's probation, which was granted without demur on a simple recital of the facts.

THE PROPHET.

Old Ellery Gregg, when the weather was fine,
When the sunlight was bubbling and sparkling like wine,
When the skies were as bright as the dreamings of boys
And the day seemed to be running over with joys,
Would squint at the sky and drink in the fresh air
With a look of distrust and be moved to declare:
"Ye may think it's Spring, but th' Winter ain't quit!
I bet ye we pay for this fine weather yit!"

Old Ellery Gregg, when the Autumn was long
And the birds tarried late and the open brook's song
In November was heard and the big yellow moon
Made the fields near as light as the sun did at noon,
When the earth was aflame with its yellow and red,
Would look with distrust and a shake of his head:
"It ain't human natur'—this here kind of thing!
I bet ye we ketch it nex' Winter, by jing!"

Old Ellery Gregg, when the winds whistled keen,
When the snow lay knee deep all the fences between,
When the boards creaked and snapped in the walk down the street,
When the wires sang with frost and the limbs hung with sleet,
Would tramp down the street with a challenge so grim
In his eyes as though this had been ordered for him:
"I tol' ye, by gum, that th' Winter ain't quit;
I tol' ye we'd pay fer that fine weather yit!"

SUFFRAGISTS REPLY TO DANA.

Hundreds Want the Vote, They Say, Where He Found but One.

There was much interest and amusement expressed at the Woman Suffrage Headquarters in the Metropolitan Building yesterday in regard to Assemblyman Dana's statement that he had found only one woman who wanted to vote in the Twenty-seventh Assembly District. The party had that district canvassed for signatures to the giant suffrage petition to be presented to Congress, and found more suffragists there than in almost any district in the city. These names cannot be given now, as the petitions are sealed ready to be taken to Washington, but Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Chairman of the party, gave out a statement with some of the names of party members of the district.

"The Woman Suffrage Party has an enrollment of some hundreds of suffragists in the Twenty-seventh Assembly District, of which Dr. Anna Von Sholly of 27 East Thirty-fifth Street is the leader," said Mrs. Catt. "Among those on this list are Mrs. Russell Sage, Mrs. Clarence Mackay, Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt, Mrs. Philip Lydig, Mrs. Alice Duer Miller, Mrs. Robert Abbe, Mrs. Henry Miller Day, Mrs. Griswold Bourne, Mrs. Norton Perkins, Mrs. Melbert B. Carey, Mrs. Pierce Bailey, Mrs. John Lloyd Thomas, Mrs. Esther Hermann, Mrs. Howard Mansfield, Mrs. Ansted Strong, Mrs. Marie Cross-Newhaus, Drs. Sara and Julia McNutt, Mrs. Joseph La Roque, Mrs. Herbert Carpenter, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Eleanor C. Erving, Mrs. C. E. Knoblauch, Mrs. C. A. Van Rensselaer, Mrs. Egerton Winthrop, Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, Miss Dorothy Whitney, Mrs. Schuyler Warren, Mrs. Samuel Untermyer, Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, Mrs. Brayton Ives, Miss Gertrude Atherton, Miss Caroline Duer, and Mrs. William Einstein.

"Even though there were in reality but one woman in the whole district who wants to vote," says Mrs. Catt, "it ought to make no difference."

PACKERS EXPLAIN REFUSAL.

Allege They Have Authorization to Keep Books Out of New Jersey.

The opposition of the packing corporations, indicted in Hudson County, to the order of the court to produce before the Grand Jury the stockholders' and Directors' minute books took shape yesterday at Trenton. When Prosecutor Garven moved that Justice Swayze should sign the order, Samuel Untermyer of this city and ex-Senator William D. Edwards of Jersey City, counsel for the companies, asked to have inserted in the order the fact that the companies were already under indictment in Hudson County, and that their charters authorized them to keep all their books except stock and transfer books outside of New Jersey.

In the afternoon Justices Reed, Trenchard, and Minturn, sitting as a branch of the Supreme Court, granted to the companies a rule for cause to be shown why a writ of certiorari should not issue for the review of Justice Swayze's order. The rule is returnable on Wednesday, and the argument, it was announced by Justice Reed, must on that day go into the merits of the case in order that any further appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals may be facilitated by the speedy decision of this matter.

Lemuel B. Patterson, one of the nineteen Chicago packers indicted, surrendered himself voluntarily yesterday in the Hudson County Court. He pleaded not guilty to the indictment, with a reservation of the right to change his plea. He was admitted to bail in $7,500, the National Surety Company going on his bond.

Assistant Prosecutor Vickers began a new line of investigation in respect to the case. He examined in his office a number of railroad freight agents with special reference to the export of meat from this country to Europe. He wishes to ascertain, if possible, how it is that American beef can be sold at lower rates in England than here.

NO SIMPLE SPELLING FOR HIM.

Park Commissioner Higgins Stands Pat for Two "f's" in "Traffic."

Park Commissioner Thomas J. Higgins of the Bronx, one of the earliest appointees of Mayor Gaynor, has just dealt simplified spelling, as exemplified in the signs of Bronx Park, an almost tragic blow.

Fresh from the halls of the Board of Education where the Simplified Spelling Board has not received any very substantial encouragement, Commissioner Higgins was shocked yesterday to find that the Simplified Board's insidious campaign against Mother English had spread even among his sign painters, causing them ruthlessly to drop an "f" from the word "traffic" wherever that word appeared.

Just How Mr. Carnegie's board succeeded in winning the quick ear and deft hand of the sign painters the Park Commissioner's investigation failed to disclose, but there was the evidence of its direful influence to speak for itself. An "f" had certainly been lost.

Recalling the famous example of Sam Weller's father in prompting his dutiful son on the spelling of the honored patronymic, Commissioner Higgins sought out the simplified spellers for an explanation of their disloyal alliance with Prof. Brander Matthews and his associates on the Simplified Spelling Board, but as not a word of betrayal could be pinched out of one of them he had no other recourse than to order them to go through the Park and restore the purloined "f."

PROMOTER'S ASSETS ELUSIVE

Broker Gets Attachment Against Tyree for $13,216 Lost on Curb Stock.

Deputy Sheriff Goss has received an attachment for $13,216 against Hiram Tyree, a promoter of 49 Wall Street, in favor of Albertus A. Reilly, a Curb broker, growing out of an order to purchase stock of a mining company.

Mr. Reilly alleged that on an order from Mr. Tyree he purchased between Feb. 11 and Feb. 14 5,100 shares of Tenebo Mining and Smelting Company for $13,981, but when he tendered the stock to Mr. Tyree the latter refused to accept it.

The brokers who sold the stock held Mr. Reilly liable for it, and on March 1 sold the stock at auction for the account of Mr. Reilly for 15 cents a share, amounting to $765, leaving a deficiency of $13,216.

The attachment was served on several banks where Mr. Tyree was supposed to have an account. When the Sheriff went to Tyree's office yesterday he found it locked. The Sheriff has also returned an execution against Mr. Tyree for $11,050 in favor of M. S. Browning, as Trustee, unsatisfied and marked "no property."

CARDINAL GIBBONS PROTESTS.

Wants Design for Civil and Religious Liberty Statue Changed.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 16.—Cardinal Gibbons has sent to State Senator Campbell a letter protesting strongly against the design of the proposed fountain to be erected at Annapolis to commemorate the establishment of civil and religious liberty in Maryland. The design contains the figures of a priest, a cavalier, and a puritan. In his letter the Cardinal said:

"I am unalterably opposed to the erection of any figures on the fountain, except the figure of Lord Baltimore, to whom we are indebted for the priceless boon of civil and religious liberty."

Canadian Customs Minister Here.

The Hon. William Paterson, Minister of Customs for the Dominion of Canada, returned from the West Indies yesterday on the Royal Mail liner Oruba. He had been engaged there with the members of the Royal Commission investigating the relations between Canada and the British islands. Mr. Paterson said he had left the commission at Trinidad, whence Lord Balfour and the other members had returned home. They had been hospitably received in the West Indies.

LAWYERS CONDEMN COURT HOUSE SITE

Bar Association's Committee to Oppose It Vigorously Before Board of Estimate.

FIGHT FOR THE CITY HALL

Its Beauty Might Be Impaired and, Anyway, the Bar Declares Against Any Slicing of City Hall Park.

The Court House Site Committee of the Bar Association, through its Secretary, Albert S. Bard, issued an emphatic protest yesterday against the proposed plan of the Court House Board to erect a building along the south side of Chambers Street, in City Hall Park, which would occupy the site of the present City Court Building and the County Court House. Mr. Bard says the committee's objection is that the Court House proposed would be an injury to the City Hall and an unnecessary sacrifice of City Hall Park. The Bar Association will be represented at the Board of Estimate hearing on the Court House site question to-morrow, when a vigorous protest on behalf of the association will be made.

Mr. Bard had this to say yesterday:

"At its last meeting, held March 8, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York adopted a resolution to the effect that no plan ought to be approved by the city nor urged by the bench, bar, or by the Bar Association which would work serious injury to the City Hall, but that, on the contrary, if any such plan should be recommended by the Court House Board it would be the duty of the Bar Association, in the interest of the more general good, to resist its adoption by the Board of Estimate. The association further adopted the recommendation of its Committee on Court House Site that no specific plan should be adopted or approved until ample opportunity had been given to citizens and civic bodies generally to examine and criticise the specific plan offered, especially if it should affect the City Hall.

"At that time the present recommendation of the Court House Board had not been made public.

"The Court House Site Committee of the Bar Association has since held two meetings, on March 14 and 15, and has had the benefit of the advice of eminent architects, and has appointed a sub-committee to represent the Bar Association at the hearing on Friday before the Board of Estimate. The committee will make every effort to induce the Board of Estimate to give full consideration to the matter before acting.

"It would be a public calamity to adopt a plan which afterward should be seen to be a mistake. While the Bar Association has at various times voted in favor of a downtown Court House and is in entire accord with the view of the Mayor as expressed in his letter to the Court House Board dated Jan. 20, that the Court House should be near its present site, its committee is strongly opposed to the present recommendation of the Court House Board because of the injury to the City Hall and the unnecessary sacrifice of City Hall Park.

"It believes that provision should be made for the courts without encroachment upon the already too limited park space in City Hall Park, and that any structure to be built should be so planned as to be an effective feature of such a civic centre as New York ought to develop. The present plan of the Court House Board is totally at variance with these principles."

The members of the Court House Site Committee of the Bar Association are ex-Surrogate Rastus S. Ransom, ex-Judge Mortimer C. Addoms, District Attorney Charles S. Whitman, Assistant District Attorney Charles F. Bostwick, James M. Gifford, John De Witt Warner, William A. Jenner, Henry D. Williams, Frederic R. Coudert, and Albert S. Bard.

John B. Pine, who until last year was a member of the Municipal Art Commission, said yesterday that he was decidedly against any invasion of City Hall Park.

"My views on the subject can be inferred from the fact that, as a member of the City Art Commission I voted against allowing a Weather Bureau kiosk six feet square to be placed in City Hall Park," he said, "believing that the free space of the park should not be obstructed in the smallest possible degree, but that it should, if possible, be increased.

"There is no place in the city where there is a greater throng in the rush hours than in the City Hall Park, and the sidewalks of the park are already inadequate to accommodate the multitudes going to and from the Brooklyn Bridge. The increasing population must inevitably make conditions worse.

"It is practically certain that the park will eventually be surrounded by skyscrapers, and the greater their number the greater must be the need for preserving the park as a breathing space."

Some of those opposed to putting the new court house in City Hall Park say that in 1904 several members of the old Court House Board were equally opposed to the site. A minority report, signed by ex-Justice William N. Cohen and Edward W. Sheldon, was made to the Board of Estimate in that year. It favored the erection of the court house on the north site of Chambers Street and facing City Hall Park. The report said that City Hall Park should be kept as free as possible for pedestrians and ended by saying that the signers feared the city would regret any hasty action through a misplaced sense of economy.

SUGAR MEN'S TRIAL TO WAIT.

Pending Charles R. Heike's Appeal, Judge Martin Defers Action to May 10.

Judge Martin, in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, postponed until May 10 the trails of Charles R. Heike, Secretary of the American Sugar Refining Company, and of Ernest Gerbracht, James F. Bendernagel, Harry W. Walker, Jean M. Voelker, and James F. Halligan, former employes of the trust in various capacities, on charges of complicity in the sugar weighing frauds on the Havemeyer & Elder docks in Williamsburg. The reason for the postponement is the pendency of the appeal of Helke from Judge Martin's decision denying him immunity, which is now before the Supreme Court of the United States.

An agreement has now been reached by which the trial of F. Augustus Heinze for alleged violations of the National banking laws as President of the Mercantile National Bank, shall precede this last of the sugar trials as soon as the demurrers to the Heinze indictments shall have been disposed of. These demurrers will come up for argument to-morrow. Should they be dismissed it is probable that Heinze will be put on trial early next month.

MEAT STRIKE'S FORMAL END.

Had Long Ago Practically Ceased with Higher Prices Than at Beginning.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 16.—The official death of the meat strike was announced to-day. Two months ago the movement was started by Fred W. Sebelin of this city, who suggested that sixty-day abstinence pledges be signed as a blow at the increased cost of living. Meat was the target, although other articles of food were not overlooked. The plan spread over the country, and for a week or two flourished. Then it sputtered and burned out.

When the "meat strike" began the price of beef was 6 cents wholesale. To-day it is 7 to 7½ cents. Hogs jumped from 9 to 11 cents. Eggs fell from 38 to 21 cents and butter is 33 cents, a fall of a nickel. Potatoes are 10 cents a bushel lower.

The net result has been an avalanche of investigation, but no new legislation is reported from any State.

WOMEN WIN PRIZES AT FLOWER SHOW

Mrs. Samuel Untermyer Takes First Honors for Best Rhododendrons and Schizanthus.

MRS. CONSTABLE FOR PLANTS

Roses Predominate in Exhibition at Natural History Museum—New White Killarney, but Few American Beauties.

The flower show of the American Rose Society and the Horticultural Society of New York was opened last evening in the big west wing of the Natural History Museum, Seventy-seventh Street and Central Park West. It will continue from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. to-day and to-morrow. It is a free exhibition, and every flower admirer in the city may visit it.

This new west wing is the one in which the Peary exhibition was held, and forms one long room, which gives an opportunity to show the flowers to their best advantage. Those exhibited this year are unusually fine plants and blossoms. Roses predominate, and there are lines of great clusters of them. The pink ones are numerous, and among these is the Killarney. It has been cultivated so that it gives the American Beauty a close run for length of stem, and it will almost rival it in size of blossom. It is a beautiful shade of pink, the petals are large, growing closely, and the delicate colors of the inside of the rose make the flower as lovely open as in the bud, and the fact that it does not drop its leaves is a reason for its popularity. There is a beautiful new white Killarney resembling the other in everything but color.

There is a notable absence of American Beauties at the exhibition, a few clusters with small close buds and much foliage being the only ones shown. The rose growers say that the American Beauty is the most uncertain of all roses, that with the little sunlight of the short Winter days the buds will not set. The growers said they were producing artificially as closely as possible the natural conditions under which flowers grow, but one thing which they cannot produce is sunlight, and the American Beauty demands it. The Richmond, from Baltimore, a brilliant crimson rose, carries off the palm among the red roses when the American Beauty is out of the race. There are many potted roses at the exhibition, pink and red ramblers and larger hardy roses. There is a desire to interest people in these, for they will grow well with a little care all Summer on a windowsill.

There are many beautiful cyclamen in the exhibit, white and all shades of pink to crimson. James Stuart, gardener for Mrs. J. M. Constable of Mamaroneck, took two first prizes for a collection of twenty plants and for the most perfect plant. Mrs. Henry Siegel carried off the second prizes for this lot. Mrs. Samuel Untermyer took the first prize for the best six rhododendrons in three varieties, and the first for the six best schizanthus. The orchids are unusually fine. There are many varieties of remarkably beautiful plants with large blossoms. Lager & Hurrell took the first prize for these and Julius Roehrs the second.

Other plants and blossoms in the exhibition are Easter lilies, crotons, beautiful foliage plants; violets, Marguerites; extra fine carnations with a new one, Woodenethe, exhibited by Winthrop Sargent, and a magnificent fern, the Pierson, whose great-grandmother, the Boston fern, looks like a plebeian beside it.

Many prizes and silver cups have been awarded. On the Exhibition Committee are F. R. Pierson, Chairman; George V. Nash, Secretary; Leonard Barron, J. E. Lager, F. H. Traendly, Peter Duff, P. O'Mara, J. A. Manda, manager, and John Young. Benjamin Hammond of Fishkill-on-Hudson is Secretary of the American Rose Society, and George V. Nash, Bronx Park Botanical Garden, of the Horticultural Society.

"The Barber" Repeated.

"Il Barbiere di Siviglia" was repeated at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening, the performance being practically the same as that which was heard there a few evenings ago. It is a performance of which the authorities of the Opera House can scarcely be proud, and from which the subscribers can derive little edification. What there was came chiefly from Mr. Bonci's finished performance as the Count Almaviva. Miss Hidalgo was again the Rosina, Mr. Pini-Corsi the Bartolo, Mr. Forsell the Figaro, Mr. Didur the Basilio.

Rossini's opera was followed by the first act of "Coppelia," in which the Russian dancers again appeared.

"Pelleas et Melisande" Repeated.

"Pelleas et Melisande" was sung again at the Manhattan Opera House last evening. In the cast were Miss Mary Garden, Mme. Gerville-Reache, and Messrs. Dalmores, Dufranne, and Huberdeau. Mr. de la Fuente conducted.

Mr. Pilzer's Recital.

A violin recital was given in Mendelssohn Hall last evening by Mr. Maximilian Pilzer, a young violinist who has done good work as the concert master of the Volpe and some other orchestras. He is a well-grounded player, who possesses undoubted talent and temperament. The temperament is not yet sufficient under the control of the artist's thinking powers, however, and last evening, especially, his playing suffered from an excess of energy, roughness, due to forcing his tone, which he can make of real beauty, and also from false intonation. There was, nevertheless, that in his playing which showed a real musical intelligence and feeling. His programme was ambitious: Tartini's "Devil's Trill" sonata, Vieuxtemps's D minor concerto, two movements from one of Bach's solo sonatas, Beethoven's Romance, Op. 50, and pieces by Volpe, Schubert, and Rehfeld.

Miss Hammerstein in "Lonely Lives."

Stella Hammerstein, daughter of Oscar Hammerstein, has been engaged to play the rôle of Anna in special performances of Gerhardt Hauptmann's "Lonely Lives." Miss Hammerstein has appeared in New York in several productions, but this will be her first appearance in a modern problem play. The rôle of Anna is second in importance to that of the leading woman. "Lonely Lives" will have its first performance at the Hyperion Theatre, New Haven, next week, under the auspices of the Yale University Dramatic Association, and will be given at the Hackett Theatre soon after. Another special performance will be given at Northampton, Mass., on April 8, for the benefit of the library of Smith College. The play is presented under the direction of Frank Lea Short and Julius Hopp.

Irving to Rehearse a Brieux Play.

Laurence Irving and Mabel Hackey will begin rehearsals to-day of Mr. Irving's translation of Eugene Brieux's play, "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont." The play was produced in Paris in 1897 and was sufficient to make the name of the author famous. The plot deals with the ruin of three girls through the selfishness and narrow-mindedness of their father.

HINDUS' MANAGER ARRESTED.

Carried $10,000 in Jewels Which He Didn't Clear at Custom House.

Merwani K. Irani, manager of a troupe of eight Hindu performers, who arrived on the Oceanic, was locked up in the Tombs last night under $10,000 bail for examination on a charge of smuggling. He denies any intent to defraud, though diamond and emerald set jewelry estimated to be worth about $10,000 was found in his possession. The troupe is here to appear with a circus.

Irani's story is that while in Paris a friend asked him to bring the jewelry to America for him. He was to deliver it to a woman here. Having no interest in it other than to see that it was delivered Irani did not think it necessary to make a declaration to the customs officials.

Deputy Surveyor MsKeon has the name of the man alleged to have intrusted the jewels to the Hindu and the name of the person designated to receive them here.

TENOR AND PUGILIST TOGETHER IN COURT

But Sharkey Was on His Own Business and Not There as Bodyguard to Caruso.

BLACK HANDERS HELD AGAIN

Caruso Testifies to Receiving Their Threats—Never a Look or a Word from Former Prize Ring Star.

Two great men, forming a study in contrasts, stood together yesterday in the dingy Adams Street Court in Brooklyn. One was Signor Enrico Caruso, he of the golden voice, and the other Mr. Thomas Sharkey, he of the Gibraltar-like chest and the "cauliflower" ear. Upon these two, one of whom had sung and the other punched his way into fame, the packed court gazed wide-eyed, awed by the presence of such greatness.

Of Mr. Sharkey's appearance in court there was born a rumor to the effect that he was there as a bodyguard for the famous tenor. But this was not so. In fact, the singer and the man of "upper cuts" and "cross counters" met as strangers. Caruso was there to testify in the case of the two Italians who were arrested on suspicion that they were concerned in the alleged Black Hand attempt to extort $15,000 from the operatic star.

Sharkey visited the court to get a warrant for the arrest of a "guy what swiped me motor at Sheepshead Bay." He got the warrant and then left court with never so much as a look or a word of appreciation of the presence of his fellow-artist.

Guarded by detectives and brother singers, Caruso traveled to Brooklyn by the Subway. From the Borough Hall station the party walked by a circuitous route to the court. On the witness stand the singer told of receiving the supposed Black Hand letters. Detectives Meali and Simonetti then testified to arresting the two suspected men, Antoino Cincotta and Antonio Missiani, in front of a factory at Van Brunt and Sackett Streets, near a spot at which Caruso had been directed in the letters to place the $15,000 demanded.

After the prisoners had waived examination, Magistrate Tighe continued the bail of $5,000 for each until to-day, when the case will be referred to the Grand Jury.

BECK ENGAGES MLLE. POLAIRE

To Present "Le Visiteur" on Orpheum Circuit—Negotiates with Mme. Rejane.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 16.—Martin Beck, vaudeville manager, who has just left Paris, made a contract while here with Mlle. Polaire to appear on the Orpheum circuit in her sketch "Le Visiteur," in which she is making a tremendous hit in London. The feature of the sketch is an Apache dance which she first produced at the Olympia.

In Paris Beck also opened negotiations with Mme. Rejane with the view to her making a theatrical tour of America after her forthcoming appearance in a London music hall. The American manager will sail for New York on Saturday on the Lusitania.

THE CIRCUS IS ON THE WAY.

Just as Dazzling as Last Time and Then Some—Novelties Thrown In.

Astronomically, Spring will begin for New York on March 21; really it will begin on March 24. For that is the day that The Circus—meaning the Barnum & Bailey Mastodon—begins its season at Madison Square Garden.

Its advance notices have been blossoming on the billboards around the city for the last two or three days, and the beautiful lady in the gossamer short skirt tiptoeing upon the back of the racing black horse is as truly prophetic of Spring in town as the pale green blade of grass that pushes itself out from under the remains of last year's leaves is in the country. Any city boy who has seen the spangled contortionists on those billboards will tell you that no matter what sudden wintry blast may blow, Winter has gone and Spring is at hand.

The press representative of the circus may be quoted as saying that the circus is as "gigantic, unique, splendid, gorgeous, and dazzling" as ever. In this he is, however, fearfully restrained. He speaks of the animals as the "zoological collection." There will be many novelties all through the circus, but, best of all, he gives convincing assurance that all the acts and shows that go with a real circus are still with Barnum & Bailey's, although those taking part are the very best "that money can obtain in all the capitols of the world."

CHERRY A FROHMAN STAR.

Actor to Appear in "The Spitfire" at Lyceum Theatre in April.

Charles Cherry has been engaged by Daniel Frohman on a long contract to appear as a star. Mr. Cherry will appear at the Lyceum Theatre in April, following Mrs. Fiske's engagement, in a comedy melodrama called "The Spitfire," by Edward Peple. Mr. Cherry appeared in New York in "Girls," and subsequently starred under the Shubert management in "The Bachelor." The change to Mr. Frohman's management was made by an agreement with Lee Shubert.

Mr. Frohman hopes to give Mr. Cherry an annual engagement at the Lyceum, as he did Mr. Sothern at the old Lyceum.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The annual ball of the White Rats, an organization of vaudeville performers, will be given at Terrace Garden to-night after the performances at the Broadway theatres are over. The grand march will be led by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Niblo, (Josephine Cohan.)

It was announced from the offices of Charles Frohman yesterday that William H. Crane would play a Spring engagement in New York in "Father and the Boys," in which he appeared at the Empire Theatre in 1908. It was also stated that Alfred Sutro had presented to Billie Burke his one-act play "The Bracelet," that she had given as a part of the entertainment at the benefit at the Lyceum Theatre Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Fiske has begun rehearsals of Schnitzler's one-act play "The Green Cockatoo," which she will use in conjunction with "Hannele" during the last week of her engagement at the Lyceum Theatre.

Sothern and Marlowe will give a special matinee performance for the benefit of the Actors' Fund at the Academy of Music on March 24. The play will be "Twelfth Night."

Ida Brooks Hunt and Edith Bradford, after a short rest at Lakewood, N. J., have returned to the cast of "The Chocolate Soldier" at the Casino Theatre.

H. B. Warner, now playing in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," has been asked to act as judge in an oratorical contest at the De Witt Clinton High School on Friday afternoon. The same date that has been set for the all-child performance of "Alias Jimmy Valentine" at Wallack's Theatre.

The one hundredth performance of Clyde Fitch's play "The City" was observed at the Lyric Theatre last night. A special matinee performance will be given this afternoon.

Officers of the Texas Society occupied two boxes last night at the Belasco Theatre, where Charlotte Walker is appearing in "Just a Wife." The President, Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, extended an invitation to Miss Walker to be the guest of honor at a reception of the society at the Waldorf on April 5, as the actress is a native of Texas.

MUSIC NOTES.

The double bill announced for to-morrow night at the Metropolitan Opera House will begin at 8:15. Frederick S. Converse's opera, "The Pipe of Desire," will be given first, and will be followed by "Pagliacci." It was originally announced that the operas would be given in the reverse order.

This afternoon at The New Theatre, following "Werther," the Russian dancers will appear in two new divertissements, Saint-Saens's "Le Cygne" and a waltz of Chopin's.

Mme. Sembrich, who makes it a rule to appear once every year for charity, will sing for the last time during the present season at an Easter matinee to be given March 28 at the Hudson Theatre. Charles Gilbert and the choir of the Musical Art Society will assist

WEALTHY ARTIST, ILL, A SUICIDE AT SEA

W. E. Davies Shoots Himself on Liner Oceanic—Was Despondent, Too, Over Wife's Death.

SENT NURSE FROM HIS ROOM

Was on the Verge of Pneumonia and Pretended to Need Ship's Doctor to Get a Chance to Shoot.

Willis E. Davies of San Francisco, a wealthy artist, committed suicide on the White Star liner Oceanic on the voyage from Southampton which ended at this port yesterday. He was ill and despondent over the death of his wife.

A wireless message sent two days ago from the vessel to Mr. Davies's brother-in-law, F. W. Van Sicklen, in San Francisco, simply stated that the artist had died suddenly.

Mrs. Davies died in October, and soon after Mr. Davies went abroad. He was accompanied by an attendant. He did not appear much in public, and on the first day out Dr. J. C. H. Beaumont, the ship's surgeon, was called to attend him. He found Mr. Davies suffering with congestion of the lungs, and on the verge of pneumonia.

On Saturday morning the physician called upon Mr. Davies again, and after treating him left the stateroom. The sick man lay quiet for some time and then he turned to the nurse and said:

"Go and tell the doctor that I want to see him."

The man found Beaumont in the saloon. Together they went back to the room and found Mr. Davies dead. A revolver lay beside him.

The artist evidently had waited until the nurse was out of hearing and then had placed the muzzle of his revolver in his mouth and fired. The ball had passed completely through his head and was found in the pillow.

At the time the shot was fired most of the cabin passengers were on deck and the shot was not heard.

The body was turned over to Mrs. E. C. Hodges, a sister of Mr. Davies, who lives in the Hotel Buckingham.

A REVERSION

Cost Insurance reverses an old relationship.

It transfers the bit to the Contractor's mouth and puts the whip in the Owner's hands.

Cost Insurance specifically fixes the maximum of cost and limits the final investment.

This means:—

That the ratio of income to investment, as calculated by the Owner, is assured and cannot be adversely changed.

GIANTS TO PLAY FOR LADIES' SOCIAL CLUB

Then the Marlin Fair Sex Will Entertain Ball Players at a Fish Fry.

By FRED TENNEY,
First Baseman of the Giants.

Special to The New York Times.

MARLIN, Texas, March 16.—The Giant tourists returned from Waco late last night. Manager McGraw allowed that squad to stay in Marlin and sent over practically the regular team for the game there to-day. All the rest of the boys were out for practice here this morning. Nearly the entire time was given up to bunting practice, the manager evidently being determined that all batters shall know how to bunt and all the pitchers know how to field bunts. The young pitchers have become quite expert in handling these plays, and at least they all know where they should be when a bunt is attempted. It is good practice, as it keeps every one up on his toes all the time.

This afternoon two teams were picked and sent against each other for nine innings. It developed into a very spirited contest, the score finally winding up 8 to 7. It was good fast work, and the game was full of life, and the boys are all pretty tired to-night. There is some fun promised for to-morrow, as the manager is going to play the two teams that went to Fort Worth and Dallas on Sunday against each other. There is to be an admission charged, and the receipts are to be given to the Ladies' Social Club of Marlin. The ladies are very much pleased at the generosity of Manager McGraw, and the attendance promises to be large and enthusiastic. At the conclusion of the game the New York players will be provided with conveyances, and the entire crowd will be driven to the clubhouse at the Brazos River, where a fish fry will be provided for them. The boys are looking forward to this with a great deal of pleasure, as they have been there before and know what a good time is in store for them.

The cripples are all reporting favorable progress, and most of them were in uniform for light practice to-day.

HAL CHASE'S TEAM WINS.

Otis Johnson Arrives in Time to Play Third Base for Yankees.

Special to The New York Times.

ATHENS, N. Y., March 16.—Otis Johnson, the long-expected third baseman, arrived from Portland to-day in time to put the "jinks" on the Yankee Yannigans. Hal Chase's regulars evened the count with Stallings by snatching a seven-inning victory by the score of 6 runs to 5.

It wasn't bad play on the part of Johnson that did the damage. He handled himself very well, even if he had just got off the train from six days and nights of travel. But every one was anxious to see the big fellow work out at third. Chase drafted Jim Vaughn as his pitcher, and this threw Wilbur Roach into the breach at the initial sack. Roach had nothing to wear on his catching hand but a badly mutilated glove, from which the palm had been cut. He couldn't hold the wicked throws of his associates. He failed to freeze to Johnson's low throw after a fine pick-up in the seventh, and Wolters was safe at first with one out. Here Harry stole second and third in a jiffy. He counted the winning run on Engle's safe swat after Chase struck out.

The Yannigans made a game fight of it all right. Even Chase acknowledges he was lucky. But for the fact that Joe Doyle was the easiest proposition the regulars had yet seen for one inning, there might have been another tune to the song. Joe couldn't get his curve to break right. The score:

Regulars	3	1	0	1	0	0	1	—6	8	1

Giants Shut Out Hoosiers.

Special to The New York Times.

WACO, Texas, March 16.—Indianapolis met another defeat at the hands of the Giants this afternoon by a score of 5 to 0. The regular members of the team were in the line-up, and the reason they did not make as many runs as the youngsters did yesterday was because they played such pretty defensive ball as to prevent Indianapolis from scoring at all.

Marquard and Drucke pitched for the Giants, and as the day was quite dark, their speed had the minor league batters at their mercy. They sent the ball whistling through so fast that it looked no larger than a bullet.

The Giants made their first run in the fifth inning, when Herzog hit the first ball pitched over the left field fence for a home run. Merkle, profiting by the example, laced out a two-bagger, and scored a moment later on Schlei's long single to centre. Marquard struck out, and Schlei was out trying to steal second.

In the seventh they scored again. Seymour got a base on balls as a starter, and Devlin was safe on the shortstop's error. Herzog forced out Devlin on a grounder to second, but Merkle walked and filled the bases. Another error was made on Wilson's grounder, and Seymour scored. A passed ball sent Herzog home, and Merkle scored on Devore's long fly to centre. Score:

Brooklyn Players in a Crash.

Special to The New York Times.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 16.—Manager Dahlen gave the Brooklyn players a half holiday to-day, and this afternoon came very near paying dearly for his kindness. A crowd of them went out to Majestic Park to see the Boston Americans and Cincinnati Nationals clash in their first game of the exhibition series. Most of the Brooklyn players sat on a newly built stand with about 200 other spectators. During the fifth inning the little structure collapsed. In a moment the air was full of scrambling persons. Several of the spectators were caught under the planks, but luckily the top row of seats was only about four feet above the ground, and nobody was seriously hurt. All the Brooklyn players escaped injury. Tommy McMillan, who sat on a top seat, took a header into Cy Young's lap and stayed there until the big pitcher lifted the tiny short stop to the ground. Dahlen, Wheat, McElveen, and Jordan had a lively time extricating themselves. Doc Scanlon was quickly on the spot looking for a job, but his services were not needed. Bell and Hummell rode out on horseback, creating a sensation by their feat of equestrianism. Results of the game:

											R.	H.	E.

Catcher Sullivan Recovering.

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—William G Sullivan, catcher of the Chicago American base-ball team, who is confined to his bed here with blood poisoning as the result of stepping on a rusty nail, is improved to-night, but is not yet out of danger. Should his recovery not be interrupted, physicians say he will be able to play ball in three or four weeks.

No N. Y. U. Crew This Year.

That rowing as a college sport will be temporarily abandoned at New York University was definitely decided at a meeting of the Athletic Association yesterday afternoon. The students put themselves on record, however, as opposed to the sport being abolished permanently, for they rejected a report submitted by the Advisory Committee to the effect that rowing be dropped from the list of sports at the university.

Rowing has not been successful at the university for the past few years, but the conditions under which crew work was carried on were not the best. Besides having no boathouse of their own, the crew men were unable to get much financial support last year. Since last Summer, however, Manager Kopff has been assured by several wealthy alumni that they will supply the funds necessary for the erection of a boathouse on the Harlem River. The University already owns a plot of ground on the eastern shore of the river, and it is hoped now that a boathouse will be built before the Summer is over. Mr. Kopff has been assured of the hearty support of the student body, and if he can secure the erection of a college boathouse before next Fall New York University will surely have a crew next year.

Cornell Rowing Schedule.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 16.—The Cornell 'Varsity and Freshman crews will row the Harvard crews on May 30, according to the schedule announced to-day. The schedule follows:

OTTAWA BEATEN AGAIN IN HOCKEY

Wanderers Club of Montreal Captures Double Victory and $1,500 Purse.

While the first game of the series of two matches between the Wanderers of Montreal and the Ottawa hockey team of Ottawa for a purse of $1,500, the most goals on the two nights' play to count, was a brilliant exhibition of the Canadian game, the second contest played at St. Nicholas Rink last night far eclipsed the previous work, and when the final whistle sounded the Wanderers had beaten their rivals from the Dominion by a total of 8 goals to 6, as a result of the two games. The first match of the two ended with the Wanderers in the lead by 4 to 3, and last evening the count was exactly duplicated.

Real hockey was played last night. It was one furious flash of speed from the beginning, in which all the art that should belong to the perfected hockey player was exhibited by the members of both sevens. There were those who stood out above their rivals, such as Johnston, the wonderful point of the Wanderer combination, but every one of the fourteen men on the ice knew the inside of combining brilliancy with team play.

There were numerous hard body checks, and an attempt to check a Wanderer led to Amaill having to leave the game. He came into an opponent rushing down the ice, and was thrown so that he came down with a crash on the ice. A bad cut resulted, and he left the game for good and the Wanderers dropped Blatchford to even matters. The accident had no rough work connected with it, however, and there was no player incapacitated by any of the tripping. It was this feature which led to many penalties being inflicted in the second half, the Wanderers suffering the most, and a protest was made in one instance. A woman, who had a seat in the front, was hit by one of the flying hockey stick, as the players rushed past her, and she received a cut on the side of the face.

With the tide of the battle against them as a result of the first night's play, the Ottawas were all the more aggressive in the final match. Shore, who had played in the first game, was replaced by Roberts, and the line-up was changed about a bit, and Glass was out of the game for the Wanderers as a result of an accident Tuesday night, his place being filled by Campbell. The line-up:

Wanderers.	Position.	Ottawa.
Hern	Goal	Lesueur
Blatchford	Point	Lake
Johnston	Cover point	Smaill
Campbell	Rover	Ridpath
Russell	Centre	Walsh
Hyland	Right wing	Roberts

Goals.—First Half—First for the Wanderers, by Russell, in 0:32; second for the Wanderers, by Hyland, in 0:55; third for the Wanderers, by Russell, in 5:26; fourth for Ottawa, by Walsh, in 19:40; fifth for Ottawa, by Smaill, in 19:50. Second Half—First for Ottawa, by Kerr, in 9:55; second for the Wanderers, by Hyland, in 24:10. Score of the first night's play, 4 to 3; second night's play, 4 to 3. Total goals—Wanderers, 8; Ottawa, 6. Penalties—Russell, 3 minutes; Kerr, 3 minutes; Campbell, 3 minutes; Campbell, 3 minutes; Kerr, 2 minutes; Walsh, 1 minute. Referee—W. Russel, Hockey Club. Assistant Referee—Howard Drakeley. Goal umpires—H. Shore, Ottawa, and R. Garon, Wanderers of New York. Timers—G. Harmon, Wanderers of New York; R. Stevenson, Wanderers, and B. Mulligan, Ottawa. Time of halves—Twenty-five minutes.

Newspaper Men's Golf Club.

A newspaper men's golf association was formed yesterday afternoon at a meeting held at the Kaiserhof, a large number of the followers of the sport being present. An Organization Committee was appointed, made up of H. B. Martin, T. J. Vivian, T. A. Dorgan, E. G. Rich, F. K. Sprague, H. L. Fitzpatrick, J. S Mitchell, G. H. Daley, P. Pulver, C. Legendre, W. D. Clemence, J. Rogers, J. Lucas, W. W. Harris, J. W. Ferguson, and B. Ridder. At the next meeting they will submit a general scheme of organization for the approval of the association.

Already one big tournament has been decided on, which will be held at Van Cortlandt Park as soon as the links there are opened for the season. A trophy has been donated for this competition, and there will be a novice class for those who have never competed in a tournament. The club expects to hold a tournament once a month. The opening tournament, it is expected, will draw about 100 entries, any bona fide newspaper man from whatever department being eligible. The association will have its clubrooms at the golf house at Van Cortlandt Park.

SPORTING NEWS IN BRIEF.

Harvard's baseball squad practiced on Soldiers Field yesterday, the first outdoor work the candidates have had this Spring.

Dorando and Longboat have been matched to run a twenty-mile race in Pittsburg in the near future.

Sam Langford and Jim Flynn will fight forty-five rounds in Jeffries's Pavilion, at Vernon, Los Angeles, this afternoon.

The Southern Golf Association has selected June 14 to 18, inclusive, for the Southern tournament, but has not named the course on which it is to be played.

Ban Johnson, who has been with the Chicago Americans in San Francisco, has returned to Chicago and is enthusiastic over the prospects of the White Sox.

Jack Johnson will establish his training camp at Ocean View, near San Francisco, in preparation for his bout with Jeffries at Oakland on July 4.

The Bedford branch Y. M. C. A. will hold its fourth annual championship athletic meet in its gymnasium on March 26. The events will be closed to members of the branch.

A moving picture concern has made a proposition to take moving pictures of James J. Jeffries in his training camp in the Santa Cruz mountains and show them through the country prior to the big battle with Johnson.

Joy Miller, the famous quarterback of the University of Michigan, who disappeared last Fall when his athletic standing at the university was being investigated, has been found in the West with his mind impaired.

Mrs. Bertha May King, the champion woman pool player, will play at the Morningside Billiard Parlors, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, next week. She will meet women competitors both morning and afternoon, in pocket billiards.

A plan is on foot to organize a "dry goods baseball league," composed of teams representing various department stores of Greater New York. A meeting will be held in the recreation hall of R. H. Macy & Co. this evening at 8:30 o'clock, at which time representatives of the different department stores will discuss the issue.

The second annual kite contest of School 77 will be held on Astoria Field to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. This contest will be similar to those held in Japan and China. Over 150 boys have made kites and will fly them. There will be five prizes, as follows: For highest flier, for greatest pull, for the least pull, for the most unique and original, for the best constructed kite.

Sammy Smith and Bobby Wilson have been selected by Mike Newmann as the principals in the main bout at the Long Acre A. A. to-night. Wilson is the hard-hitting Canadian lightweight who recently beat Young Otto up the State. Wilson has a good blow in either hand, and after weathering all the knockout wallops carried by Otto, he came through in the last rounds and had Otto "all in" at the bell. Eddie McDonald and Tommy Tracey will furnish the semi-windup.

EMPIRE CITY RACING.

Yonkers Stakes Average 65 Entries—Changes in Establishment.

Late California mails have increased the number of entries in the Empire City Handicap by the addition of Prince Ahmed and Rocky O'Brien. The Empire City Racing Association has the largest average entry list of any stakes closing in the East to date, the list being as follows:

Empire City Handicap, 64 entries; Yonkers Handicap, 57; Mount Vernon Handicap, 65; Fleetwing Handicap, 56; Midsummer Stakes, 64; Arrow Stakes, 55; Melrose Stakes, 62; Knickerbocker Handicap, 46; Whirl Stakes, 58; Tarrytown Stakes, 46; Wakefield Stakes, 96; Demoiselle Stakes, 74; East View Handicap, 79, and Frivolity Stakes, 89, being a total of 911 entries or an average of 65 to the stake.

In view of the increase of entries being two and one-half times the number of last year's entries, James Butler has decided to make important improvements and changes at the hill-top track. There will be a new Jerome Avenue entrance, and a new and much larger paddock, new general offices, and jockey quarters. The field stand will be torn down, the lawn lengthened, and a large number of new stalls will be built. All the best race horses in the East and West are nominated in the Empire City Stakes.

Yonkers racing this year will begin on July 21 and close on Aug. 3.

Carter Handicap Entries.

The Carter Handicap, which has been the first of the big stakes to be run on Metropolitan tracks for several years, until last season, is renewed this year, and will be run on the opening day of the season at Aqueduct on April 15. It will not have its former value of $10,000, but $2,500 will be the guaranteed value of the stake.

That the event should be well contested seems certain in the high class of horses already entered, thirty nominations having been made so far. Many of the best horses in training are in the list which follows:

King James, Restigouche, Firestone, Dalmatian, Jack Atkin, Alfred Noble, Glorio, Prince Ahmed, Right Easy, Trance, Mary Davis, Grassmere, Jack Parker, Falcada, Baucoup, The Squire, Prince Imperial, Wise Mason, Pretend, Fauntleroy, Arondack, King Cobalt, Tony Bonero, Far West, Charlie, Hargrave, Berkeley, Quantico, Guy Fisher, Duke of Ormonde, King Olympian.

The distance will be seven furlongs, and the weights will be announced April 1.

BOWLING TOURNEY VICTORS.

Cincinnatians Best in Two-Man Events—Rcord for Haley.

DETROIT, Mich., March 16.—Albert Daiker and Ed Wetterman of Cincinnati won the $500 prize for first place in the two-man event of the tenth annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress, which closed to-day. Their total of 1,231, made on March 6, was good enough to withstand the onslaughts of hundreds of teams during the last ten days of the tournament.

Thomas Haley of Detroit rolled into the lead of the individuals to-day with the remarkable total of 705, breaking the former tournament record of 699 made by Archie Wengler of Chicago at Cincinnati in 1908. Haley also went into the lead in the all-events with 1,961 pins.

Boy Dies of Football Injuries.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, March 16.—John Arhart of Grapevine, Texas, quarter back of the football team of Simmons College of Abilene, Texas, died to-day in the Baptist Memorial Sanitarium in Dallas from injuries received to his head in a football game last October. Arhart was 19 years old, and was rated as one of the best athletes in Texas. After being injured in the game at Abilene he insisted on playing not only through that game, but against the strong Baylor College team the day following. As soon as the Baylor game ended he collapsed, and had to be carried from the field.

Pole Vault Record for McMurray.

ANDOVER, Mass., March 16.—Charles McMurray of Chicago, Ill., made a new pole vault record for the interclass meet at Phillips-Andover Academy to-day, reaching 10 feet 8 inches, an inch higher than the old mark. A. B. Tilton of Brockton boosted the high jump record for the inter-class meet at Phillips-Andover to 5 feet 8 inches.

OLDFIELD SMASHES TWO WORLD RECORDS

Mile in 27 33-100 Seconds in Flying Start and 40 53-100 Seconds in Standing at Daytona.

DAYTONA, Fla., March 16.—Barney Oldfield, driving against time from a flying start, in his 200-horse power Benz, covered the fastest mile this afternoon ever traveled by a human being. His time was 27 33-100 seconds. Nothing projected into space by man save a bullet has ever traveled 5,280 fee at equal speed. The previous record was set here four years ago by Marriott, who drove a special Stanley steamer one mile in 28 1-5 seconds, at an average speed of 127.6 miles an hour. Oldfield's average to-day was 131.72.

Returning to the starting line between files of cheering spectators, Oldfield launched his car from a standing start against time again, and again crossed the line with a record. His time was 40 53-100 seconds, as against 41 23-100 seconds, made in the same car by Hemmery on the Brookfields track in England.

Oldfield came down the rock-like surface of the track to the starting line an indistinguishable blur of roaring flame and smoke. Before the overtaxed mechanism of the eye had adjusted itself to the changing perspective of his approach he was already dwindling into the distance, an dalmost before the brain had translated the impressions of sense into thought, he had crossed the finish line.

The timing for both races was done by C. H. Warner, official timer for the American Automobile Association, with the same mechanical device he used at the Atlanta and Indianapolis Speedways, and which has been officially adopted by the association. Ralph de Palma, Oldfield's rival, who was unable to start against him because of a broken piston, acted as representative of the Contest Board. A surveyor's certificate has been filed for the distance posts, and only the formal acceptance by the Contest Board is necessary before the record passes officially into the history of the annihilation of distance.

In the preliminary trials George Robertson, guiding Walter Christie's front-drive car, was sent away first, but made a false start and was recalled. The car balked for a second start, and, after twenty minutes of tinkering, Robertson withdrew. David Bruce Brown left next, and did the mile in 32 18-100 seconds. Oldfield followed with his two records.

The best previous official record for the mile from a flying start by a gasoline car is two miles in 58 2-5 seconds, made at Ormond Beach, Fla., in a 200-horse power car by Demogeot in 1906, at an average speed of 123.3 miles an hour. The best speed ever made by a locomotive is five miles in 2 minutes 30 seconds, over the Plant system, in March, 1901.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the aviator, covered a mile from a flying start in an eight-cylinder motor cycle in 46 2-5 seconds, in 1907.

To Begin Work on Motordrome Track.

Work of preparing the Brighton Beach Motordrome for the international twenty-four-hour race on May 13 and 14 will be begun this week under the supervision of William Clare, who reported yesterday to A. B. Cordner, Chairman of the Brighton Beach Committee, that the course is in better condition than it ever was before at this season of the year.

Philadelphia Cricketers Win.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 16.—The Philadelphia cricketers in the match with the Hamilton eleven, which extended over two days, won by five wickets.

WOMEN'S TENNIS FINALS.

Mrs. Schmitz Wins Indoor Singles Championship—Doubles Victors.

Both of the women's National indoor lawn tennis championships changed with the Englishwoman, Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, winning the singles, and Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Clara Kuttroff the doubles, yesterday. The singles championship was the first to be decided, and in this Mrs. Schmitz defeated Miss Erna Marcus after three grueling sets, 5—7, 8—6, 6—3. The doubles followed in the afternoon, Miss Wagner and Miss Kuttroff defeating the former holders of the championship, Miss Elizabeth H. Moore and Miss Erna Marcus, 6—2, 5—7, 6—3. In each of the competitions the rallies were long and well fought out. Aggressiveness and steadiness provided the main features of the champions' games.

The victory in the consolation singles fell to Miss Edith Handy of the Staten Island Ladies' Club, who defeated Miss Edith A. Bagg of the Hamilton Grange Club, 6—4, 6—2.

While Mrs. Schmitz came from England originally she is not necessarily an English champion now. She married Frederick Schmitz four years ago, and learned the game of tennis in this country, so that any talk about the cup she won yesterday going to England is entirely without foundation.

Miss Beall Wins Tennis Singles.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 16.—Miss Priscilla Beall of Uniontown, Penn., was the winner of the annual Spring tennis singles for women, defeating Mrs. Guy Metcalf of Providence, 6—3, 6—1, in the final round. Track Prospects at N. Y. U. Bright.

The prospects for a good track team at New York University this year are very bright. Al Copeland, who trained Princeton's athletes last year, has definitely decided to accept N. Y. U.'s offer and will coach the Violet runners this Spring. He will take charge of the work in the near future. In the meantime practice is going on under the direction of Capt. Norlin and although outdoor practice has been impossible as yet, on account of Ohio Field being in poor condition, the men are working hard in the gymnasium and are rapidly gaining form.

New York University has some very promising men on her team this year. Lauer, who took first place in the 60-yard dash at the Columbia games last Saturday night, and who holds the 100-yard record at N. Y. U., is expected to carry off the honors in the sprints. The high jump will be well taken care of by Warren Fielding, a N. Y. A. C. man who is a student in the N. Y. U. School of Commerce. The college will be well represented in the hammer and shot events by Cummings, a giant who formerly played on the Syracuse football team, and who stroked their 1907 freshman crew. Other promising members of the squad are Golden, Murphy, and Zimilli, in the sprints; Capt. C. F. Norlin, Smith, and C. E. Norlin, in the half and quarter mile runs; Brundin, Hyatt, and Crawford, in the hurdles, Cooney and Kraus with the shot and hammer, and Thorne in the mile run.

The track schedule was announced yesterday by the management as follows:

April 30, University of Pennsylvania relay races at Philadelphia; May 7, Lafayette at Easton; 14, Stevens Institute at Ohio Field; 18, Haverford at Haverford; 21, Rutgers at Ohio Field; 27 and 28, Intercollegiates at Philadelphia.

"4-40" Premier

Four-Cylinder Forty Horsepower

When a car has been made practically without change from the very beginning, and, during that time has entered and won Perfect Score in every Endurance contest of National scope—hadn't you better take notice?

The Premier has done that—only such changes as made for more power and greater refinement. The original design was right—the makers knew what they were doing, and still know.

A handsome car! See the sweeping lines. Power and effectiveness written all over it.

"The Quality Car"—it looks it and does it. $2500 —with double ignition, $2600.

Additional Specifications of the White Gasoline Car

The more closely the White gasoline car is examined, the more apparent becomes the superiority of its design. In minor details, as in its main features, the White is in advance of all other American cars. For example, the White is fitted with:

Compression Relief

To facilitate starting the engine, the compression is relieved by means of a small lever, located on the dash. The use of this lever allows the exhaust valves to remain open during the greater part of the compression stroke. As a result the White is the easiest to crank.

Lubrication of Connecting-rod Bearings

Oil is forced to each connecting-rod bearing, through oil-ways cut through the crank-shaft, and oil pipes carried upon it. (A connecting-rod bearing cannot be properly lubricated by the splash system.)

Crank-case Construction

The lower half of the crank-case is simply an oil-well and it may readily be removed without disturbing the crank-shaft bearings.

Adjustable Pedals

The pedals operating the foot-brake and the clutch are adjustable in height. Therefore, the driver of a White may operate the car in perfect comfort, whether he is tall, or short, or of medium height.

Radiator Support

The radiator is supported on a cross-member of the frame in such a way that it cannot receive any of the stresses and strains which come upon the frame. (This is a great advance over the usual practice of supporting the radiator on the side-members of the frame where it is subjected to the same strains which the frame receives.)

Alaska-Yukon Exposition Medals Are Held Not to be "Jewelry."

Small medals commemorative of the Alaska-Yukon Exposition were held yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers not to be dutiable at the rate of 60 per cent. as "jewelry." Instead, the board grants the claim of the Asiatic Export and Import Company for duty as manufactures in chief value of metal with a tax of 45 per cent.

The merchandise consists of so-called antimony brooches and scarf or stick pins intended for free distribution for advertising purposes. In the one case they are soldered to an ordinary brass pin, and in the other to a crude unpolished bar the back of which is provided with a cheap brass pin. According to the testimony the so-called brooches and pins have a value of about 2½ cents each. The articles are ephemeral in character and are intended not to be worn as ornaments, but as badges.

In sustaining the importer's contention General Appraiser Sharret says:

"The articles are local in character and designed for use for a limited period, after which they will no doubt be cast aside as worthless. Neither commonly or commercially would the merchandise be known as jewelry. Hence we sustain the claim in the protest that it is dutiable at 45 per cent. under Paragraph 193 of the tariff act of 1897. The Collector's decision in assessing duty at 60 per cent. is reversed."

A decision was handed down favorable to the claim of J. J. Buchey & Co. regarding the classification of dominoes composed of wood, one surface of which is covered with a thin coating of celluloid. The board holds that the articles are not dutiable as pyroxylin at 65 cents a pound and 25 per cent. ad valorem, but instead are entitled to entry at 35 per cent. as being in chief value of wood.

PROFESSIONAL PRESSURE

Unsettling Rumors Circulated in Connection with Selling—Interest in Attitude of English Bank.

The energetic efforts of speculators for the decline were rewarded in the early part of yesterday's stock market session by furthr sharp recessions in prices all along the line. At the conclusion of trading on the previous day it was the opinion of observers of transactions in the loan crowd on the floor of the Stock Exchange that the borrowing demand for stocks was the largest witnessed in many weeks, and with this clear evidence of the creation of a substantial group of operators for the fall it became simply a question of how far down prices could be forced without attracting support. It is just possible that the disclosure of the character of the selling, which came with the attempt to get into circulation for market purposes a report which was made to do similar service last week, concerning the death of one of the foremost figures of Wall Street, now abroad, provoked buying rather than selling. The report itself was just as false as was its predecessor of last week, and it might be inquired, incidentally, if it would not be worth the while of the Stock Exchange authorities to discover who is responsible for this highly discreditable performance. The recovery from the morning's depression was prevented from developing into anything like a sustained advance by the uncertainties which, in Wall Street's opinion, at least, still attend the railroad labor situation, and by the current misgivings over our foreign trade returns and the money market position. Trade returns are admittedly unpleasant, but this fact forms no reason for overlooking the unfavorable influences of a temporary character at work in the situation, including the heavy volume of imports inspired by the fears of tariff wars with Canada and France. So far as the firmer rates for money are concerned, it is at least interesting to note that if business were falling off in the fashion in which the Stock Exchange predicted six weeks ago the course of money would be quite difficult. There seems to be little comfort in this, however, for the disappointed prophets, however illogical their present attitude may be. Good news from the Winter wheat country and from the various points where negotiations are under way to effect compromises between the railroads and their employes, a cheerful review of the week by the leading iron and steel trade organ, and a splendid annual statement from the Steel Corporation itself, showing a surplus of 10½ per cent. for the common stock, as against a trifle over 4 per cent. in the preceding year, were the chief items of the day's news budget.

At the moment more interest appears to be taken here in what the Bank of England will do to-day regarding its discount rate than in London. The great speculation in Rubber issues, which has, of course, overflowed into other departments, along with heavy Government financing and the flotation of foreign loans in the English capital, has forced private discounts to quotations above the Bank rate. These various matters, together with the continuous demands upon the Bank for gold, may possibly result in a somewhat higher discount and react upon our own market through takings of gold. An indeterminate factor of an offsetting character, however, is to be found in the willingness of foreign investors and investment institutions to take our new issues of securities in quantities unequaled in recent years.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Diminished Activity with Narrow Price Movements on the Curb Market.

COPPERS ARE IRREGULAR

Small Gains in a Few Stocks Offset by Losses in Others—Bond Department Continues Active.

Curb trading was in smaller volume yesterday and prices moved narrowly with no definite trend up or down. At the close a few trifling gains were recorded which were offset by losses of small fractions in other issues. Butte Coalition, Miami, Ray Central, and Nipissing closed even with the opening levels. Intercontinental Rubber after opening at 27⅞ went to 28¼ and became reactionary. The price at the close after transactions reported at 7,700 shares was 27½. Trading in the bond department continued active although price movements were inconsiderable.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—Speculation in Lehigh Valley Railroad stock was the active feature in the local market again to-day. The volume of trading in this issue was large, exceeding 20,000 shares, and the price bobbing up and down between last night's closing level and ⅝ advance. Cambria Steel receded slightly in sympathy with the decline in United States Steel. The traction stocks were heavy, Rapid Transit and Union Traction both declining fractionally, as the labor dispute still remained unsettled. One big block of 1,300 shares of Rapid Transit sold at 20½.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Missouri Pacific Syndicate Closed.

The syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., formed in January to underwrite $29,806,000 of the Missouri Pacific new issue of bonds, has been closed up without any call having been made for cash upon the subscribers to the syndicate. The profit to the syndicate members amounted to 2½ per cent. of the amount of their subscriptions. The bonds were offered to the stockholders of the Missouri Pacific for subscription at 95 and were underwritten by the syndicate subject to this privilege of subscription accorded to the shareholders. A good many of the bonds were taken by the Missouri Pacific stockholders, and of the balance, it is understood, a large amount was placed by the bankers abroad. It is seldom that syndicates are wound up without any need of a payment by the syndicate members, and for this reason this Missouri Pacific syndicate was regarded yesterday as remarkably successful.

Chesapeake & Ohio Meeting.

The Directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio are expected to hold a meeting today, at which in all probability the pending Hockey Valley deal will be discussed and possibly action taken on the plan of the Chesapeake & Ohio management to provide funds for the acquisition of the Hocking Valley and for other purposes. The amount of this proposed financing has been reported in banking circles at $30,000,000, and convertible bonds have been looked upon as the probable form of the securities which the road will sell. There has been no official admission so far, however, that these are the lines which the proposed financing will take.

The Bank of England Rate.

The Bank of England minimum rate of discount, which now stands at 3 per cent., is thought likely by many bankers to be advanced to a higher figure to-day. The open market discount rate in London was above the bank rate yesterday, which helped to strengthen the belief that the official rate will be advanced to-day. At the same time there was no unanimity of opinion among bankers here as to the action the Directors of the English bank may take to-day. Some houses here were in receipt of cable advices from presumably well-informed London sources that no rise in the discount rate was likely, while other similar advices were of the opposite import. Here in New York time money rates for the shorter periods showed a firmer tone, an advance in these rates following the hardening of call money rates in the last two days. Should an advance in the Bank of England rate which would attract gold to that centre be made to-day the possibility of New York being called upon soon to send gold abroad would have to be considered as a factor in the local money market.

Recovery in Amalgamated.

Amalgamated Copper, though it shared fully in the weakness of the early market, made one of the best recoveries before the close. At its low point it was 1½ points below Tuesday's close and recovered all but ⅝ of this loss.

Dull in Steel Preferred.

In contrast with United States Steel common, which led the market yesterday in point of activity, was the trading in the preferred. All day yesterday less than 3,000 shares of this issue appeared on the tape, compared with more than 179,000 of "little" steel. In the last hour no sales were reported, the total business in the preferred after noon amounting to only 200 shares. At the close the preferred, like the common, was 1 point off.

Vagaries of a Narrow Market.

A sale of Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred, yesterday, at a decline of 9 points from the last previous sale, made two weeks ago, illustrates the disadvantages of a narrow market. Although there have been sales of odd lots since the previous quotation of 80 was made two weeks ago, yesterday's sale at 71 was the first to affect the official quotation.

⁂

The forthcoming issues of city 4½s had been the subject of broader speculation on the Curb than traders are usually willing to risk in "when issued" contracts for securities of this character. The reported transactions have ranged up to $100,000 in one day, and traders say that there has been a still larger business in the offices and not reported. The price has ruled around 101⅛.

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Commenting on conditions in the trade, The Iron Age says:

> Betterment in the volume of business in finished materials has come in the past week, accompanied by a continuance of sporadic buying of pig iron at lower prices. While there has been one official expression from the car industry, to the effect that the extent of new business has been exaggerated, definite inquiries from the railroads are now pending in number sufficient to give distinct encouragement to plate and structural mills. In January and February the various steel companies shipped considerably more than they booked. In some lines March has brought new business at a rate close up to the rate of shipment. In seasonable products, particularly wire and wrought pipe, the movement has been noticeably better.
>
> The bulk of pig iron buying is still by large interests, which are willing to supply a part of their needs for the third quarter and second half at the low prices they can command in the present interval of uncertainty. There are evidences that more pig iron has been bought for later months of the year than is commonly understood. The weight of current production of merchant iron upon the market is more apparent as general buying is delayed. In Southern iron the weakness is more marked on early deliveries, while in forward contracts Northern sellers seem equally willing to make concessions.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 16.—Trading on the local Exchange was confined to a few active stocks and prices generally were inclined to ease off. Match fell below 99 before midday; Sears-Roebuck showed a loss of 1⅞, and Brick a point at midday. Carbon rose a point and Edison a fraction. Brick not only made up its earlier loss, but advanced a full point above yesterday in the late trading. Match closed at 98⅝, Booth 36, and the preferred 68⅜, while Swift shares were a shade under yesterday's figure. Sears closed at 158¼, compared with 160 yesterday.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 16.—North Lake, which was the active leader in the local market, made a gain of well over two points on favorable advices from the property. Lake Copper also got under way after an uninteresting opening, and by 2 o'clock the price was up over a point. Indiana, Ojibway, La Salle, and Copper Range were other strong features.

On the other hand there was continued weakness shown in Amalgamated, North Butte, and the other Butte issues, although the selling was not particularly heavy. The general list closed strong, with but little stock offering.

COLUMBIA HOLDS ROWING MEETING

Students Give Assurance That the Sport Will Be Strongly Upheld.

If earlier in the year enthusiasm in rowing seemed to be lacking at Columbia, there was no lack of it apparent last night when about 600 undergraduates gathered in University Hall for one of the largest mass meetings that has been held at the university for years, and with rousing cheers backed every plan that was proposed for the furtherance of interest in this sport. Among the speakers at the meeting were two deans of the University, "Van Am" and Goetz. J. D. Livingston also spoke.

Dean "Van Am," who has always been only too glad to do all in his power to arouse greater interest in all the sports, but especially rowing, made the opening speech, urging the entire undergraduate body to stand firmly behind their crew. He added that he sincerely hoped that on his retirement from his office of Dean of Columbia University this year he would see the Blue and White eight across the tape at Poughkeepsie, leading all the other crews.

The speech which aroused the greatest enthusiasm was that of J. D. Livingston, who as the President of the "Early Eighties" represented the alumni body. "I have," he said, "a great message to carry back to the alumni. It is that the reports that the undergraduate body is not enthusiastically backing their crew is all false. I believe that they could have no warmer support than this meeting here plainly indicates. And I have, too, a message to you students now at the university. The alumni are back of every effort that you make in athletics, and they are there with the cash—plenty of it."

During the couse of his speech Mr. Livingston announced that the income from the $1,000 that had been left to the alumni by the Hudson-Fulton Commission, a surplus from the fête at Columbia, to be used each year to increase the interest in some one line of sport, had been voted by them this year toward prizes in an interclass regatta, the date of which had been set for May 14.

Following the rowing speeches, Dean Van Am presented the basket ball squad with gold basket balls, and warmly congratulated them in their victorious season and in having the best record of any of the colleges for the past six years.

FOUGHT WITH BROKEN ARM.

Saunders Knocked Out by Schmidt in Sixth Round at Sharkey's.

Fighting gamely for six rounds with a broken forearm, George Saunders was finally knocked out at the Sharkey Athletic Club last night by Connie Schmidt, a husky Teuton from Jersey. Saunders was substituted for Jack Fitzgerald and started out like a whirlwind. In the first round he hammered Schmidt with right and left smashes in the face. In the second and third rounds Saunders kept jolting his man, and the only effective punches which Schmidt was able to send back were short arm jolts to the stomach and ribs in the clinches. In the third round Saunders made a terrific swing at Schmidt. The blow hit Schmidt's shoulder and the arm was strained. In the next round, when Saunders tried another swing to his opponent's head, the forearm was broken just above the wrist.

After that Saunders was in much pain, but told no one of the accident but his seconds. He fought gamely on, round after round, but the tide of battle went against him. Schmidt woke up after the fourth and found no trouble in landing on Saunders's head when the broken right arm offered no defense. Saunders used his left with good effect, and with this one-hand jabbed Schmidt's face until it was bruised and swollen. During the last three rounds, Saunders offered little or no resistence to his opponent's shower of blows. He could hardly raise his right arm and took his punishment gamely.

Several times he was forced back to the ropes and ducked to avoid Schmidt's rushes. His footwork saved him during the last part of the fight. In the tenth, Schmidt went in with a rush to finish his man, but Saunders stalled cleverly for the greater part of the round. He was finally cornered, and a swift right punch to the jaw followed by a left to the face sent him to the floor and he was counted out.

Creeley Shades Ferguson.

Jack Creeley had slightly the best of a six-round bout with Joe Ferguson at the Avon Athletic Club in Brooklyn last night. In the early stages of the battle Creeley tired his opponent, and while Ferguson was at all times aggressive he could not land effectively, and his blows lacked steam. Throughout Creeley showed much the cleverer work.

Girls Outshoot Boys' Team.

The girls of the Curtis High School are jubilant over their victory last night in a shooting match against the boys' team, who were the pick of the school, with the exception of Wanty and Wiechers, the latter recently winning the City Championship Cup at Madison Square Garden. Of the girls who shot, Miss Crandall and Miss Fancher are sharpshooters, and the others are marksmen. Smith and Laty are also sharpshooters, so that the teams were evenly matched. The scores:

WESTON REACHES STERLING.

Pedestrian Quits Sandy Roads and Plods Along on Railroad Track.

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT BEND, Kan., March 16.—Edward Payson Weston left Great Bend at 5 o'clock this morning, and expects to reach Hutchinson to-night and spend the night there. When he left Great Bend a small crowd accompanied him a part of the way out of town. Weston was in good condition. He reached Ellinwood at 8:30 o'clock, where the townspeople turned out to meet the pedestrian, and accompany him through the town. He made a short address to the people gathered on Main Street, and then started on his trip to Sterling, passing through there at 4:45 P. M.

The roads between Ellinwood and Sterling are very sandy, and Weston will follow the railroad. From Sterling to Hutchinson he has a twenty-mile walk on perfect roads, and he expects to cover the distance in less than five hours.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., March 16.—Edward Payson Weston, the seventy-two-year-old pedestrian who is walking from Los Angeles to New York City, will arrive in Hutchinson early in the morning. To-night he is resting at Nickerson, after completing forty-two miles, the distance between that city and Great Bend. Aside from being a little sore, having been bruised by a careless auto driver near Great Bend, Weston is in the best condition.

FENCERS' LONG SESSION.

Contests for the President's Medal Confined to Early Rounds.

The annual three-weapon individual fencing contests of the Amateur Fencers' League of America for the President's Medal, donated by Dr. G. M. Hammond, was held last night in the gymnasium of the New York Athletic Club. The entry list necessitated the using of two strips, on which four men engaged each other in bouts for a period of over two and a half hours before the elimination contest came to a close. It was expected that the tournament could be completed last night, but owing to the long drawn out bouts it was necessary to postpone the final round until Thursday night.

The combatants were compelled to use three different weapons throughout the tourney, consisting of foil, sabre, and dueling swords, and the two surviving members of each round to meet in the finals.

V. P. Curti of the New York Athletic Club proved the best swordsman, and of the nine bouts in which he took part he was victorious in eight. G. Postgate and A. Strauss, both of the New York Turn Verein, with seven bouts each, came next to Curti. The final round is expected to furnish exciting sport now that it has narrowed down to the best men of the league. The summaries:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Wednesday.

Covering to secure profits on the short side was conducted on a large scale on the Consolidated Exchange, but the loaning rates for stocks at the close of the day nevertheless indicated that a very considerable short interest was being carried over. There was further commission house liquidation in the early dealings, but commission houses also handled many buying orders in odd lots for "bargain hunters." Total sales were 118,570 shares, distributed among sixty different issues.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Americans Decline in London and the Close Is Flat.

LONDON, March 16.—Money was plentiful and the demand was moderate to-day. Discount rates were easier on the improved Continental exchange situation and prospects of a gold influx reducing the possibility of an immediate advance in the Bank of England rate of discount. The market, however, will not be surprised if the rate is increased to-morrow.

The stock market developed a firm tone with the satisfactory conclusion of the heavy settlement. Home rails, rubber shares, and mines were active and dearer, while consols improved on the preparation for the coming Exchequer bond issue. Rio Tintos were firm, following the declaration of the final dividend of 30s.

American securities opened quiet and then hardened a fraction on light buying. Reports of labor troubles and dear money affected the market, and prices fell below parity. In the afternoon Wall Street sent selling orders, and the leading stocks declined from one to two points. The close was flat.

Bar silver steady, 23⅝d per ounce.

Money, 1¼@1¾ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3@3⅛ per cent.; for three months' bills, 3⅛ per cent.

PARIS, March 16.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 98f 37½c ex interest.

Exchange on London, 25f 21½c for checks.

BERLIN, March 16.—Trading was dull on the Boerse to-day.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

4,663. BINDING AND PAPER BOX MATERIALS.—A large European manufacturer of boxes, who is also engaged in bookbinding, as well as dealing in the materials, has called on an American Consul with a view to obtaining from manufacturing houses in the United States samples of stock and prices. He states that if he can get card and strawboard with the right price he can sell 630 tons or more per year. He is very anxious to obtain samples and prices at as early a date as possible. He desires unbleached as well as bleached varieties of cardboard.

4,664. REPRESENTATION IN ARGENTINA.—A Cuban business man writes that he proposes to go to Argentina in May as the representative of a large Cuban cigar and tobacco factory, and he would like to get in touch with American firms producing goods suitable for that market and desiring an agency for the exploitation of them.

4,665. CARBONIC PAPER MACHINES.—An American Consul reports that he has received a communication from a local business house requesting the names of manufacturers of carbonic paper machines, with which it desires to communicate with the view of making purchases.

4,666. AMERICAN GOODS FOR MANCHURIA.—The manager of an importing house in Manchuria informs an American Consul that he would be glad to hear from American manufacturers interested in the introduction of their goods in that market. This company makes a specialty of machinery, but does not limit its activities to that line. Banking references are furnished. In a conversation the importer referred to stated that he was interested in the possibilities of business in that region, and American manufacturers of watches might do well to communicate with him.

4,667. REPRESENTATION AT BRUSSELS EXHIBITION.—A Belgian business man, who has been employed by an American life insurance company, to which he refers, advises an American Consular officer that he is desirous of representing some American exhibitors at the international exhibition to be held in Brussels the coming Summer.

4,668. AMERICAN HOP GROWERS AND MERCHANTS.—An American Consular officer in England reports that he has received an inquiry from the Secretary of a local organization asking for a list of American hop growers, factors, and merchants.

4,669. WATER AND STEAM METERS.—An enterprising business house in a city of Eastern Europe has requested assistance from an American Consular officer in arranging for representation of an American company manufacturing steam and water meters. All responses should be sent to the Consular officer in question for transmission to the inquirer.

4,670. PEANUTS IN GERMANY.—A report from an American Consul in Germany states that after diligent inquiry he finds that the peanut is practically unknown in his district. After talking with various confectioners he sees no reason why that product would not find a reasonable market if properly introduced, and sends a list of firms with which correspondence regarding this matter should be taken up direct. Correspondence should be in the German language.

4,671. RAGS AND BONES.—An American Consul in the West Indies reports that a business man in his district wishes to be placed in touch with firms in the United States dealing in rags and bones.

4,672. FACTORY FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF NOODLES AND MACARONI.—A business man in Germany advises an American Consul that he contemplates erecting in the United States a factory for the manufacture of noodles and macaroni. He desires to hear from commercial bodies or city authorities wishing to locate factories. The chief ingredients used in the manufacture of noodles are wheat groats and eggs, and it is desirable to locate the factory where these may be had at reasonable prices. The amount to be invested will be about $40,000.

4,673. AMERICAN BEESWAX WANTED IN RUSSIA.—An American Consular officer in Russia reports that a local company doing last year a business of $1,500,000 in beeswax is anxious to arrange for purchases in the United States. The company requests samples and lowest prices for cash. Letters with samples addressed to the officer transmitting the report will be handed to the inquirers.

New York Y. C.'s Tentative Schedule.

The Regatta Committee of the New York Yacht Club announces the following tentative schedule of racing events for the season of 1910: June 16, the Spring Cups, off Glen Cove; New York Yacht Club series, July 7, 8, and 9, annual regatta off Newport, and during August the annual cruise. On July 7 the races will include the contests for the Bennett Cups.

Hoppe Beats Sutton for 18.1 Title.

CHICAGO, March 16.—Willie Hoppe of New York to-night won the 18.1 balk line billiard championship of the world by defeating George Sutton of Chicago, 500 to 228. Hoppe's average was 16 20-30 and Sutton's 7 15-29.

Billiard and Pool Winners.

In last night's game of the amateur handicap three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at McGraw's Billiard Academy, at Thirty-fifth Street and Sixth Avenue, Louis Pell (5) defeated H. Ditmars (0) by a score of 30 to 22. Pell's high run for the game was 4, and Ditmars's 5. In to-night's game Sylvester Levy (5) will oppose C. H. Warrington, (scratch.) In the continuation of the handicap pool tournament, G. W. Hayman won his fourth consecutive straight game last night by defeating A. Jerome by the score of 65 to 51.

Professionals May Drive in Brushes.

A general meeting of the Road Drivers' Association of New York was held last night at the Hotel Cadillac, Forty-third Street and Broadway. The meeting was called for a general revision of the by-laws, but with one exception no change of importance was effected. This change makes professionals eligible to drive in Speedway brushes. The amateur rule was adopted two years ago, but was found to be objectionable to many of the members. The change was adopted unanimously. The position of paid Secretary was abolished and made honorary. The Brush Committee will in future be allowed to determine the number of heats in all Speedway brushes.

PRUDENTIAL STOCK AT AUCTION

Advertised at Weekly Sale, but Withdrawn Before the Bidding.

Among the securities advertised to be sold at auction yesterday at the regular weekly sale of securities in the Vesey Street salesroom were two blocks of the stock of the Prudential Insurance Company of America. One lot was 204 15-100 and the other 377 68-100. The fact that in the same group of securities advertised were a number of New Jersey bank stocks and other shares of local interests in Newark led to the inference among frequenters of the auction room that the insurance shares represented the division of an estate.

Prudential stock is closely held. The quotation has been $550 to $600 a share. The stock was withdrawn from the sale yesterday, and in consequence no price was established.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Grains Dull and Easier on News of Broken Drought—Provisions Irregular—Cotton Dull and Lower.

The trade in wheat was very limited, and there was only a small outside interest in the market during the day. The demand was somewhat more active early, owing to the firmness of the cables, and as a result there was a little covering of shorts. Later the market turned heavy, and sold off with a small net decline for the day. The influences against the market were the reports of rain in the Southwest. The weather map showed light showers in Texas, and later private dispatches indicated showers in the sections through Kansas and in parts of Oklahoma. The reports did not indicate that the rain amounted to much, although late the market was rather heavy on additional advices of showers in Kansas. The receipts were rather liberal in the Northwest, and the total primary movement shows a continuation of a good movement from farmers' hands. The demand for wheat for milling is, however, slow, and there is persistent complaint regarding the amount of flour being sold. Notwithstanding this the production is large, and a great deal of wheat is being ground. Cash wheat locally was inactive. Nominal prices were: No. 2 red, $1.26½ to arrive, costs, insurance, and frieght; $1.29¼ free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.25½ free on board; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.18½ free on board.

The corn market was quite weak, and prices showed a distinctly declining tendency. The reason for this was the liberality of the receipts and an evident pause in the cash demand. The stocks are large, and as soon as the demand shows any signs of letting up there is immediately some evidence of the pressure of cash corn on the market. The buying is not large, and the recent advance in the market appears to have eliminated the export demand, which was quite a factor last week on the break. Cash corn was moderately active locally. Sales were reported of steamer at 65¾@66c, No. 4 at 63½c, No. 3 yellow at 66¾c, and steamer yellow 66c.

Oats were also lower, although not very active. There was a good deal of selling, in sympathy with the decline in corn. Receipts have recently been increasing, and this increase in the movement is having some little effect on trade sentiment. The cash demand is quiet and without much feature. Natural white oats were quoted at 50@52½c, white clipped 51½c@54s.

Provisions were fairly active and rather weak during the morning, with continuation of selling, partly due to margin calls and to the unsettling effect of Tuesday's sharp break. Live hogs were very steady, however, and the firmness in the hog market was a factor of considerable importance in the steadiness which followed the early break.

COTTON.

The cotton market was very dull and very steady all the morning. There was no evidence of any interest in the market either way, and fluctuations were without much character. Trade seemed to be very largely professional, and lacked feature. The news did not seem to be of a character to influence the market either way. There was some selling on the reports of rains in Texas, and this had a moderate influence on the market. There was nothing like aggressive selling at any time, although in the afternoon there seemed to be more confidence on the part of the bear interests, and there was slow but steady pressure and not much, if any, support. The attention of the trade seemed to be diverted more from the study of the technical situation to the study of the question of possible cotton movement from the South. There were reports that the amount of spot cotton being obtained at the South was of quite fair proportions, and there has been selling the past few days of a character which was rather indicative of such condition. The weather was excellent all through the South for fieldwork, and reports are beginning to be received of quite excellent progress in the planting operations. While there is uneasiness regarding the conditions in Texas, it is still early, and a heavy rain at any time within a reasonable period would alter the situation materially in that State.

Southern spot markets were generally unchanged.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Pennsylvania Loft Zone Active—Many Sales Reported and Numerous Buildings Projected—New Law Tenements in Demand—Bronx and Suburban Sales.

Two more old-fashioned dwellings in the heart of the Pennsylvania terminal loft zone were disposed of yesterday to make way for a sixteen-story store and office building.

One parcel, located at 48 West Twenty-fifth Street, on a plot 27 by 98.9, was sold for the Meisner estate by S. D. Cooper, while the adjoining parcel on lot 19 by 98.9 was sold by the same broken for Leonard L. Hill.

The buyer recently purchased the two adjoining houses to the west, Nos. 52 and 54, and now controls a frontage of 66.9 feet on which the new structure will be erected.

The property is only 100 feet from Sixth Avenue and is considered one of the largest and most valuable plots in the district. Adjoining it to the east is a large plot owned by Michael Coleman, while directly opposite is the property owned by John Jacob Astor, including the entire block front on the east side of Sixth Avenue from Twenty-fifth to Twenty-sixth Street.

Another important deal on the same street was negotiated by Louis Schrag, who sold for Mayer S. Auerbach to Dr. Furman Clayton of Brooklyn 215 and 217 West Twenty-fifth Street, two three-story dwellings on plot 42 by 98.9, 186 feet west of Seventh Avenue.

Construction Co. Buys on 28th St.

Frederick Fox & Co., in conjunction with Horace S. Ely & Co., have sold for the United States Trust Company, acting for the Donnell estate, to the One Hundred and Seventy-fourth Street Construction Company, Ignatz Roth, President, 46 West Twenty-eighth Street, a five-story building on lot 24 by 98.9.

Mr. Roth recently purchased at auction from the Patten estate for $94,250 the adjoining property at 44, and now controls a plot 50 by 98.9. A few weeks ago Sampson & Green purchased 48 West Twenty-eighth Street from the Hoguet estate, and the adjoining property, No. 50, was sold by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

37th St. Parcel Sold for Third Time.

Tucker, Speyers & Co. have resold for Samuel K. Jacobs of Walter Emmerich & Co., silk ribbon manufacturers, 5, 7, and 9 West Thirty-seventh Street, on plot 75 by 98.9. The purchaser is an investor and has commissioned Chester H. Kirk, architect at 1,133 Broadway, to draw the plans for a twelve-story store and loft building similar in character to the Murray Hill Building at 8 to 14 West Thirty-eighth Street.

The building will be ready for occupancy about Jan. 1, 1911. The George A. Fuller Construction Company will probably receive the building contract. Tucker, Speyers & Co. have been appointed agents for the building. This is the third time this firm has sold this property in the last eight months.

Theresa Blumenthal and Julius Breunman have sold to Ackerson & Higgins 420 West Thirty-seventh Street, a three-story building, on lot 25 by 98.9.

John Mulowskey resold to a Mr. Hill 233 West Forty-sixth Street, a three-story building, on a lot 25 by 100.5, between Broadway and Eighth Avenue. Mr. Mulowskey purchased the property about ten days ago from the Danahar estate.

Adolph Humpfner & Co. have sold for Samuel Braunstein to a client for investment, the three-story private house 304 East Forty-second Street, adjoining the corner of Second Avenue, on lot 15 by 98.9. The same firm has also sold the Rutherfurd Stuyvesant estate leasehold, 324 East Twenty-first Street, near Second Avenue. This completes the sale of the row of houses adjoining the New York Post Graduate Hospital's recent acquirements.

Adolph Humpfner & Co. have sold the three-story private house 62 West 114th Street, between Fifth and Lenox Avenues, the purchaser, after making extensive alterations, will occupy the premises.

New-Law Tenements in Demand.

New-law tenements on the east side appear to be in good demand as investment property, several large deals having been recorded during the past few days.

Gordon & Levy have sold the tenement house 198 Avenue A, on lot 25 by 96.

Miss M. Monahan has sold for Miss Susan Mount 616 Third Avenue, a four-story tenement, on lot 24 by 80, adjoining the southwest corner of Fortieth Street.

Annie B. Desel has bought through Emma Desel from the Gallagher estate the five-story tenement 448 West Forty-second Street, adjoining her property, which makes a plot 72 by 98 feet, fronting on Forty-second Street. This property has not been sold for over forty years.

R. E. Dowling Buys Block Front.

Robert E. Dowling has purchased from H. D. Hotchkiss the plot 200 by 100 comprising the block front on the east side of Tenth Avenue, between 208th and 209th Streets.

Heller & Sussman have sold for Anna Ruderman the southwest corner of Thames Street and Morgan Avenue, a five-story tenement, with stores, on plot 33 by 100.

The Leonard Moody Real Estate Company, in conjunction with Donnell & Kilian, sold the plot, 90.4 by 90 and irregular, on the west side of Franklin Avenue, 31.2 feet north of St. Marks Avenue, for Otto W. Walter to the Rogers Improvement Company, for immediate development with stores and dwellings.

Tearing Down Old Stranahan House.

The fine old house familiar to Brooklynites for years as the residence of the late James S. T. Stranahan, at 269 Union Street, near Clinton Street, is now being torn down and on its site will be erected an apartment house. Mr. Stranahan, for years before his death in 1898, was popularly known as the "Father of Prospect Park" and "The First Citizen of Brooklyn," and a handsome statue by MacMonnies, to his memory, stands at the entrance to Prospect Park. Mr. Stranahan's house with the large grounds around it, occupying the entire block on Clinton Street, between Union and Sackett Streets, and opposite the South Brooklyn Carnegie Library, was sold last year, and five four-story double apartments for forty families are just being completed on the property. It was found impossible to convert the old house into modern uses, and it will give way to apartments.

Suburban Sales.

The Yonkers Realty Exchange and Duross Company have sold to Norman Veitch the premises 92 Elliott Avenue, South Yonkers. The house is one of those recently taken in exchange for New York property by the seller, John Clarke.

Recent Buyers.

Harry Muller is the buyer of the two buildings, 229 and 231 Seventh Avenue. The plot adjoins the northeast corner of Twenty-third Street.

Dr. J. C. Johnston is the purchaser of the dwelling 115 East Fifty-sixth Street, reported sold Tuesday.

Morton H. Meinhard is the buyer of 1,016 Madison Avenue.

A. H. Mosle is the buyer of 110 East Eightieth Street, sold recently by Davis & Robinson for Mrs. F. C. Beatty.

Evans Block Title Transfered.

Title to the block bounded by Broadway, West End Avenue, Eighty-ninth and Ninetieth Streets, was transferred yesterday by the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Institute Society to the Broadway-West End Company, of which Robert E. Dowling is President.

The purchasing company gives back mortgages on the property aggregating $1,000,000—$325,000 on each of the Broadway corners, 100.8 by 150, and $175,000 on each of the West End Avenue corners, 100.8 by 175. All of the mortgages are for five years at 5 per cent. interest.

The Broadway-West End Company has reconveyed the northeast corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-ninth Street, 100.8 by 175, to the Realty Company of America, of which Franklin Pettit is President.

Aside from the amounts involved, these transfers possess an added importance in that they mark the end of the long litigation in which this property has been involved and the final clearing of its title.

Germania Life's $1,000,000 Building.

D'Oench & Yost, architects for the Germania Life Insurance Company, filed plans with Building Superintendent Miller for the new twenty-story office building to be erected for the company on the northeast corner of Fourth Avenue and Seventeenth Street, just south of the proposed 20-story building on the site of the old Clarendon Hotel. The building will be of the French Renaissance design, with a tall mansard roof, containing the top four floors, and will be of brick and granite, having an avenue frontage of 80 feet and a frontage of 115 feet in the street. It will be 281 feet high, finished with a decorative balcony along the third story and massive pillars supporting clustered lamps at the entrance. The building is to cost $1,000,000. On completion of the building the Germania Life Insurance Company will occupy the lower floors, moving from their present offices at 20 Nassau Street.

New Lofts in 22d Street.

Plans have been filed for a twelve-story mercantile building to be erected at a cost of $400,000 at 16 and 18 West Twenty-second Street, running through to 15 and 17 East Twenty-first Street, for the Building and Engineering Company, of which William H. Birkmire, who acts as architect, is President, and for a twelve-story loft and store building at 150 to 154 West Twenty-second Street from designs by Bowne & Almiroty, architects, for the Marmac Construction Company. The cost is placed at $225,000.

Fort Washington Apartments.

Plans have been filed for a six-story apartment house to be erected at a cost of $175,000 from designs by F. A. Wright, architect, for the Mutual Apartment Company, Frank Kling, President, at the northeast corner of Wadsworth Avenue and 180th Street, and for a six-story apartment house for the J. M. Luick Construction Company from designs by Charles Kreyinberg, architect, on 181st Street, east of Fort Washington Avenue, to cost $100,000. The buildings are to contain thirty-seven and sixty-one suites, respectively.

The Auction Market Flourishing.

There was some spirited bidding in the Vesey Street Salesroom yesterday for the properties belonging to the Samuel Sloan, Edward J. King, Louis Schultz, and Jane Riley estates at the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly.

The first parcel offered was for the estate of Samuel Sloan, deceased, and consisted of 57-59 Washington Street, below Rector Street, a plot of about 3,400 square feet, which was secured by Andrew J. Shipman on a bid of $60,250. Mr. Shipman was acting for the pastor of St. Joseph's Maronite Roman Catholic Church, who will use the property for mission purposes. The old Sloan dwelling and stable at 21 West Sixteenth Street, extending through to 16 West Eighteenth Street, was secured for $100,000 by Heil & Stern, acting for a client, who is a manufacturer, and he will probably improve the plot by the erection of a loft building.

The southwest corner of Tenth Avenue and Twenty-third Street, a plot 98.9 by 100, with old four-story buildings, sold to close the estate of Louisa Schultz, deceased, was sold to Albert J. Appell for $119,000.

Several speculators actively competed for the ten dwellings at 121-139 West 111th Street, sold for the King estate. Charles E. Hess secured six of them for $75,900, Joseph H. Fink secured three for $36,900, and Isaac Borman secured one for $13,000. Frederick Kopple secured on a bid of $18,300 443 East Seventy-eighth Street, a five-story flat sold for the estate of Jane Riley. This sale gave further proof of the underlying strength of the auction market, and its ability to absorb well located property at prices very satisfactory to the sellers. In another column will be found full summary of this sale.

New 20th Street Loft.

C. P. H. Gilbert, architect, has filed plans in the Building Department for the twelve-story loft and store building to be erected on the property 35 West Twentieth Street, 25 by 92 feet, for the Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church of Princeton, New Jersey.

The present building on the site will be demolished and work started on the construction at an early date.

STEEL CORPORATION NEAR BANNER YEAR

Quickly Recovering from Depression, Its Orders Far Exceeded Capacity at the End of 1909.

NET EARNINGS $131,491,414

Output in Some Respects Greater Than in 1907, but Lower Prices Kept Profits Under—More Exports.

The annual report of the United States Steel Corporation giving in detail the record of the rapid recovery during 1909 from the depression which the steel trade experienced in 1908 was made public yesterday. The production of finished products by the corporation last year amounted to about 75 per cent. of its normal maximum capacity, but at the close of the year all the plants of the company were working under full headway with more than 5,900,000 tons of unfilled orders on its books, including 462,000 tons on order for export. The production in most departments last year about equaled, and in a few departments exceeded, the record for the banner year, 1907, but both the gross and net earnings fell far short of the record for that year owing to the lower level of prices which prevailed during 1909 compared with 1907.

The gross earnings of the Steel Corporation during 1909 were $646,000,000, compared with $482,000,000 in 1908. In 1907 they amounted to $757,000,000. The net earnings were $131,491,414, compared with $91,847,711 in 1908 and $160,964,673 in 1907. The earnings were small early in the year, but rose rapidly as the year advanced. From $22,921,268 during the first quarter they rose to $40,982,746 in the last quarter, and the monthly earnings from $7,262,605 in January rose to $13,222,776 in December. The January earnings were the smallest of the year, and the October earnings, amounting to $14,048,205, the largest.

In Some Ways Ahead of Best Year.

The corporation's report of production of crude and finished products shows that in several items the output in 1909 ran well ahead of that of 1907. This was true among other products of wire and of heavy structural shapes, but the production of steel rails, while 669,000 tons ahead of 1908, fell short of the 1907 figure by 160,000 tons. The production in tons for the last three years compares as follows:

	1909.	1908.	1907.
Ore mined	23,431,047	16,662,715	23,080,558
Coke manufact'd	13,590,112	8,169,931	13,544,764
Coal mined	3,089,021	3,008,810	3,550,510

Blast furn. prod.	11,618,350	6,934,408	11,422,795

Steel rails	1,719,486	1,050,389	1,879,985
Wire and wire pr.	1,607,689	1,275,785	1,481,226
Heavy structural shapes	658,516	813,733	587,954
Total rolled and oth. finished steel products	9,859,660	6,206,932	10,564,537
Spelter	27,853	28,058	31,454
Sulphate of iron	33,582	26,411	25,540
Port. cement, bbls.	5,786,000	4,535,300	2,129,700

Shipments for domestic consumption of rolled and other finished products showed an increase for the year of 57.9 per cent., and the tonnage of all materials except cement, an increase of 49.1 per cent., and cement an increase of 37.5 per cent.

Volume of Exports Greater.

Exports for the year amounted to 1,009,746 tons, an increase of 26.3 per cent. The prices received during 1909 were 14.3 per cent., less than the prices received during 1908 on domestic shipments, while the prices received on materials exported averaged 7.8 per cent. below those of 1908. The report states that during 1908 and the early part of 1909 there was a marked tendency on the part of foreign producers to force sales of surplus products in foreign markets at unremunerative prices.

The Steel Corporation paid in wages and salaries last year $151,663,394 to 195,500 employes, compared with $120,510,829 paid to 165,211 employes in 1908. The payroll in 1907 amounted to $160,825,822, and the number of employes in that year was 210,180. Of the 25,000 shares of preferred stock offered to the employes in January for subscription at 124, a total of 24,672 shares were subscribed for by 17,444 employes. At the close of the year there were 21,458 employes who had purchased preferred or common stock under the several offers of stock made by the company.

Expenditures during the year on the Gary plant amounted to $11,081,367, bringing the total expnditures on this plant and its appurtenances on Dec. 31 last up to $53,878,597. Two subsidiaries of the Steel Corporation are to construct new plants at Gary, and will obtain their raw products from the Gary mills. The American Bridge Company will build a plant with a capacity of 120,000 tons of fabricated structural material, and the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company a plant for the manufacture of plates and sheets, with an annual capacity of 200,000 tons.

The capital expenditures during the year amounted to $37,916,250. The property acquired included large coal tracts in Illinois and Indiana.

AN OFFER TO ROCKEFELLER.

Prisoner Wanted to Sell a Burglar's Kit to Him for His Watchmen.

Thomas Cleary, 23 years old, of 227 East Forty-third Street, was held in $1,000 bail yesterday morning in the Jefferson Market Court for examination to-day on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was arrested on Tuesday night by Policeman Callahan of the West Twentieth Street Station.

Cleary is employed by the United Metal Works Company, at 530 West Twenty-sixth Street. The firm has been missing quantities of metal recently and reported the thefts to the police. Callahan, who was detailed to investigate, noticed Cleary leaving the building with his pockets bulging out. When searched at the police station, the police say, they found in his pockets three newly made blackjacks and a revolver.

Cleary told Magistrate Herbert that he had made the weapons to sell to John D. Rockefeller for the Standard Oil watchmen at Great Barrington, Mass., to which the Magistrate replied that "Mr. Rockefeller has done fairly well without having recourse to a blackjack in the past, and I guess he can do without those playthings now."

RINGS STOLEN ON A FLIER.

Detective's Smart Capture of Negro Accused of Robbing Young Woman.

Magistrate O'Connor in Harlem Court yesterday complimented Detective Hawkins for his quick recovery of two valuable rings. They are the property of Ena Norris, a young society woman of Utica. On Friday she will appear to prosecute William Landis, colored, 43 years old, of 21 West 136th Street, a Pullman porter on the Twentieth Century Limited.

When Hawkins arrested him in a Third Avenue pawnshop yesterday Landis carried the two rings Miss Norris says were stolen from her in a Pullman coach.

Yesterday morning Miss Norris returned to Utica and complained to the Pullman Company of the theft of the rings. Hawkins was assigned to the case. He walked up and down Third Avenue until he saw a negro entering pawnshops. He finally arrested him. The man said he was Landis, and Hawkins recovered the two rings. Magistrate O'Connor held the prisoner in $1,000 bail.

JERSEY UTILITIES BILLS PASS.

Give Old Railroad Commission Power to Supervise All Public Corporations.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., March 16.—After hours of ineffectually trying to amend the Wakelee Public Utilities bill as introduced yesterday in the Senate, it was passed on third reading at 8 o'clock this evening. A similar bill, the Pierce measure, was passed in the House before midnight. It was said to-night that each body will adopt the other's measure.

Both bills provide that the name of the railroad commission shall be changed to the Public Utilities Commission with power of supervision extended over all the public utilities of the State. It requires public utility corporations to keep books according to the system laid down by the commission. The commission also has power to order an absolute stopping of rebates, unjust, unfair, or unreasonable discrimination of rates, or any other unjust, unreasonable, or unfair discrimination.

The measures also strike at stock watering by providing that no sale or delivery of stock shall be legal until approved by the commission.

FREE BATHS AT CONEY.

Mr. Prendergast, After an Inspection, Favors the Boston Idea.

Controller Prendergast, Alderman Drescher, and Charles O'Malley, head of the Real Estate Bureau of the Department of Finance, took a trip to Coney Island yesterday to look into the question of the establishment of a system of free municipal baths brought before the Board of Aldermen recently by Mr. Drescher.

The Controller was so favorably impressed that he will send Mr. O'Malley to Boston in the near future to investigate the free baths maintained by that city at Revere Beach. The Alderman will accompany him.

Must Explain Gifts to Dr. Knapp.

Supreme Court Justice Newburger reserved decision yesterday on the aplication of Dr. Marc I. Knapp, who is suing his father-in-law, Adolph Schlesinger, for breach of contract, for a bill of particulars in reference to a defense set up by the father-in-law that he has advanced $10,000 in cash and deeded property worth $100,000 to him. Dr. Knapp has another action pending against his father-in-law for the alienation of the doctor's wife's affections.

EQUAL PAY DEFEATED; TEACHERS' HOPE GONE

Education Board Votes, 23 to 15 Against It, with Only One Woman Member for It.

MISS STRACHAN NEAR TEARS

Snubs Metz Because He Said It Was the City's Business to Hire Teachers as Cheaply as Possible.

The equal pay measure so long advocated by women teachers met a crushing defeat yesterday afternoon in the Board of Education. For the first time the board had a chance to vote on the principle of equal pay for men and women with no complications as to where the money was coming from. The vote stood 23 to 15 against it.

The board voted deliberately, after hearing a two-hour discussion covering the best arguments on both sides. Three of the four women members of the board voted against equal pay. It was one of the surprises of the meeting. Miss Olivia Leventritt was the first of the women to vote "no," and that instant distinct moans were heard from the gallery. But when the name of Mrs. Christine Towns was reached and she voted a firm "aye" the applause from the gallery could not be restrained.

After the final vote the advocates of the plan admitted that it was dead, so far as the Board of Education is concerned, for at least a decade. The eye of hope can be turned only to Albany. The Legislature has been besought before and both the Governor and the Mayor have vetoed the equal pay bills passed.

The matter came up at a special meeting of the board, having been brought from the January meeting so that Commissioner Somers, the board champion of it, who was then in California, could be present. Mr. Somers spoke for half an hour yesterday, pointing out how under the present salary schedule there were discriminations against the women teachers which should be corrected.

He said that it took a man teacher in some cases only twelve years to reach his maximum salary, while some of the women teachers had to work seventeen years before their maximum salary was obtainable. Then he advocated the principle of equal pay as a matter of justice to the women, asserting that the pay ought to be measured by the responsibilities of the place, not by the sex of the person who did the work.

Ex-President McGowan of the Aldermen said he understood that most of the members favored the equal pay principle, but were afraid the money to make it effective could not be obtained. He for one, he said, had always voted in the Board of Estimate to increase the teachers' pay, and to give them equal pay.

This brought Mr. Barrett to his feet to say that he did not approve the equal pay principle in any particular whatsoever. While he was ever in favor of better salaries, equitably distributed, he had been against equal pay and expected to continue to be.

Ex-Controller Metz said he and other members of the board were not there for sentiment, but to conduct the business of the city in a businesslike way.

"It is not a question of sentiment, but one of supply and demand," he said. "If you can get the best teachers for $600 a year and that is enough to support them in comfort and dignity, it is the city's business to get them for that. I would like to have it understood that the schools are conducted for the children, not for the benefit of the teachers.

"If men teachers of a high class ought to be brought into the schools and supply is such that only high salaries can draw them, then they ought to be paid well. The same thing about women. I am in favor of paying the women more than the men if they are needed and cannot be obtained for less than the men."

Here is how the members voted:

Ayes—Commissioners Cosgrove, Cunnion, Ferris, Delaney, Katzenberg, McGowan, Meyer, Pisani, Somers, M. S. Stern, James E. Sullivan, M. J. Sullivan, Thompson, Mrs. Towns, and Whalen—15.

Nays—Commissioners Aldcroft, Barrett, Bruce, Coudert, Dresser, Greene, Harrison, Haupt, Holland, Kanzler, Miss Leventritt, Man, Martin, McKee, Metz, Newman, Mrs. Post, Mrs. Robbins, Abraham Stern, C. J. Sullivan, Weiner, Wilsey, Winthrop—23.

Miss Grace Strachan, the recognized champion of the equal-pay idea, was almost in tears when the result was announced by Secretary Palmer. When Miss Strachan made her way across the room to thank Mr. Somers, ex-Controller Metz approached her as if to engage her in conversation, but she quickly brushed by him.

She would not make an extended statement about her future plans for the measure.

"We hope to win some day, that is all I can say now," she said.

Miss Strachan, alone of the advocates, perhaps, would have been unaffected by the adoption of the principle for which she labored as her $5,000 salary as a District Superintendent would have remained the same.

FOR THE TABLE.

Nice little St. Patrick's Day cookies are cut in the shape of a shamrock and have a green pistache nut in the centre.

Meat prices just now are about their highest. In downtown markets and the east side avenues prices of loin and French chops are 30 cents a pound, and in large shops several cents higher. Shoulder chops are 22 cents.

Porterhouse steak is 30 cents, and the short cut of the steak 26 cents. Round steak is 20 cents, and chuck steak is now 18 cents a pound. Round for corned beef is 20 cents a pound, rump 18 cents, and brisket 10 cents.

New potatoes, 15 cents a quart. Sweet potatoes, 12 cents.

Spinach is at 15 cents for not very good quality. String beans, 12 cents a quart.

Cauliflower, 15 cents a small head. Three bunches of pieplant, 25 cents.

Best eggs, eight for 25 cents.

Red bananas, 8 cents apiece.

A fine large pineapple is 25 cents. Strawberries in the market and in lower-priced avenues may be had for 50 cents. In other districts nearly twice as much.

ARREST TRADE LABEL MAKERS

Rival Concern Charges They Used Its Private List of Customers.

Isaac H. Weis of 320 Manhattan Avenue and Spencer Junge of Pompton Plains, N. J., manufacturers of trade labels, were arrested last night by Detectives Boyle and Price charged with a misdemeanor in using compiled lists of customers of the German Artistic Weaving Company of 683 Broadway, manufacturers of silk labels, by whom Junge was employed ten years as a salesman until he recently set up in business with Weis. The German Artistic Weaving Company, the complainant in the case, obtained a warrant from Magistrate Cornell yesterday morning.

Both men were released on $500 bail at Police Headquarters. Junge said later that he had used in his new business a personal list of customers compiled by himself as a memorandum in the ten years of his employment by the German Artistic Weaving Company. He termed his arrest business persecution.

Two weeks ago the same two men were arrested on a charge of petit larceny preferred by the same firm, and Benjamin Wehrland, the manager of its factory at Paterson, N. J., who charged them with stealing labels. The case has not yet come to trial.

BRONX DETECTIVE INQUIRY.

Bureau Is Shut While, Apparently, Capt. Price Calls the Roll.

The Bronx Detective Bureau was closed tight last night from 10:30 to 11 o'clock, Detective Tierney and Lieut. Gilday standing guard outside the door to keep any one from entering. Capt. Price, in command of the bureau, declined later to explained the secrecy. It was rumored, however, that, stirred to activity probably by the recent remarks of Mayor Gaynor about detectives and ununiformed policemen, the Captain had elected to hold a roll call and see just what his own men were doing.

Two detectives hurried up to the building just before the expiration of the half hour, and were overheard to ask the men on guard if Capt. Price had called the roll yet. Neither Gilday nor Tierney answered the question, but they admitted the detectives to the bureau.

The appearance of Capt. Price at the bureau after 7 o'clock at night in the past has meant that something of extraordinary interest to his bureau was on foot. Never before in the annals of the bureau has there been roll call of plain-clothes men at 10:30 or 11 o'clock at night. There are forty-four men under Capt. Price.

TAX AUTOS BY HORSE POWER.

Jersey's New Plan to Make Them Pay for Damage to Roads.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., March 16.—New Jersey is determined to make the automobilists pay in full for the damage they do to the roads. This was shown to-day by the introduction into the Senate by Mr. Brown, Monmouth, of a new rate for auto licenses as follows: Three dollars for autos less than ten horse power; $5 for machines from ten to fifteen horse power; $10 from sixteen to twenty horse power; $15 from twenty-one to twenty-four horse power; $20 from twenty-five to thirty-eight horse power, and $25 from forty horse power upward.

Receiver for Lauterbach Property.

Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman granted the application yesterday of Mrs. Edith A. McDavitt and her sisters to appoint a receiver for property in the hands of their mother, Amanda Friedman Lauterbach, which they and their father, Edward F. Lauterbach, allege constitutes a trust fund. "Although the affidavits in the case are conflicting," Justice O'Gorman said, "there is sufficient equity to require the maintenance of the status quo until the trial. This will impose no appreciable burden on the defendant and may be vital to the interests of the plaintiffs."

Lectures for Women Civic Workers.

At the annual meeting of the Woman's Department of the National Civic Federation yesterday, it was decided to give a season lecture ticket with each $10 membership fee. A series of lectures has been inaugurated by Miss Elizabeth Marbury, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. Mrs. Francis McNeil Bacon, Jr., was elected Chairman of the Executive Committee yesterday to succeed Mrs. Francis Higginson Cabot.

Autoists on Trial for Manslaughter.

In the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday the trial of two autoists on a charge of manslaughter in the second degree for running down and killing a man was begun before Justice Crane. The accused are George Fenn and James F. Cross. They are charged with having caused the death of William Jardine on May 24 last at Fourth Avenue and Sixty-seventh Street.

CITY BREVITIES.

Controller Prendergast has appointed Major F. H. E. Ebstein, ex-Deputy Police Commissioner, chief auditor of his office, at a salary of $5,000 a year. Major Ebstein was made Secretary to the Commissioners of Estimate and Appraisal early this year.

Magistrate Moses J. Harris, recently appointed by Mayor Gaynor to succeed Henry J. Furlong, took his place yesterday on the bench in the Gates Avenue Court, Brooklyn. He received many floral gifts.

Corporation Counsel Watson has promoted Joel J. Squier, an assistant attached to the Bureau for the Condemnation of Real Estate, to succeed John P. Dunn as head of the Bureau of Street Openings. He will receive $6,000 a year. Dunn drew $7,500.

Because the body of Robert Fulton lies in Trinity churchyard, the Rev. Dr. William Manning, rector of Trinity Parish, will receive to-day a set of the nine Hudson-Fulton medals cast by the Numismatic Society for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. Another set, intended for the Bishop of London, will be sent to him next month.
